SOFT COAL RULE BILL IS SIGNED BY ROOSEVELT

Tax Measure Also Given Approval.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today signed into law two of the most important New Deal bills approved by congress—the Guffey coal regimentation bill and the new 254 million dollar tax measure, which clears the way for increased taxes on incomes and estates. He also signed the alcohol control bill.

As Roosevelt appended his name to the Guffey bill, which he demanded, despite constitutional doubts, "however reasonable," he was surrounded by the interests whose threats of chaos, strikes, and disaster had forced the measure through congress.

Miners' Head Present.

Present were John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, who has been threatening a national soft coal strike since last April; Charles O'Neill, vice president of the Peale, Peabody & Kerr Coal company, one of the large eastern operators standing to benefit from the monopolistic provisions of the bill; Senator Matthew M. Neely [Dem., W. Va.], who managed the bill in the senate and threw out in conference an amendment intended to protect the Chicago market from the eastern monopoly; Senator Joseph F. Guffey [Dem., Pa.], author of the bill, and half a dozen others.

Mr. Roosevelt presented the pen with which he signed the bill to Senator Guffey, who voted "down the line" with the administration and got what he wanted in the end.

Guffey Is Jubilant.

"It is the happiest moment to me of this session of congress," Guffey declared.

The Guffey act sets up a special NRA for the bituminous coal industry which is to be regimented by a national bituminous coal commission in the department of the interior and twenty-three district boards composed of operators and one labor representative. The district boards, subject to the approval of the national commission, will determine "fair trade" practices, allocate tonnages that may flow into the various markets, and fix prices by which, it is estimated, consumers will pay as high as $2 or $3 more a ton for their coal.

Fourteen Price Fixing Areas.

The law provides for fourteen minimum price fixing areas and includes in area No. 1 Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana, along with Pennsylvania and West Virginia. This will enable Pennsylvania and West Virginia operators to compete with those of Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana in the Chicago market regardless of freight advantages, and Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] says it will increase the price of coal by $2 or $3 a ton in Illinois. It was an amendment setting up a special minimum price area for these three states that Senator Neely threw out.

As originally drafted, the bill carried an appropriation of 300 million dollars by which the government was to take "submarginal" mines out of production, but this was eliminated by the house of representatives. A tonnage tax of 15 per cent on coal at the mines, however, remained in the bill. Ninety per cent of this is to be refunded to operators who comply with the coal code to be drafted by the district boards and approved by the commission.

Several "Strikes" Averted.

The United Mine Workers are still working under contracts that expired last April, but were extended from time to time at the behest of President Roosevelt. The first deadline was June 16, by which time new NRA legislation was expected, and then, when the Supreme court killed the NRA, the Guffey bill was made the price of the threatening mine workers. Each threatened strike was "averted" in melodramatic fashion by the intervention at the last minute of President Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins.

Senator Josiah W. Bailey [Dem., N. C.] called the insistence upon passing the Guffey bill "government by intimidation."

Mr. Lewis said after the ceremonial signing that the legislation would "to a considerable extent clarify the situation." A meeting of the wage

BENNY HOWARD WINS AIR RACE TO CLEVELAND

Roscoe Turner 23½ Seconds Behind.

Killed in Takeoff

Cecil Allen, 33, California speed flyer, whose tricky racing plane was little more than a flying engine, crashed to his death two minutes after a delayed start from Burbank, Cal., yesterday in the Los Angeles to Cleveland air race. Allen's motor failed just as he cleared the runway and he crashed in a nearby field, narrowly missing a power transmission line. Details on page 4.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Benny Howard, veteran Chicago air mail pilot and racing plane designer, took a high sky road, and Roscoe Turner, speed flyer, held to the lower levels over the 2,042 mile Bendix trophy course from Los Angeles to this city, and landed here this afternoon only 23½ seconds apart in elapsed time. Howard's time was 8 hours 33 minutes 16.3 seconds, 13 minutes behind the record.

Howard tentatively was declared the winner with an official average speed of 238.704 miles an hour. In the first reports issued by timers, Turner's average speed was placed at 238.522 miles an hour. A final recasting of Turner's time is to be made later after the Cleveland timers communicate with those at the takeoff.

Russell Thaw Third.

Russell Thaw, flying a Northrup Gamma with a Wright Cyclone engine, landed at 5:08 p. m., assuring himself of third place. Thaw left almost two hours after Roy Hunt, who arrived here three hours behind the winner in an elapsed time of 11 hours 40 minutes, to take fourth place. Thaw's time was 10 hours and seven minutes. Hunt flew a standard Lockheed Orion low wing cabin monoplane.

Amelia Earhart and Paul Mantz, her co-pilot, landed at 5:42 p. m. for fifth place with an elapsed time of approximately 13 hours, 40 minutes.

Howard's prize money will amount to $4,500, Turner wins $2,500, Thaw $1,500, Hunt $1,000, and Miss Earhart $500.

The race today was the most dramatic since 1930 when Post flashed across the finish line at Chicago to win by a margin of less than five minutes. In that race six airplanes finished within 15 minutes, having made a race horse start.

Start 2 Hours Earlier.

Howard and Gordon Israel, his co-pilot, landed nearly two hours ahead of Turner, having started that much earlier in accordance with National Aeronautical association rulings, which required staggered takeoffs.

The record, 8 hours 19 minutes 45 seconds, was set by James G. Haizlip in 1930.

Nine planes took off at Burbank, Cal., this morning for Cleveland. Cecil Allen, the last to start, was killed two minutes later when his plane crashed in a field. Royal Leonard was forced down at Wichita, Earl Ortman stopped at Kansas City, and Jacqueline Cochrane could get no farther than Kingman, Ariz.

Flying 15 Years.

Howard learned to fly 15 years ago. He was one of the early barnstormers, then worked as assistant designer in an aircraft factory at Wichita. He began flying the air mail in 1926, and was a first pilot for several airlines before going to United Airlines for which he still flies on the New York-Chicago division.

In 1930, when living in St. Louis, Howard built his first racing airplane. On his vacation he went to the National Air Races at Chicago and, although his plane had only a 90 horse power motor and was outclassed by most of the machines against which it was flown, he managed to win the affection of pilots and audiences and the largest single share of cash prizes.

He also won the title "the Pylon Polisher" by his daring flying. After those races the airline ordered him to stop his outside flying, but he built racing ships which have won money in the hands of other pilots for years. The high wing cabin racer Howard flew today also was designed and built by him.

Judge Lewis Critically Ill at His Home

Judge Harry A. Lewis of the Superior court, who has been ill of cerebral thrombosis and complications since Aug. 14, was reported in a critical condition early today at his home, 6629 Harvard avenue. Only slight hopes, it was said, are held for his recovery.

Judge Lewis became ill while on a vacation at his summer home in Ludington, Mich. He was brought home at once and has since been under the care of Dr. Frederick Lofton. Dr. Lofton indicated that his patient's strength was slowly ebbing and that there was no likelihood of his return to health.

At the bedside of the judge are his wife, Mrs. Mary S. Lewis, and his daughters, Mrs. Ethel Stephens, Mrs. Esther Feltman, and Miss Alberta Lewis.

From 1901 to 1904 Judge Lewis was an assistant state's attorney. He was county attorney of Cook county from 1904 to 1912. For seven years thereafter he was in private practice. Since 1919 he has been on the Superior bench. He is a Republican.

TRIBUNE WILL AID COAL USERS; NEW DEPARTMENT OPENS

THE TRIBUNE announces today the establishment of a new department—"Friend of the Coal User." With the enactment of the Guffey law setting up a price fixing and marketing monopoly in the soft coal industry, the householder's need for economical firing, proper insulation, etc., becomes more important.

It will be the purpose of this new department to teach economies in coal consumption and thus enable users to meet with less loss the added expense which the coal law is to load on the public.

The service of "Friend of the Coal User" is available to householders, flat owners, and industries. Inquiries and problems should be addressed "Friend of the Coal User, Tribune office, Tribune Tower, Chicago."

OWNER OF SHOP FLEES; ROBBERS KILL HIS WIFE

Mrs. Marianne Immler, 46 years old, was shot and killed last night by three robbers who invaded the basement delicatessen store she and her husband, Max, conducted at 2834 North Laramie avenue.

MRS. MARIANNE IMMLER.

Immler was in the rear of the store when the robbers entered shortly before 10 p. m. His wife was in a bedroom separated from the shop by a swinging door.

"This is a holdup," said the leader of the bandits as he approached Immler. "Put up your hands."

Instead of obeying Immler darted through the door into the bedroom and cried to his wife: "Follow me. Robbers in the store." Thinking that Mrs. Immler was following him, he continued his flight, urged on by the bullets the bandits were firing through the door.

Mrs. Immler, however, was shot down in the bedroom. Three bullets struck her in the chest and she died soon after the arrival of a physician.

U. S. May Act on Protest to Soviets Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt indicated at his press conference today that the state department would take some action tomorrow in the row with the soviet union over interference with the internal affairs of this country.

Other than saying that the state department might have something tomorrow, Mr. Roosevelt declined to comment on the Russian controversy. The state department has been just as silent, indicating that the blunt rejection by the soviets of this country's protest and warning of "serious consequences" delivered in Moscow last Sunday has placed the administration in a peculiarly embarrassing situation.

Possible Courses Listed.

After a series of conferences between Secretary Hull and other officials of the state department, it was asserted in reliable quarters today that there is no immediate intention of severing diplomatic relations. Three other courses of action were possible:

1. Withdrawal of Ambassador William C. Bullitt and leaving the embassy at Moscow in the hands of a chargé d'affaires.

2. Sending of a second note of protest.

3. Letting the matter drop, with a public announcement to that effect, as the state department did after the failure of the soviet debt negotiations.

Reply Is Embarrassing.

It has been admitted in quarters not so far removed from the President that the protest against Red plottings at the recent world congress of the comintern [communist internationale] was intended largely for domestic consumption. Kindly words about the Roosevelt administration were spoken at the congress and this was calculated to be embarrassing with an election coming on in 1936. But perhaps more embarrassing was the soviet reply denying any responsibility for the comintern and rejecting the American note.

Roosevelt May Not Be President in '39, He Says

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A reporter at the presidential press conference today asked Mr. Roosevelt if it was true that he intended to balance the budget by 1939. President Roosevelt smiled and said: "I might not even be President in 1939."

100,000 See Last Tower of Sky Ride Fall

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The east tower of the famous sky ride of A Century of Progress Exposition crashed to earth at 3:04 o'clock yesterday afternoon, bringing to ruin in 42 seconds what had taken a year or more to build.

With the falling of this mass of steel, which, with its twin tower, wrecked several months ago, cost $1,133,000 to build, and ferried 5,000,000 persons above the city of colorful dreams, the last major operation in the work of removing the exposition was completed.

The tall grass is growing now along the streets where forty million visitors once loitered before magic doors. Soon the winter winds will sing the Fair's final requiem and the snows will cover its grave until the coming of another spring, and perhaps another and more permanent exposition.

Thousands Watch Fascinated.

The last big scene on the exposition grounds was watched by thousands of people. Park officials estimated that 100,000 were gathered in the immediate vicinity of the grounds. Additional thousands parked their cars along the outer drive, north and south of the grounds. The lake front was crowded and all the nearby buildings were festooned with people waiting as if fascinated for this tremendous wreckage. A fleet of small craft was anchored in the lake just east of Northerly Island to see the fall of the tower.

Those who watched the spectacle from downtown towers saw the fires that burned out the northern supporting pillars of the tower and caused the crash, but they heard no sound. Those who stood within a thousand feet of the tower heard a great roaring and a final crash that sounded like a roll of thunder.

The destruction of the tower was a perfect engineering feat, everything being timed to the second and happening just as planned. The work was done by the Barker-Goldman-Lubin company, which has the contract for wrecking the exposition. Frank A. Randall was consulting engineer.

Northerly Island Cleared.

No one was allowed on Northerly Island outside the planetarium grounds except four workmen who had built fire boxes around the two north legs of the tower in which were 750 pounds of thermite, a mixture of aluminum and iron oxide. The boxes were connected by electric wires with a switch that had been placed across the lagoon on the south end of the board walk. George Lindburg, general superintendent, was in charge here.

From another end of the board walk Maj. Lenox Lohr, general manager of the exposition, set off an aerial bomb at three o'clock. This was the signal for a brief ceremony in which Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, made a few remarks over the radio. Concluding these, he said:

"Now I touch the button for this great tower to fall."

Burst of Flame Precedes Fall.

Does steel burn? Five thousand degrees of temperature was set against these mighty pillars. The flames and black smoke mounted rapidly. At a distance of two miles the globes of flame surrounding the north legs of the tower were plainly visible.

The top wavered northward gently and in a few seconds the lower part of the structure crumpled. The wavering became a swaying, then a swift and mighty descent. In 42 seconds it was all a mass of crumpled steel laid out for the wreckers.

The history of the sky ride, which was to A Century of Progress what the Ferris wheel was to the Columbian Exposition of 1893, thus ended as a triumph of engineering skill and care.

U. S. AND BRITISH INTERESTS WILL EXPLOIT NATION

Win 75 Year Charter from Emperor.

BY SIR PERCIVAL PHILLIPS.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 30.—The grant of enormous concessions by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia to Anglo-American interests was revealed today.

If, as is possible, the British government is privy to this agreement, it means that Premier Mussolini's aims in Ethiopia have been forestalled and that the privileges which he hoped to obtain by conquest have now become the property of British and American capitalists.

The American capital involved is said to be the Standard Oil interests.

Grants 75 Year Charter.

The instrument of this far-reaching transformation is a convention conferring upon F. W. Rickett, as an envoy of the African Exploration and Development corporation, the sole rights to the oil, mineral, and other natural resources in more than half of the Ethiopian empire for 75 years.

This will enable the exploitation of Ethiopia by American and British capital on a scale beyond the wildest dreams of foreign applicants for concessions in the past. All such applicants hitherto had failed to break down the barriers of Ethiopian conservatism.

The convention was signed by the Ethiopian minister of mines in behalf of the emperor at 8 o'clock this morning after experts had worked for 12 hours on the final draft. Haile Selassie was unable to sign personally as today was one of the church's principal fast days and, in accordance with custom, he abstained from all work.

Report King Signed Pact.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Addis Ababa said Emperor Haile Selassie signed the convention a few minutes before 12 o'clock midnight Thursday. The emperor was said to have rushed the signing before the Friday religious fast began.]

The signature of the minister of mines was witnessed by Everett Andrews Colson, American financial adviser to the emperor, who was entrusted with the scrutiny of the final draft.

The area over which the African Exploitation and Development corporation has been given sweeping concessions embraces all territory in the empire lying east of a line drawn from the frontier of Eritrea south along the fortieth degree longitude to the Hawash river, thence southwestward to Lake Rudolph, where it meets the Kenya frontier. This is an area of 150,000 square miles, or more than the combined areas of Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa.

Includes Valuable Oil Fields.

It includes the valuable oil fields of Aussa and Jigjigga, both comparing favorably in quality and quantity of output with the field in Iraq covered by the Iraq Petroleum company's concession.

The field at Aussa, it is learned, was recently offered to Italy on behalf of the emperor for a payment of cash which was to be utilized for the employment of advisers devoted to the development of modernization of the empire, possibly under the auspices of the league of nations. The offer was turned down by Mussolini.

In addition to the Anglo-American charter, Emperor Haile Selassie is understood to have entered other negotiations of even greater importance to Great Britain. Proposals have been drafted for the conservation of the water of Lake Tsana, the source of the Blue Nile, by a company which will probably be called the Lake Tsana Conservancy syndicate.

Huge Irrigation Project.

This combination will be formed by interests representing Ethiopia, the Sudan, and Egypt, with a capital investment of about $50,000,000 divided between them. This will come from London and Cairo.

It is proposed to build a dam and pumping stations, increasing the output from Lake Tsana to the Blue Nile. This will not only assure an adequate water supply in perpetuity for the Sudan and Egypt, but will enable thousands of acres now sterile to be brought under cultivation.

The Ethiopian government, which has studied the proposals, is said to consider this a satisfactory solution of the Tsana problem, which for years has been a bone of contention between London, Cairo, Khartum, and Addis Ababa.

If this deal goes through, a dam which will cost $20,000,000 and take three years to build will be constructed. The first step will be to confirm surveys made by the J. G. White company of New York on behalf of the Egyptian government.

See End of Feudalism.

The significance of the Anglo-American concession by the Ethiopian "king of kings" cannot be overestimated in view of the policy of isolation hitherto upheld by the Ethiopian rulers. It means the rapid and systematic emergence of the country from feudalism and its growth along western lines.

The revenue for Ethiopia within four or five years, it is estimated, will triple the present total annual revenue of $5,000,000. The emperor is said to have agreed to spend this increase for road building, hygiene, education, and other public projects.

The Anglo-American corporation, which is backed by one of the strongest and most important international groups ever assembled, will open the oil fields by building a pipe line 300 miles long from the neighborhood of Geludia, east of Harrar, via Jigjigga toward the sea either to the port of Zeila or Bulhar, British Somaliland.

Cost Put at $15,000,000.

The pipe line would cost at least $15,000,000 and British industry is expected to profit by having a big share in the construction. The amount of capital involved in the entire enterprise will be at least $50,000,000, of which the greater part will be found in New York.

Work is expected to begin almost immediately. Geologists, drillers, and other pioneer personnel will arrive within a few weeks.

Negotiations leading to the sensational coup, which have extended more than a year, have been in sole charge of Rickett, who is known in the middle east as the "Lawrence of Finance." He is a mystery man who for many years has been behind international financial operations involving the cooperation of British, continental European and American interests. He played a leading part in the division of the Iraq oil fields.

Italy to Be Let In.

The new prosperity of Iraq attracted the attention of Haile Selassie and he was brought into contact with Rickett, who on several occasions visited Addis Ababa. The final phase of the negotiations began eight days ago. The conversations were held in the emperor's palace, mostly at night, and were shrouded in secrecy.

Rickett left for Djibouti, French Somaliland, this morning by train. He will fly from there to Egypt and from there will return to London. Just before his departure he was asked if the development of the oil fields would proceed in event that Italy goes to war against Ethiopia.

"Yes, war or no war, we are going ahead as fast as possible," he replied.

Questioned as to whether Italy would have an opportunity to share the benefits of the concession, Rickett answered:

"Having helped Italy in the near eastern oil markets in Iraq, I feel there is plenty of room for Il Duce in the general exploitation of such a hospitable land as Ethiopia without resorting to force of arms."

Rome Is "Incredulous."

ROME, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Informed Italian circles expressed incredulity tonight at the report Ethiopia had given an American-British company a vast economic concession.

These quarters said such an arrangement, however, would not alter Italy's military program. It was asserted that if Italy has defied Britain's interest in Ethiopia her attitude would not be materially altered so far as the United States is concerned.

Italy well recognizes the task of converting Ethiopian resources to practical purposes is not simple, the Associated Press was informed, and therefore for the time being she may welcome any commercial enterprise of a neutral character undertaken in Ethiopia.

Denied By Socony-Vacuum.

Los Angeles, Aug. 30.—(AP)—John A. Brown, president and chairman of the executive committee of the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, said tonight he knew "absolutely nothing" concerning the signing of a charter providing for Anglo-American development of oil and mineral resources in Ethiopia.

Brown also disclaimed any knowledge of the African Exploration and Development company, reported to have been designated to control the enterprise.

The company was reported to be owned by the Standard Oil interests. Brown said the concern was not affiliated with the Standard Oil company, for which Socony-Vacuum handles many foreign operations.

Italian Consul General Here Is Ordered to Brazil

Giuseppe Castruccio, who has been Italian consul general in Chicago since 1928, has been transferred to the consulate general of his country in Sao Paulo, Brazil, and will leave for his new post in a few days. His successor here has not been named.

ETHIOPIA ADMITS SLAVERY EXISTS; FIGHTS TO END IT

Tribune Writer Pictures Condition of Bondsmen.

One of the chief charges, which Premier Mussolini is expected to make against Ethiopia as justification for Italy's proposed war of conquest, is the African empire's failure to abolish slavery. The Ethiopian government, which pledged itself upon its admittance to the league of nations to free the slaves, has taken several important steps to carry out its promise. Here is a remarkable story from The Tribune's correspondent in Addis Ababa telling of slavery conditions in Ethiopia today.

BY WILL BARBER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 2.—[By Mail.]—Slavery is the shame and curse of Ethiopia, but a foreigner could live here a long time without knowing it exists.

It does not intrude or force itself to one's attention, and it is impossible openly to purchase a slave. In many parts of the country slaves are bought and sold in secret, but Emperor Haile Selassie's government is trying to prevent such violations of the law by rigorous punishment of offenders. Offenders include not only the purchaser and the seller, but also the local chieftain and the district governor. The first fines are heavy—much more than the average Ethiopian's yearly income—and they are double for a second violation, while a third offense can bring a punishment of life imprisonment.

Slaves Sold in Arabia.

Slave running is still carried on in the back country, where occasionally local chiefs and even perhaps some governors (according to hearsay only) may be bribed, but the trafic is punishable by the death penalty, and is greatly diminished from the open and legitimate commerce it was fifty years ago. Such slaves as can be sneaked across the country are sold in Arabia, where slavery flourishes, though with much less noise being made about it than about slavery in Ethiopia.

The Italians have been making a great deal of excellent propaganda against slave running from Ethiopia to Arabia, but it is legitimate to wonder whether they are doing as much as they might do to stop the trafic. To get to the Red sea slave runners must pass through British, French, or Italian Somaliland or through the Italian colony of Eritrea. Only the British maintain a sea patrol to run down the Arab dhows in which slaves are carried hidden under bales of cloth or among piles of hides.

Neither the French nor Italians maintain such a patrol in the Red sea, and the proximity of the northern portion of French Somaliland and of a long strip of Italy's Eritrea to the coast of Arabia makes those places the easiest ones for sneaking slaves into a dhow and across the Red sea.

Report Slavery in Eritrea.

It might be remarked that the Italians have two chances to detect slave running. They could maintain a tight watch along their Eritrean frontier with Ethiopia and another watch along the seacoast.

Ethiopians, by the way, say that a certain amount of slavery still exists in Eritrea, but, since your correspondent because of Mussolini's censorship, cannot go there, he cannot say whether such a charge is true.

Slavery has existed in Ethiopia for many hundreds of years. Ethiopians explain it by saying that labor was needed to work their farms when the only wealth of the country came from the land and the number of men available was small.

"What was more natural than to make slaves of the prisoners we took, as every one used to do?" they ask.

Some Blame Egyptians.

Other Ethiopians say the Egyptians were to blame because they first gave the Ethiopians the notion that manual labor was vile.

In the old days war after war used to be waged against the Negro tribes of the Sudan and lands to the south. The Ethiopian mountaineers, civilized people, were better fighters and were able to bring in many captives as slaves. Today even the Sudan region supplies those slaves who are captured in the illegal slave trafic.

It was a bad day for Ethiopia when the first slaves were set to work. For two reasons.

First, the Ethiopians themselves lost the habit of working and soon they began to scorn not only labor but the arts as unfit for a warrior race such as theirs. In this they were helped by similar notions held by the Egyptians, with whom they used to be in close contact.

Second, the Amhara race descended from Ham was bastardized by concubinage or intermarriage with slaves. An Ethiopian on going to war would leave his wife at home and take along a few women slaves as mistresses. In a short time the Amharas lost their racial purity and became corrupted. The presence of Negro slaves or of Negroid offspring even had an influence on the church, and its Christianity picked up strange mannerisms from voodooism, manners that still exist, such as weird dances by priests.

Slavery Leaves Its Marks.

Leaving the work to slaves or to halfbreeds had the effect it always had in every country where slavery flourished. Greece would have been better off without its helots, Rome helped to pull itself down in similar fashion. The result in Ethiopia has been that today there exist only two crafts—the working of silver into crude crosses and ear-picks and the weaving of baskets. Not much for a country more than 2,500 years old and whose jewels and golden ornaments pleased King Solomon.

Enlightened Ethiopians, especially those who realize the harmful effect the toleration of slavery has on Europeans and Americans, are the first to admit the evil of slavery. But they wish to go slowly in freeing the slaves.

"Since the evil is recognized and the government opposes it, why aren't all the slaves set free?"

That is a question foreigners frequently ask. I have put it to leading Ethiopians, to foreigners working for the Ethiopian government and with a say in Ethiopia's affairs, and, more important, to both American and British missionaries. The answer always has been the same—the liberation of the slaves must be done slowly to avoid internal trouble with backward rases [or dukes] to prevent the slaves from starving to death, and to prevent them from becoming bandits once they have been deprived of easy livings.

Freed Slaves Turn Bandit.

Two British missionaries cited the instance of the thousands of slaves owned by Ras Hailu, who is now a life prisoner because of an attempted revolt in 1930. He had been to Europe—where, incidentally, he left a reputation as being a fellow with quaint notions—and one day he decided to free his slaves. He did. Many of them, according to these missionaries, turned bandits because they had not been accustomed to working farms for their livelihoods. Others became beggars, and others became public charges. Many tried to return to slavery.

The present is a bad time for wholesale liberation of slaves. Ethiopia, like every other country in the world, has been hard hit by the depression. Almost the only wealth of the country lies in the land, and most slaves, having been brought up to do picayune jobs as attendants, have small knowledge of farming. The country's finances would not permit great numbers of slaves to be carried as public charges.

The emperor himself might like to get rid of many of the freed men who infest his palaces; they do little work but draw his money, constituting an appreciable burden year by year. Being freed men, they are at liberty to quit his service whenever they want, but they don't want to.

Rich Free Slaves on Death.

About the best hope for ending slavery in Ethiopia, according to foreigners who live here, is continuation of the present policy of freeing slaves on the death of their master. It is now the practice of rich men on dying to free their slaves and to give them a parcel of land on which they can live as farmers. If all slave owners did that it would take only another generation to end slavery.

No one knows the number of slaves at present held in Ethiopia. It may run into hundreds of thousands in a population of 12,000,000. The number of slaves freed through the bureaus for suppression of slavery since the first one was opened in 1926 is very small—only 14,000. Better progress has been made in recent years and the figures supplied to the league of nations for the year ending August, 1934 (latest figures available) show that 3,647 slaves were freed in that period and 293 men were condemned to fine or imprisonment for selling or buying slaves or for making slaves of the children of slaves.

Slaves are dressed just the same as paid servants and appreciably better than the free Ethiopians who do the heavy work in Addis Ababa. There are no instances of brutality in public. Indeed people who know the country say that the slaves are very well treated and Harriet Beecher Stowe would have a hard job writing an Ethiopian edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." All Ethiopians and many Europeans insist the slaves are chiefly domestic servants and are treated just as well as members of the family. As for working long hours in harsh labor and with poor food, that doesn't seem to exist. One doesn't see slaves, for instance, carrying the heavy burdens borne by the Gerawgi porters.

ETHIOPIA STRIKES AT ITALY'S AIMS

Shaded portion of map indicates territory turned over to Anglo-American interests by Emperor Haile Selassie for development under a 75 year charter. This territory is rich in oil and mineral resources. The Ethiopian emperor's action is seen as a maneuver which may forestall Premier Mussolini's plans for conquest of his nation.

The Anglo-American interests propose to build a 300 mile pipeline from the oil fields near Jigjigga (1) to the sea at either the port of Zeila or the port of Bulhar in British Somaliland.

The emperor also is negotiating with British interests for the grant of a right in perpetuity to a corporation which will build a dam and pumping stations at Lake Tsana (2) one of the sources of the Blue Nile. This dam would assure a water supply for the desert country of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and Egypt.

DUCE SETS GAS PRICE AT 87 CENTS PER GAL. TO HELP PAY FOR WAR

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Aug. 30.—The unfortunate Italian motorist, who has always been obliged by customs duties to pay enormous prices for automobiles and gasoline, is the first to have to pay for Premier Mussolini's Ethiopian war. The government today slapped on a new gasoline tax increasing the retail price almost 50 per cent. All the ordinary brands are now selling at 87 cents a gallon and superior brands at 95 cents. The new tax was applied without warning or explanation. The first thing motorists knew about it was when they went to buy gasoline today and found notices on pumps announcing the increased price.

DUCE USES REAL SHELLS IN WAR GAME; ONE KILLED

Two Soldiers Wounded "in Action."

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's realistic war games proved just that today when one soldier was killed and two were injured during maneuvers under real artillery fire with Il Duce and King Victor Emmanuel as spectators.

The soldiers were struck by fragments of a shell as they charged up a hill under artillery fire. One of the two injured soldiers was virtually blinded. Mussolini visited the wounded men in the hospital.

Give Reason for Using Shells.

Projectiles whistled and groaned over the heads of the distinguished spectators as many of the troops were given their first taste of advancing under genuine fire.

Up the slopes of an opposite hill struggled attacking regiments of infantry until they reached the final ridge of a mountain. The shells struck in the heart of the theoretical defense and quickly gouged out "No Man's Land." The infantry was too far away for spectators to see the fatal accident.

The demonstration, with foreign military attachés looking on, was ordered to accustom Italy's soldiers to fire from their own big guns coming from behind.

The king, Il Duce, and a group of high officers stood on a hill while cannon behind them and on their flanks shelled the summit of a mountain at a strategic point across the valley.

Duce to Speak Today.

The last phase of the huge war games will be held tomorrow, a review of all the troops which participated in the maneuvers. Premier Mussolini will make two speeches to his men, one at Ronzone and the other at Trento. There was much speculation as to the tenor of his remarks but no definite information was forthcoming.

Best informed circles believed the recent cabinet communique, with complete statements on Italy's intentions, made a political speech by Il Duce tomorrow unnecessary. They expressed belief he would re-emphasize points in the cabinet declaration, especially upon military matters.

POSSIBILITY FOR U. S. TANGLE SEEN IN ETHIOPIA DEAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Seasoned international observers tonight saw unquestioned possibilities for future diplomatic tangles in the deeding by Emperor Haile Selassie of half his kingdom to Anglo-American interests for development.

While conceding the potentialities for trouble, most diplomatic observers expressed doubt that the new acquisition of American property rights in Ethiopia would directly involve this country in any Italo-Ethiopian conflict. American citizens already have property interests in Ethiopia, it was remarked, but there has been little discussion of American implication in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute because of that fact.

Some of the interesting questions seen by observers in this strange international deal revolve around these points:

The United States exercises extraterritorial rights in Ethiopia, which carry with them exceptional privileges for Americans and their property. One question asked by observers was whether, if Italy conquered Ethiopia, it would continue to observe the extraterritorial rights granted Americans [as well as several other nationalities] by the Ethiopian emperor.

BERMUDA VOTES LARGER SUM FOR OCEAN AIR BASE

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 30.—Construction of an air base on Darrell's Island, near Hamilton, will begin in November, and mail and passenger air service between New York and Bermuda will become a reality next spring.

This was assured today when the legislative council, Bermuda's upper house, concurred in the house of assembly's decision to appropriate an additional sum to bring up the total cost to $235,000. Originally $75,000 was earmarked by this colony for its share before the revised estimates were announced in London this week after conferences between a Bermuda representative and the Imperial Airways. The new estimates increased Bermuda's share to $85,000.

The finished base will be operated jointly by Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways, with a trans-Atlantic service via the Azores an eventual possibility.

BRITISH WARSHIP HITS STEAMER IN ENGLISH CHANNEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The Ramillies, one of Great Britain's largest battleships, collided with the North German Lloyd steamer Eisenach in the English channel seven miles off Dover tonight. The steamer, of 4,150 tons, was reported to be considerably damaged. No casualties have been reported.

The bow of the 29,150 ton battleship was slightly damaged above the water line. The Ramillies was said to be standing by the Eisenach. Two tugs were sent from Dover to tow the German ship to port.

The collision occurred during a gale and heavy rain. The Eisenach, a freighter, was bound from the Danube to Hull. The Ramillies, commanded by Capt. A. H. Taylor, left Sheerness today with 12 other ships to join the home fleet at Portland for the autumn cruise.

British Army Issues Gas Masks to Gibraltar Police

BRITISH MENACE MUSSOLINI WITH GERMAN THREAT

Hint They Will Let Hitler Gobble Up Austria.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—It was reported here today that the British government has a strong card up its sleeve if Italy proves recalcitrant and France is unwilling to support action by the league of nations to stop an Italo-Ethiopian war. That card is to announce that on the day Premier Mussolini makes war on Ethiopia, Britain ceases to interest itself in the balance of power in Europe, and particularly in the preservation of the independence of Austria, which Reichsfuehrer Hitler covets.

This would be a crushing blow to Mussolini, who fears an Austro-German anschluss [union], and to France, which fears the growth of German power.

Politicians today were taking stock of the lesser powers in the league council. After Britain, France, Russia, Poland, and Italy, include Czechoslovakia, Argentina, Chile, Australia, Turkey, Denmark, and Mexico.

Turkey May Block Action.

Among those which France might induce to vote against league action, thus destroying the necessary unanimity, Turkey is considered most likely for the reason that it is not at all averse to seeing Mussolini tied up with Ethiopia and his attention diverted from Anatolia and nearby islands.

It was learned here that the British admiralty has purchased all surplus stocks of oil from Spanish and Portuguese dealers and is sending it to Gibraltar.

PARIS SWINGS TO BRITAIN

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 30.—The possibility is growing that pressure from the left parties in France may force Premier Laval's hand at Geneva and commit him to the policy of sanctions [penalties] against Italy, regardless of the risk of precipitating a European war.

Anti-Mussolini forces in this country apparently scored an initial victory today in obliging Laval to change his plans for departure for the league council meeting at Geneva on Sept. 4. It is reported that the premier's original idea was to leave Paris Monday night after conferring here with Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league affairs. This would have put him in Geneva Tuesday morning and would have given him 24 hours before the council meets to discuss the situation with other delegates.

He had planned to attempt to neutralize British maneuvers in the lobbies to round up a unanimous bloc of small countries in favor of sanctions before the council debate officially opened.

Laval on the Fence.

Laval's policy throughout has been to maintain friendly contact with both the British and Italians and to avoid letting himself be maneuvered into a position where he would have to declare in advance which side he would line up with in a showdown. So far he has been so successful in carrying out this policy that nobody can say for sure what his final stand will be, although the general belief is that he is prepared, if it comes to a showdown, to sacrifice Italian friendship for British.

Whether this opinion is correct or not, Laval is determined not to commit himself in advance and that is why he is anxious not to leave Eden a free field in Geneva.

Tonight, however, it was announced that the French delegation would not leave for Geneva until Tuesday. Back of this seemingly unimportant piece of routine news, observers who are acquainted with backstage French politics detect a real drama. Whether there is any truth in the rumor that Edouard Herriot, minister of state, and Laval have split on the issue of sanctions, there is no doubt that the left forces of the nation are mobilizing to bring all their weight to bear, and the left ministers in the cabinet are certain to feel the pressure.

LITTLE ENTENTE VOTES TO FIGHT RETURN OF HAPSBURG MONARCHY

BLED, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 30.—(AP)—A communique, issued at the close of the conference of little entente countries tonight, announced those nations would heartily approve the close coöperation of Danubian states in a pact preserving the status quo, based on a distinct understanding there will be no restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy.

The Franco-Italian draft of a proposed Danubian pact was studied at the conference. It was described unofficially as a simple nonaggression treaty with provision for consultation between the signatories and the Danubian states—Czechoslovakia, Austria, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Rumania. The little entente nations are Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia.

The communique emphatically dispelled hopes of monarchists that Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia, and Rumania might be persuaded to soften their resistance to a restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty. The nations asserted "restoration would make friendship and peaceful coöperation between little entente states and their neighbors impossible."

CANCEL HOLIDAY TO RUSH CITY'S WPA PROJECTS

Street Improvement to Start Sept. 10.

Works Progress administration officials in Chicago said yesterday that they expect to begin work a week from Tuesday on the $37,634,000 street improvement program approved by the government early in the week. At the same time Oscar Hewitt, Chicago public works commissioner, canceled the Labor day holiday for his employés and ordered that plans for the rest of a $172,000,000 WPA and PWA works program be submitted to him by Tuesday.

Under WPA plans the street improvement project will be initiated by a group of 750 experienced relief workers who will start regrading and surfacing 478 miles of unimproved streets as soon as instructions to go ahead are received from Washington. Early yesterday such instructions were expected in time to start work next Tuesday. Later in the day the starting date was advanced a week.

11,300 Men on This Job.

The unimproved street project, which will cost $14,500,000 and will employ 11,300 men on every unimproved street in the city, is expected to be in full swing within a few weeks, and during this time the extensive paving and resurfacing projects included in the $37,634,000 program will be launched.

The relief workers who are expected to start the WPA program on Sept. 10 are now employed on similar work under the Illinois Emergency Relief administration. The 21 gangs will be moved in a body to the government pay rolls, and will start WPA work in the following wards: 12th, 13th, 15th, 18th, 19th, 36th, 38th, 40th, and 41st.

The government is rapidly clearing the way to place 38,000 workers on street repair tasks at the earliest possible moment. All employables on IERC rolls have been ordered to register with the Illinois free employment service, directed by Leo Works, at 188 West Randolph street. The WPA will draft its workers from these lists and will assign men to the various projects as they develop.

500 Will Survey Projects.

A first step toward starting the repaving of nearly 500 miles of surfaced streets will be the assignment of 500 men with engineering experience to make a survey of the proposed projects, it was said.

The street repair program submitted by the city, it was pointed out, divides the metropolitan area into 130 zones and estimates the number of streets and the number of yards to be resurfaced in each zone. The survey party will compute the amounts of work to be done on the streets named by the city and as soon as a project has been surveyed actual construction will start.

Works Progress administration engineers said they have employed 90 expert paving foremen from Chicago contractors to supervise the street program. In addition eight superintendents will direct the work, and 1,200 city workers, experienced in street repair, will be used in supervisory capacities. All of the work will be done on a basis simulating contract jobs as far as possible.

City to Furnish $5,090,000.

Of the $37,634,000 to be spent, the city will contribute $5,090,000 in money, men, and materials. A part of the materials will be brick to be pulverized for concrete to replace brick paving, and $300,000 worth of crushed stone is to be purchased from the sanitary district to lay a 16 foot strip of stone and tar preparation on the unimproved streets.

Thirteen projects requiring a federal grant of $347,364 and contributions from local sponsors totaling $150,853 were approved by Illinois officials of WPA and sent to Washington for confirmation yesterday. One Cook county project, submitted by the Chicago board of education, asked $35,100 for the purpose of employing forty-one men and women to recruit members for classes in naturalization and citizenship.

4 GIRLS SET OUT TO CLIMB PEAK; FAIL TO RETURN

Bretton Woods, N. H., Aug. 31 [Saturday].—(AP)—Four girls, ranging in age from 15 to 19, three of them daughters of William G. Wrightson of Orange, N. J., vice president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, and the other the daughter of the manager of a hotel, were being sought on Mount Deception today.

The girls, Minnie, Martha, and Cynthia Wrightson, and Peggy Sanderson, 16, left the hotel at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to climb the mountain, several miles south of the hotel. When they failed to return at supper time a hastily organized posse set out to look for them, but found no trace of them. They were last seen by a hotel employé near the junction of two trails, apparently headed for the wild country around Mount Deception. Lieut. James J. Gaffney of the CCC camp at Bethlehem said 75 of his men would join the hunting party at dawn.

DEMAND ACTION TO CUT MOUNTING COSTS OF RELIEF

Commissioners Cite Case Expenses.

Drastic measures for cutting expenditures "all along the line" were proposed yesterday when members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission were confronted with figures showing that the average administrative cost per relief case was curving sharply upward despite orders to lop off personnel.

John C. Martin, chairman of the commission, presented figures showing that the average administrative cost per case per month had risen from $3.48 in June to $3.70 in July for Cook county.

"I wish that there was some action this commission could take to make the administrative officials realize we want expenses reduced," said Martin.

Action at Next Meeting.

In the absence of Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, who is ill, the commission deferred action until next Friday. John Stelle, state treasurer and a member of the commission, said that at that time he would move for drastic action to effect economies. He declared the personnel of the IERC, approximately 9,000 persons, should be cut from top to bottom.

Stelle said that he knew of counties down-state where there were 20 or 30 relief workers, many of whom were not needed. When county relief committees proposed they be dismissed, Stelle charged, district relief representatives refused to fire them.

Increase in Relief Cases.

Another situation the commission members wanted explained was an expected increase of 1,640 relief cases for September when the fedral works progress administration was supposed to shift persons from the relief rolls to made work. The case load for August was 274,072 while the estimate for September was 275,712.

Administrative officials mentioned that the harvest season had waned and that farm hands were back on the relief rolls.

"In addition we don't have any idea of how fast persons on relief will be transferred to WPA jobs," said L. J. Owen, chief statistician for the IERC.

Chairman Martin declared that as the WPA program gained momentum the case load should dwindle and administrative expenditures should decrease proportionately.

The relief requirements for September were estimated at $9,903,276. The commission voted to ask $7,944,758 from the federal government. In addition to these funds the commission expects to have on hand $1,500,000 from 3 per cent sales tax receipts, $356,593 in uncommitted balances from August and $101,925 in local county funds.

According to dispatches from Washington the state of Illinois has been granted a direct relief allotment of $3,000,000 from federal funds for the first two weeks in September.

The commission approved specifications for competitive bidding on coal, following the plan that has saved the IERC 20 per cent on fuel purchases since the price fixing under the NRA, declared unconstitutional, was discontinued last March. It is estimated that 250,000 tons of coal will be purchased for relief clients this winter.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT GETS DIVORCE FROM FOSTER IN MEXICO

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Claudette Colbert, movie actress, who tried to remain happily married by living in a separate domicile from that of her actor-husband, Norman Foster, obtained a Mexican divorce from him more than a week ago, it was disclosed today by the actress' business manager, Charles Feldman.

Secrecy surrounded the proceedings for, while Feldman apparently was at liberty to tell of the divorce being granted, he said he could not tell where in Mexico it was obtained.

The French actress was married to Foster eight years ago when they played together in "The Barker" on Broadway. Foster gained prominence on the New York stage, but followed his wife to the coast for film work after she came here five years ago.

Soon after her arrival Miss Colbert rose to stardom and last year won the annual merit award from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for her work with Clark Gable in the film "It Happened One Night."

The Fosters created something of a sensation when they disclosed that they were trying to remain happily married by living in separate homes. But even this extremity apparently failed.

Several months ago they were reported to have reached a parting understanding and recently Foster announced his intention of marrying Sally Blane.

MANY LABOR DAY FETES PLANNED IN CHICAGOLAND

G. O. P. Rallies Called; Festivals to Open.

Labor day celebrations Monday will be headed by the Republican rally and picnic at Riverview park where, leaders predicted yesterday, a united front of all Cook county factions will be presented. The county central committee is the sponsor of the picnic and, as in past years, former Alderman Arthur F. Albert will be chairman.

House to house canvasses are being conducted under the direction of ward committeemen and Albert expects a big turnout. A number of the leaders will be introduced to the crowd but the speaking will be limited to two addresses by Frank Knox, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and Attorney General John W. Bricker of Ohio.

Col. Roosevelt to Speak.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt will be the principal speaker Monday night at a big Republican meeting at Sinnissippi park, near Rockford, to which former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, Otis F. Glenn, Oscar Carlstrom and Charles S. Deneen will be invited. Republicans from Winnebago, Boone and Ogle counties will attend and other speakers include Minority Leader Leroy M. Green of the Illinois house of representatives and Mrs. W. R. Fringer, Republican state chairman, both of Rockford.

Among the Chicago celebrations is the "Swedish Week" festival which opens today and continues through Sept. 8. This community affair, at which events will be held each night, will center on Catalpa avenue between Clark and Ashland avenues, an area which will be blocked off for amusement devices and merchandise booths.

Parades, singing and dancing events and speeches will feature this festival. Former Attorney General Carlstrom will speak Tuesday evening and Judge Oscar F. Nelson on Wednesday evening.

Mayor and Others to Attend.

Saturday, one week from tonight, has been designated as "Civic Night," with Ald. James R. Quinn [50th] as chairman and the speakers including Mayor Kelly, Ald. Albert F. Schultz [47th], John A. Massen [48th], and Frank Keenan [49th], and State Senator Harold G. Ward.

At Marseilles, Ill., the centennial celebration today, tomorrow and Monday is expected to bring hundreds for the boat races on the Illinois river and a pageant directed by Mrs. Louis Blumberg, which will depict the 100 years of Marseilles' history.

Members of the Franklin Grove club of Chicago were notified yesterday that their home town also will hold a centennial and picnic on Labor day. There will be a speaking program and a carnival.

In Chicago the second annual Homecoming celebration, which opened Thursday night with the Bears-All Stars football game, will continue Monday and through Sept. 16 with community carnivals and sporting events being held in neighborhood centers.

The Field Museum of Natural History will remain open Monday from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. to accommodate Labor day crowds, but the Chicago post office will be closed, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced.

Beginning this morning, the trek of what is expected to be a million motorists over the week-end will start from Chicago for the Labor day holidays. Estimates are that this army of vacationists will travel to the lake regions of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota in more than 300,000 cars. Congestion is not expected before Monday afternoon and evening when the parade returns to the city.

WRIT FOR INCREASE IN DOLE DENIED BY NEW YORK COURT

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A Brooklyn family's petition for a writ of mandamus to require the city to increase the family's relief allowance was denied today by Supreme Court Justice Mitchell May.

The petition was filed by Albert Nahoum, 35, father of four children, and his wife, Regina. The Nahoums' have been receiving $80.05 a month in home relief for some time. They asked for a substantial increase, contending that the present allowance is insufficient for their needs, including a dog and seven canaries.

Nahoum stated in his affidavit that his hands were frozen last winter when shoveling snow for the city. He is a naturalized Turk.

WHIZZES AROUND SEEKING ILL LUCK; FAILS IN VICTORY

Michael J. Feron Jr., 19 years old, Northwestern university student, was speeding wilfully and wittingly down Asbury avenue in Evanston last night.

He had been doing it for some time and his efforts finally brought success when, between Cleveland and Main streets, he was stopped by Policeman Harry Witt and charged with going 42 miles an hour.

"Fine!" said Feron, "I've been trying to get this for some time. I'm on a 'scavenger' hunt and one of the things we have to get is an arrest slip."

"Sorry," said Witt, "we don't give tickets for speeding. You'll come along with me to the station."

At the station, despite the repetition of his story, Feron got no ticket, but was compelled to post a $10 bond for appearance in court today. His only document was a receipt for the bond. And, to make it more ironical, other contestants in the scavenger game had gone direct to the police station, and all were given "phoney" arrest slips by the good natured policemen.

Feron lives at 1112 Brummel street, Evanston, and is the son of an official of the Rapid Transit Lines.

JOHNSON, LONG DEFEND, ATTACK SECURITY WAGE

Assail One Another in New York Speeches.

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and Senator Huey P. Long renewed their personal feud tonight in a verbal clash over the government's WPA "security wage" scale, with Johnson asserting that "no strike in the world can coerce the federal government" in the administration of work relief.

Johnson spoke over the Municipal Broadcasting station in defense of his job as WPA administrator for New York City, while Senator Long broadcast over station WOR a few hours later as the spearhead of a union labor drive to inject life into the lagging strike against the WPA "security wage" scale.

Long Assails Foe.

Senator Long cracked back at his old foe with the characterization of "Sitting Bull Johnson of blue buzzard fame," as he took up the cudgels for organized labor under the auspices of the Building and Construction Trades council, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

Johnson, speaking first, was, however, able to take cognizance of Senator Long's address.

"I can't answer my friend Huey before he speaks," said Johnson, "but I'll bet that a large part of that speech is going to be some kind of an explanation of just why this great friend of labor scuttled, by a filibuster, the appropriations for most of the whole program of labor legislation on the last day of congress.

"Labor Champion" Ridiculed.

"One man killed most of what the President and congress tried to do for labor—and here he is down here to speak as the champion of labor."

Long, when he took to the air, referred to "all this talk of my filibuster."

"Why didn't they let congress stay in session another day?" he demanded. "The United States and Mr. Roosevelt were so sick of congress that they told them to go home."

Declaring that the $55 WPA wage in New York City left a family only $11 a month on which to live, Long said "Why, I spent $11 for my dinner tonight."

Roosevelt Set Scale.

Johnson, replying to union threats of a strike in protest against the "security wage," declared the scale was set by President Roosevelt and that he had not the power to alter it.

He announced tonight that he had received approval for increasing the security wages of unskilled labor from $55 to $60.50 for 120 hours' work.

GERMAN PEDALS THROUGH AIR IN MOTORLESS SHIP

Uses His Own Muscle to Propel Plane.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Man's dream of flying through the air under his own power came a step nearer to fulfillment in Frankfurt-on-Main today when Rudolf Duennbeil, 27, a German pilot, pedaled through the air for 774 feet. He covered the distance at an altitude of three feet.

Germany hopes when the combination motorless glider and air bicycle is perfected flyers will be able to sail through the air in a propitious wind and pedal their way when the winds die down.

The German birdman used a large contraption for his experiments, which began yesterday. He was attempting to win a prize of $2,000 offered by the Frankfurt Polytechnical society to the first person flying 3,300 feet without the help of motors or wind and by his own muscles around two pylons. The offer expires Monday.

Wing Spread of 66 Feet.

Duennbeil attempted the flight in a machine similar to the motorless glider used at the gliding races in the Rhoen mountains. It is known as the "one decker high efficiency type." Its wing spread is 66 feet.

The flyer started his flight with the help of a rubber cable, which he manipulated to catapult himself into the air. The propeller is connected with pedals, which he pushed energetically as his craft jerked from the rubber cable. He pedaled until the wind caught his plane and carried him on. When the wind abated he started to pedal again.

Yesterday Duennbeil flew 672 feet. Today he succeeded in rounding a curve in his flight of 774 feet. He will fly again tomorrow in an attempt to win the prize. A consolation prize has already been promised Duennbeil and the builders of his craft if the goal is not reached before Monday.

Designed by Engineers.

The air bicycle was designed and built by two engineers of the Junkers plant. The first experiment was conducted at the Junkers air field in Halle-on-Saale.

Germany is jubilant over the feat of Duennbeil, who is a member of a peasant family. He first became a locksmith. Later he went to Munich and then joined the "Nazi" birdmen in Rhoen in 1928. He received the highest honors conferred on members of the Nazi air corps.

GERMAN PASTORS REPLY TODAY TO NAZI RULE EDICT

Lutheran Faction's Fate Is at Stake.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Leaders of the Protestant Confessional Synod [Lutheran opposition] wrestled tonight with the biggest problem of their long conflict with Nazi authorities—an ultimatum which may lead to the synod's dissolution.

Hans Kerrl, deputy in charge of church affairs, told the Protestant opposition pastors they must reply by tomorrow at the latest as to whether they would accept his decree embodying state management of church affairs.

Demands to Rule Churches.

Kerrl, in a conference with Confessional leaders Aug. 23, made it plain that he demanded not only financial control of churches, but also control of their entire administrative apparatus, including disciplinary action against recalcitrants.

There was no official indication of which way the synod would move, but it was said a decision was not to be announced until tomorrow at least. Unofficially, this was taken to mean the synod heads planned to reject or seek a modification of Kerrl's proposal. They fear acceptance would imply Nazification of theological universities.

Bar Non-Aryan Organists.

There are 16,500,000 Lutherans in Germany and it is estimated unofficially that two-thirds adhere to the Confessional synod.

The reich's music chamber barred formall today a number of non-Aryan organists from officiating in the future during Christian church services. Churches in Berlin, Koenigsberg, Brandenberg, Cologne and other cities have been employing such organists.

JAPAN REBUILDS 149 MILE RAILWAY WITHIN 3 HOURS

Troops Guard Horde of Laborers.

HSINKING, Manchukuo, Aug. 31.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Japanese engineering skill today completed a conquest the Japanese army began 3½ years ago, as a horde of rail workers transformed the Hsinking-Harbin railway from a 5 foot gauge track to the standard gauge of 4 feet 8½ inches in less than three hours.

By this feat the 149 mile railway on which Gen. Jiro Tamon and the Japanese army advanced to capture Harbin in February, 1932, became an integral part of the Japanese-controled Manchukuan system.

The first standard gauge trains departed from both Hsinking and Harbin this morning immediately upon completion of the task and were scheduled to meet midway at Taolaichao about noon. The train from Hsinking carried Minister of Communications Lishaoken of Manchukuo and other dignitaries to participate in a ceremony at Taolaichao.

96 Gangs of Workmen.

The workmen who made the change were divided into 96 gangs, each responsible for a district of from 1 to 3 miles in scope.

In order that trafic between, Hsinking, capital of Manchukuo, and Harbin, its largest city, would not be interrupted job was done between 5 a. m. and 8 a. m. Troops were stationed all along the line to prevent bandit interference.

Japan, or rather its ward, Manchukuo, acquired the railway as a part of the historical Chinese Eastern railway, which was purchased from the Soviet Union last March for 170,000,000 yen [nearly $50,000,000].

The railway was the great instrument of Russian political, economic and military penetration into Manchuria for more than a generation, and to the Japanese the alteration dramatically symbolizes the Japanese triumph in its long struggle with Russia—Empire and Soviet—for control of this land.

Event Is Broadcast.

Because of the appeal of this event to the imaginations of the Japanese, an account of the work was broadcast throughout Manchukuo and the Japanese empire.

Equipment on the Hsinking-Harbin line will be changed from the badly-worn and clumsy Russian rolling stock hitherto in use to the modern, American type engines and cars made by the South Manchuria railway for its own lines. The change will permit express trains to run direct from Dairen, Manchukuo's chief seaport, to Harbin.

The first such express is scheduled to run tomorrow and to cover the distance of 588 miles in thirteen and a half hours.

U. S. ARMY BUILDS AIR STATIONS OFF JAPANESE ISLAND

Extends Landing Fields to North Philippines.

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 30.—(AP)—A new aviation landing field has been prepared by the United States army on Batan Island, almost within sight of the Japanese owned island of Formosa.

Built with the coöperation of Filipino officials, it is said to be without particular military significance.

It is part of an aviation development program sponsored by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the army's Philippine department, by which the scattered archipelago is being dotted with landing fields.

Other Fields Planned.

A landing place on the Island of Dalupiri, near Batan, has been in use for some time and others are planned for islands in the stormy area between Northern Luzon and Formosa. Eight military planes made a recent survey flight to this Batanes group, with Gen. Parker and Vice Governor Joseph R. Hayden in the party.

Gen. Parker in eighteen months has visited every section of the 1,000 mile long archipelago. Aviation is of primary importance to the Philippines, he said. Because of the great expanse of water in proportion to land, and the extreme difficulty of land communication over rugged mountains, it follows that the future communication in the archipelago lies in the air, he said.

Big Air Development.

In December, 1933, when Gen. Parker arrived in Manila from the command of the First division at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., there were only five civilian aircraft and twenty-four landing fields, virtually all established by the army air corps, and no Filipino pilots with commercial ratings.

By Aug. 1, 1935, there were thirty-nine army, civilian, and insular government fields; fifteen others were under construction, more commercial planes have been put in service, and the Philippine constabulary is proceeding with the establishment of an aviation unit of ten planes with funds appropriated by the legislature. Two army air corps officers are assisting.

RESUME CONFERENCE SEEKING CENT CUT IN RETAIL MILK PRICES

Negotiations directed toward a reduction in the prevailing retail price of milk were resumed yesterday by representatives of the Associated Milk Dealers and the Pure Milk association at the Midland club.

A sharp cut in the base price paid to farmers and a reduction in the retail price from 11 to 10 cents a quart are sought by the milk dealers. A promise of increased consumption is tendered the farmers as an inducement to accept a reduction.

The conferences will continue for several days, it was indicated last night, with the possibility that the basic price schedules for both farmer and consumer will be drastically changed. A reduction in the dairies' wholesale milk price to large chain stores, to combat "cut-rate" milk stores, may be ordered as one result of the conference.

At present farmers are receiving $2.20 per 100 pounds [roughly 46 quarts] for base milk. A reduction of 50 or 60 cents per hundred probably will be sought by the dealers, who claim that milk production costs have dropped sharply and that the Chicago price, $1.00 over that paid by condensories, may result in a wholesale dumping of milk in the Chicago area.

Oak Park Home Is Looted of Securities and Cash

Five shares of American Telephone and Telegraph company stock, valued at about $675, a $1,000 mortgage bond, and $200 in cash were stolen yesterday by burglars who entered the home of H. N. Taylor, 20 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, while Taylor and his wife were away. The report was made to police by Taylor, who is a clerk for the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

8 CITIES HELP BATTLE FLAMES AT LAKE GENEVA

Lumber Yard Buildings Are Destroyed.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The huge lumber shed and feed warehouse of the Taggart Lumber company was destroyed today by fire of undetermined origin. Several private garages in the path of the flames also were burned. The damage was estimated at $75,000.

The lumber yard buildings were in ruins within an hour after the fire was discovered by an employé who opened the doors of one of the buildings on arriving for work. Apparently the fire had been burning for some time, for the interior of the building was ablaze when the employé entered.

Fire departments of eight cities fought for several hours to save half a dozen homes on Center street. The flames were blown away from the Northwestern railroad station, located near the yards, but train service was delayed briefly by hose lines stretched across the tracks.

The Wisconsin cities of Delavan, Burlington, Genoa City, Kenosha, Williams Bay, and Elkhorn, and Richmond in Illinois, sent equipment and men to assist the Lake Geneva firemen in bringing the fire under control. Low water pressure handicapped their efforts. The homes along the lake owned principally by Chicagoans were not endangered.

It was believed possible the blaze started from the furnace of the lumber yard building, in which a fire had been started this morning, but this was not learned definitly.

THREE AIRMEN PLAN 2 WAY FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC NEXT MONTH

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—A trans-Atlantic flight from England to Newfoundland and return in the middle of September is the aim of T. Campbell Black, noted airman who with C. W. A. Scott won the England to Melbourne air derby last October.

Black, recently forced back by engine trouble on an attempted record flight to Cape Town, South Africa, announced that he will take off from Southern Ireland in the middle of next month, granted favorable weather conditions. On his return he intends to make another attempt to break the record to Cape Town and back, probably in the middle of October.

His plane, a sister of the Melbourne derby winner, now is being groomed for what Black calls "a long week-end trip." He will have William McArthur as second pilot, and also a wireless operator.

FLYER IS KILLED IN TAKE-OFF FOR CLEVELAND RACE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Cecil A. Allen, 33, California flyer, was killed today less than 2 minutes after he took off for Cleveland in the Bendix trophy air race. He crashed in a potato field two miles west of the airport.

Allen apparently never gained complete control of his tricky, snub nosed monoplane after it careened crazily at the start, threatening to swing into part of the crowd of 10,000 persons who lined the flying field. He succeeded in righting it, then bounced into the air near the runway's end and faded into the fog.

Two persons saw the tragedy. The sleek, red and white, low winged speedster, Spirit of Right, was flying low through the morning mist at the time. The witnesses, Fred and Glenn Van Winkle, said the plane swooped over a power line at high speed a moment before the crash.

Suddenly the 550 horse power Wasp motor cut out. The right wing dipped, scraped over several hills of sweet potatoes, and pulled the plane over on its nose. The craft rolled over and over, strewing a mass of wreckage over the field. Allen's lifeless body was found pinned in the cramped cockpit.

Allen had almost failed to start because his unusual ship had not handled well in trial spins. His plane was said to be one of the trickiest pieces of flying machinery in the race because of its short, 18 foot fuselage, 20 foot wing spread, and 350 miles an hour top speed.

DANCE MASTERS HERE CONDEMN FERA ATTITUDE

Criticism of the Federal Emergency Relief administration for its policy toward dancing instruction was voiced at the convention of the Chicago Association of Dancing Masters in the Congress hotel yesterday by Leo Kehl, president.

"In one operation," Kehl said, "the federal relief people give instructors money to teach dancing and forbid those on relief to spend money for such instruction.

"The practice may be good from a health standpoint, but it has put the relief agencies in competition with the professional dancing teacher. Another evil of the situation is that through politics the dancing instructors employed on FERA projects are not chosen by merit."

Alexander Kotchetovsky of Houston, Tex., former member of the Russian imperial ballet, introduced at the convention yesterday a new dance step, characterized by leaping, flying movements and wide steps, which, he explained, symbolized returning prosperity.

Fined $25 for Breaking Dog's Legs by Kicking It

Charles A. Johnson, 54 years old, 2836 North Troy street, was fined $25 by Judge Eugene J. Holland in the Shakespeare avenue court yesterday on a charge of cruelty to animals. Miss Lillian Miller, 2809 North Kedzie avenue, representative of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, testified she saw Johnson kick his dog so severely Thursday that both its legs were broken and police had to kill the animal.

CONFESSES $7,100 EMBEZZLEMENT; LOST IT ON RACES

Leo V. Maciejewski, 35 years old, 1851 West 35th street, secretary of the White Eagle Brewing company, was held at the detective bureau last night after he had confessed embezzling $7,100 of the brewery's funds, and losing the whole sum betting on horse races.

LEO V. MACIEJEWSKI.

The confession was made to Anton Gorecki, 1539 West 19th street, president of the company. After hearing the story, Gorecki summoned police and Maciejewski submitted to arrest.

"I want to pay for my dishonesty," the prisoner said. My father, Bernard, who was a real estate dealer, left me $200,000 about ten years ago. I held on to it through the 1929 crash, but lost it all in speculations. I began dipping into the till last May when I began losing on the horses."

Maciejewski said that his wife, when he told her of his predicament, urged him to make the confession. Gorecki, an old family friend, expressed his sorrow that he had to sign the complaint.

WINS PROBATION AFTER ANNOYING SCHOOL CHILDREN

Emmett Barton, 23 years old, 7301 Constance avenue, who was arrested Aug. 10 and charged with annoying school children on the south side, was placed on probation for a year and given a suspended fine of $100 and costs by Municipal Judge Joseph A. Graber in the South Chicago avenue court yesterday.

"I sent Barton to Dr. David B. Rotman, director of the psychiatric clinic of the Municipal court, for examination, and he reported that Barton was of "borderline intelligence," but not committable to an institution for the insane," Judge Graber said in explaining why he placed Barton on probation.

"The maximum penalty on two counts of indecent exposure is a $100 fine and costs," the judge said. "I know he could pay it and that it would be no punishment. So I placed him on probation for one year, two six months terms running consecutively, and stipulated he not drive a car and that he and his father report to me."

Seeks $40,000 Under Dram Shop Act in Saloon Death

Invoking the Dram Shop act which holds tavern operators and owners of property in which taverns operate liable for injuries due to intoxication, Mrs. Jeannette Bailey filed suit yesterday in Superior court to collect $40,000 as the result of the death of her husband, George, a teamster, who was stabbed to death a year ago during a quarrel in a tavern at 3348 Lake street. Named as defendants in the suit are James Fiasche, operator of the tavern, and James and Christine Vlahogeorge, owners of the property.

ROB CAFE, WRECK CAR AND ESCAPE IN GUN BATTLE

Three bandits, who terrorized fifty patrons of a restaurant at 166 West Grand avenue and seized $400, escaped yesterday after figuring in an automobile crash, and engaging in a subsequent running gun battle with police.

B. Molendi, owner of the restaurant, declared that one of the bandits carried a submachine gun with which he held the patrons at bay and forced them to lie on the floor.

After obtaining the $400 they ran outside and sped away in their waiting car. At St. Clair and Ontario streets their machine collided with another automobile and was overturned. Unhurt, the gunmen clambered out and forced William O. Carle, 915 Center street, from his car.

Speeding away in this automobile, they were observed by Policemen Harry Higgins and Theodore Smith, who commandeered a passing car and pursued them north in Michigan avenue, firing as they went. The bandits returned the fire and shook off pursuit after turning west in Briar place.

TELEGRAPH UNION PLANS CAMPAIGN ON COMMUNISTS

Frank B. Powers of Chicago, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of North America, announced yesterday that steps would be taken at the annual convention here Sept. 9 to 12 for an aggressive campaign to oust communists from one or two of the local unions.

Delegates from all parts of the United States, Canada, and Mexico, representing some 15,000 telegraphers in newspaper offices, press associations, and business firms, will attend the convention.

"An amendment will be proposed," Powers said, "and probably will be adopted unanimously to give the international officers, with the approval of the general executive board, the power to suspend members or officers who affiliate with any communistic organizations. We will not allow that sort of thing to continue in this important link in national communication."

SIR CHARLES, 'OLD' AT 38, WILL QUIT FLYING FOR DESK

Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, famous American flyer, has done his last trail blazing of the skies, he announced yesterday on his arrival in Chicago from Los Angeles via the United Airlines.

"I'm tired of pioneering," declared the sandy haired maker of trans-Pacific flying history. "All I want now is to sit with my feet on a glass topped desk and let others do the flying."

Sir Charles said he will make his last long air trip next March—a goodwill flight from Australia to Japan. His monoplane, the Southern Cross, now is in Los Angeles, where he will return after attending the air races at Cleveland.

"Aside from that," he said, in his rapid, staccato speech, "I'm through. I'm 38 years old, and I've been flying 19 years—nine of those years pioneering in 16 major flights. Now it's up to the younger men. They have more endurance."

200 DRESSES STOLEN.

Burglars who entered the Peter Pan dress shop at 3445 West 26th street early yesterday escaped with 200 dresses and $100, the owner, Abraham Harris, reported to the Lawndale police.

KING OF BELGIANS BOWS AT BIER OF QUEEN IN PALACE

Funeral Tuesday; Body Is Placed in State.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Aug. 30.—King Leopold exemplified the attitude of all Belgium this morning when he broke down after a day of stoical control and stunned bewilderment.

He reeled and his features contracted into an expression of intolerable pain as he gazed upon the face of his dead young Queen Astrid for the first time since her life was crushed out against a tree in an automobile accident in Switzerland nearly 24 hours before.

The scene took place in the upper half of the royal palace, called the "thinkers' room," where 18 months ago he and Astrid, a former Swedish princess, stood before the bier of his father, the late King Albert, and where Astrid now lies in state.

Lid of Coffin Raised.

The coffin had finished an all night journey from Lucerne only a few moments before. The lid was solemnly lifted to give Leopold his last glance. Premier Paul van Zeeland, government dignitaries and diplomats who had accompanied the body from the railway station, withdrew to leave Leopold alone in silent prayer and to let him give vent to his grief.

When he emerged his drawn features and uncertain step clearly showed his emotions, once he was freed of the exigencies of protocol which pursue a king even in the shadow of death.

After that he hurried from the royal palace, which he has used only for state ceremonies, to the royal residence of Laeken, seven miles from Brussels, to break the news to the two oldest royal children, Princess Josephine, 7 years old, and Prince Baudouin, 4 years old. There is a third child, the baby prince, Albert.

Like their sovereign, the Belgian people were stunned into silence in the first day of the loss of their "princess of the snows." The funeral train, which left Lucerne at 10:15 o'clock last night and crossed the Belgian frontier at 6 o'clock this morning, passed through a densely populated countryside amid the dead silence of crowds which formed an almost continuous line to Brussels.

Minimum of Ceremony.

The body was received here with a minimum of ceremony. Only a few silk-hatted magistrates were on the platform of the north station as the funeral train arrived. The door of the funeral car was opened, the casket was swung out and rushed through a lane of forty gendarmes to the street.

The plain oaken casket was slipped into a herse with the barest trimmings of black and narrow silver edging.

Ceremonies in the packed street were brief. The troops, both mounted and on foot, who lined the four sides of the square, presented arms. Buglers screeched a few melancholy notes, but not a single church bell tolled. A string of automobiles carrying dignitaries fell into line behind the herse. The troops then marched off and the hush which had fallen over the city was broken.

Leaves Train at Suburb.

King Leopold was not with the body at the north station. Unable to stand the strain of a public appearance, he left the train at a suburban station and drove to the royal palace.

Funeral services for Astrid, who was killed when the car her husband was driving swerved from the roadway and crashed into a tree, will be held next Tuesday morning. Cardinal Van Roey, the primate of Belgium, has ordered public prayers in all churches for the repose of the queen's soul. For the next three days the death knell will be tolled from all belfries in the kingdom from 7 to 7:30 p. m., and on Tuesday from noon to 12:30 p. m.

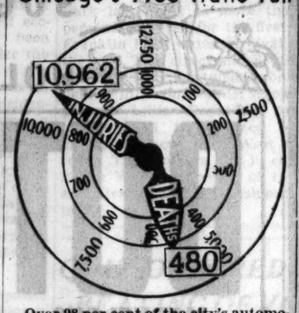
THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

ALFONSO URGED TO GIVE UP HIS CLAIM TO THRONE

MADRID, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Efforts to persuade former King Alfonso formally to renounce the Spanish throne in favor of his son, Don Juan, now prince of the Asturias, were actively in progress today among a large group of Spanish monarchists.

They seek to induce him to make this dramatic gesture on the day of Don Juan's marriage to Princess Maria de la Esperanza in Rome Oct. 12.

Alfonso has so far refused, but reports from Austria said he just made a visit to the 87 year old Carlist pretender, Don Carlos, which strengthened the belief that Alfonso is seriously considering abandoning his claim to the throne, while seeking at the same time to obtain a similar renunciation from Don Carlos. This would unite all Spanish monarchists behind Don Juan.

250,000 Safety Stickers Distributed to Motorists

George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's "Keep Chicago Safe" committee, announced yesterday that 250,000 automobile windshield stickers in red, white, and blue carrying the printed pledge, "I Will Drive Safely," have been distributed to automobile drivers in the loop. Another 250,000 stickers will be distributed to drivers throughout the city. He said any driver wanting stickers could call at room 404 in the Hotel Sherman or telephone Randolph 5893 and stickers would be mailed.

15,000 Gallon Alcohol Still Found Near Metropolis

Metropolis, Ill., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Claude E. Watters, investigator for the federal alcohol tax unit, today reported discovery of a 15,000 gallon alcohol still near here last night.

TWO LOSE LIVES IN LAKE COUNTY MOTOR CRASHES

E. C. Williams, 32 years old, 416 West Erie street, was killed last night when the automobile he was driving collided with two others in Route 54 north of Libertyville. None of the passengers in the other cars, driven by F. L. Pritchard, 5924 Roscoe street, and William H. Topel, of Schiller Park, was injured seriously.

A second death due to an auto accident in Lake county was that of Price Batts, 80 years old, of Shelbyville, Ind. An automobile in which he was riding collided near Grays Lake Thursday with a car driven by George M. Dixon, of Waukegan. Batts died last night in the Condell hospital at Libertyville.

Benjamin H. Kirk, of Glenview, treasurer of the Kirk Ink company of Chicago, died yesterday in a hospital at Brainerd, Minn., of injuries suffered Wednesday when his automobile overturned near that city. Mrs. Kirk was injured, but was released from the hospital yesterday.

The body of Kirk will be brought back to Glenview, where Masonic funeral services will be held on Tuesday.

There were no deaths from automobiles in Cook county yesterday, the 1935 toll remaining at 609. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 480 persons had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 10,962 injured.

SHAKESPEAREAN HAS EXIT, THEN A COURT ENTRANCE

Dr. Iphecrates Geannelis, 54 years old, 147 West Chicago avenue, who said he was a Shakespearean actor who "reformed to become a dentist," bowed low to Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden in the Chicago Avenue Police court yesterday but declined to give the court a treat of Shakespeare because he recites "only for high fees." Nevertheless, he did relent to declaim: "All the world's a stage," which presumably included the police court where he was chief actor on a charge of disorderly conduct because he became abusive when a warrant was refused against a druggist. The dentist alleged that the apothecary threw him out when he tried to "charge" a soft drink. Judge Padden continued the hearing until Sept. 10 and ordered that Dr. Geannelis be examined by Dr. David Rotmann, court psychiatrist.

N. Y. JUDGE READS DEATH TREATISE TO AUTO DRIVERS

Cruel Words of Article Shock Courtroom.

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The small space of trafic court was packed tightly today with men and women. Scores of them had risked death to themselves or others by careless handling of automobiles.

They sat close, two hundred or more, in uncomfortable wooden benches or stools, massed in tight knots at doorways.

From the bench came the measured tones of Magistrate Thomas A. Aurelio starkly picturing with every last terrifying detail the horrors attending the scene of an automobile accident, the same horrors that hundreds listening might have plunged into before they got summonses for speeding, reckless driving, slipping past trafic lights, turning out of line to speed ahead.

Reads Magazine Article.

The magistrate, turning from the customary court procedure—a hurried complaint, a brisk, mumbled explanation, a quickly imposed fine—devoted more than twenty minutes to the reading of an article entitled "And Sudden Death," written by J. C. Furnas and published recently in a magazine.

The ugly phrases he repeated of crushing death and maiming wounds and children's bodies savagely torn as a result of careless automobile driving turned faces in the courtroom white.

Men who had turned out of line to "save a block or two" leaned forward stiffly and held tight to the backs of benches before them. Now and again a long-drawn sigh escaped unwittingly from some woman who, perhaps, had jumped the lights with pedestrians still passing across the street.

Cruel Words Picture Death.

When the cruel words of a vivid paragraph on lives snuffed out came from the bench, men who seemed to wish they were well away from hearing more nodded silently to each other, as if to pledge they would in future give thought to careful driving.

The article, "And Sudden Death," read by Magistrate Aurelio has attracted unprecedented attention. Orders for reprints have been sent by state highway authorities, municipal safety departments, police officials, trafic court judges and employers of large fleets of trucks.

Hijackers Slug Driver, Steal $3,000 Liquor Load

Two hijackers halted a truck driven by Anthony Cursio, 27 years old, 3503 West Adams street, yesterday at Harrison street and California avenue, slugged Cursio and made off with a $3,000 load of whisky.

Cursio, a driver for the Maryland Wine and Liquor company, said the men, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a pistol, stopped him when he slowed for a trafic sign. He was dragged from the truck and knocked to the pavement as the hijackers made their escape. The truck, minus its load, was found later in front of 2547 Arthington street.

Screw Is Taken from Lung of Plainfield Boy in East

Vernon Gittelson, 2 years old, son of Harvey Gittelson, a farmer living near Plainfield, has successfully undergone an operation in Philadelphia to remove a screw from his lung, according to a telegram received yesterday by relatives in Chicago. When doctors in Aurora said they lacked instruments to remove the metal, the boy was taken by airplane ten days ago to the clinic at Temple university. Vernon is expected to return to Chicago by airplane within a few days.

JAPANESE CHARGE AMERICAN EDITOR INSULTED EMPEROR

TOKIO, Aug. 31 [Saturday].—(AP)—The Japanese government authorized diplomatic action at Shanghai today against the magazine, China Weekly Review, published by John B. Powell, an American, because of an article allegedly insulting Emperor Hirohito.

[Besides being editor of the China Weekly Review, Mr. Powell is Shanghai correspondent of The Chicago Tribune.]

A foreign office spokesman said Ambassador Akira Alyoshi had consulted the foreign minister and would "take some steps," the nature of which was not disclosed.

However, a dispatch from Shanghai to Nichi-Nichi asserted the ambassador, in coöperation with Japanese military representatives there and at Shanghai, demanded a formal apology from the consul general under whose jurisdiction the magazine is published. Suitable punishment would be asked, it was said, against the magazine and Powell's personal apology would be required.

It was understood the offending article was a translation of an article published in a Chinese magazine for which an editor was imprisoned. Powell is from Hannibal, Mo.

HUNT VANISHED BURGLAR TO FIND IF HE IS SLAIN

Police last night were investigating the disappearance of Joseph Contorno, 32 years old, burglar, stickup man, and "blocker" for pickpockets, to determine if he had met the fate of two of his slain cronies. Contorno's wife, who lives at 415 Harlem avenue, Forest Park, reported to Forest Park and Chicago police, who already were seeking him for questioning in a robbery, that he had been missing since Aug. 13. The wife said she had reveived a letter mailed in St. Joseph, Mich., saying "everything is all right" and bearing her husband's signature. The signature, she said, obviously was false.

JOSEPH CONTORNO.

Eddie Meehan, a pickpocket and pal of Contorno, was found slain on the city's south side in September, 1934. Police blamed the slaying on a gambling feud. Frank Panio, another pickpocket pal of Contorno, was shot to death four months later on the south side. Police said Contorno had served time in the Bridewell for burglary and a robbery.

ZENGE CARRIES LEGAL FIGHT TO FEDERAL COURT

Federal Judge Walter B. Lindley yesterday set for Wednesday the hearing on a motion for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Manderville W. Zenge, who is under indictment in the Criminal court for the mutilation murder of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, husband of Zenge's boyhood sweetheart.

Petition for the writ was filed earlier in the day by Joseph E. Green, Joseph R. Roach, and Daniel Costigan, attorneys for Zenge. The petition alleges that the state authorities have conspired to deprive Zenge of his constitutional rights by refusing him a private examination by an alienist.

Zenge's attorneys do not seek their client's release, they pointed out, but want the federal court to rule on the legality of the circumstances under which the private mental examination was denied. Zenge's trial on the murder charge is set for Sept. 9.

Defense plans call for Zenge's examination by Dr. Harold S. Hurlburt. The state courts have ruled that a state alienist must be present at the examination.

MISS TALMADGE SCREAMS TO FOIL ARMED INTRUDER

See Plot to Kidnap or Rob Actress.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A supposed attempt to kidnap or rob Norma Talmadge, movie actress, in her apartment in the fashionable colonial house in Beverly Hills today was foiled by the screams of the former star and her maid.

Miss Talmadge told sheriff's officers that a man carrying a small box, later learned to be empty, knocked at her apartment door and told her maid, Matilda Shirk, he had brought flowers for the actress. When the maid unfastened the door chain the man pressed an automatic pistol against her body and told her to put up her hands and be quiet.

Instead the maid screamed. Miss Talmadge looked out from her bedroom and saw the man with the pistol. She slammed shut the door and added her screams to the maid's. The man fled down the hallway, dropping the empty box.

The intruder was described as about 5 feet 9 inches tall, dark complexion and well dressed in a gray suit, silk shirt and gray fedora hat. It was learned he had inquired across the hall to ascertain the number of the actress' apartment.

Miss Talmadge is the wife of George Jessel, stage and screen actor.

Hunt Ernest Sundt, Retired Policeman, Missing 2 Days

Relatives of Ernest Sundt, 51 years old, 1757 North Talman avenue, a retired police sergeant, yesterday requested that police search for him. They said he had failed to return to his home after leaving for a walk last Thursday. Sundt served on the police force for 25 years and was attached to the West North avenue station when he was retired in October, 1934.

Library Workers' 6-Day Pay Cut to Be Restored

The salary reduction of six days' pay a month imposed two years ago on public library employés earning less than $100 a month will be permanently restored Monday, Carl B. Roden, chief librarian, announced yesterday. The restoration will add $67,200 a year to the purses of those affected, Roden said.

HELD AS KIDNAPER OF GIRL HE WED EIGHT YEARS AGO

Rupert, W. Va., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Dorothy Bradley Roman, 14 year old mother, waited at the home of her parents today for court action against her husband, William Mavin Roman, charged with kidnaping her eight years ago.

"The girl swears she loves him and that she talked him into carrying her away," said County Prosecutor E. Miner Wilson.

Roman, a world war veteran and a salesman, brought his young wife home this week and immediately was arrested on an old warant charging he kidnaped her in October, 1927.

He and Dorothy were married two years ago in Oklahoma City and have a one year old son. The baby is with his mother at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bradley.

"Roman seems to have treated her very well," said Wilson. "He sent her to school in a number of the cities they've been in while he sold and operated a welding machine."

The case is scheduled for trial in October.

TRUCK AND MEAT STOLEN.

ENGINEER CHIDES MULLEN FOR HIS UTILITIES' "JOB"

Row in Nebraska Enters Personalities Stage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The war between Arthur F. Mullen, former national Democratic committeeman from Nebraska, and Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.], for control of public works administration funds to spend on power projects in the corn country entered the exchange-of-personalities stage today.

George Johnson, engineer for Nebraska's proposed tri-county public works project, sponsored by Senator Norris, charged that Mullen's opposition to the project "comes from the fact that Mr. Mullen is in the employ of utility interests."

Called "Dead Wrong."

"Mullen isn't an engineer and he's dead wrong in his statement that the tri-county project will provide too much power for the state," he said. "Of course, Mullen is employed by power companies and that's the answer. If you'll remember, testimony regarding his fee was given before the senate lobby investigating committee."

Evidence before the committtee was that Mullen, floor manager for President Roosevelt at the 1932 Democratic convention and a personal friend of the President, was on a $25,000 a year retaining fee for the Cities Service Utilities system. William B. S. Winans, controler of the corporation, testified that Mullen was employed in connection with matters before the federal trade commission. He referred to a report on Cities Service which the commission has never completed.

Protests to President.

Mullen earlier in the day released a statement that he had protested to the President and Secretary of the Interior Ickes, for whose appointment he was considered primarily responsible, against present plans for the Tri-County Power and Irrigation project, a 20 million dollar development.

"There is no market for the power that would be developed," he declared, "and it will only destroy the market for existing government power developments in Nebraska. In addition, I don't think there is water enough to make power production certain."

Acts as Attorney.

The "existing government power developments" in the state are two 7 million dollar plants at Columbus and Sutherland, Neb. Mullen has been acting as attorney for the applicants in both instances. He has been under fire for sponsoring projects where there was a doubt as to the sufficiency of water and the existence of a market for the power to be produced. These points formerly made against him Mullen is now using in his protests against the Tri-County project backed by Senator Norris.

President Roosevelt is "on the spot" in the struggle, having been asked to make a decision between two of his strongest supporters.

MANY SCHOOLS IN COUNTY WILL OPEN TUESDAY

Several schools in Cook county outside Chicago are to open their fall school terms Tuesday with increased enrolments—as much as fifteen per cent in some districts. Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, said yesterday that enrolment in all kindergarten, elementary, and high schools outside of Chicago is expected to reach a total of 110,000 pupils this year.

There will be nearly 4,000 teachers in the 350 schools outside the city, an increase of 129 elementary teachers and 77 high school teachers. A few new buildings have been constructed and additions made to others, largely through use of PWA or WPA funds.

Among the schools to open Tuesday are those in Cicero, Thornton Township High school, and Maine Township High school. Because each school district has a separate board of education fixing opening and closing dates, the opening time varies. Schools in the city will open Sept. 16.

CALL COUZENS' SLOW RECOVERY DUE TO DIABETES

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 30.—(AP)—United States Senator James Couzens was given another blood transfusion tonight, the second in two days. Senator Couzens was operated on for removal of a kidney last week.

Physicians declared, however, they were "agreed that he will get well."

The senator was given the usual amount of blood, one pint, and a few hours afterward went to sleep.

Diabetes, sources close to the family disclosed today, has made the recovery of Senator Couzens somewhat slower than normal.

That condition, however, is under control, and no serious complications are expected, physicians said.

2 Weeks Remain to See Lotus Beds, Owners Warn

Owners of the 2,000 acres of lotus beds in the Grass lake region in Lake county, which have been in bloom for the last six weeks, warned yesterday that only two weeks remain for the public to enjoy the sight of the blossoms. Jack O'Connor, proprietor of Blarney island two miles south of Antioch which has an observation tower, said the influx of visitors to the region has been especially large this year.

TOES OF LANDLORD CHEWED; HIS TENANT GETS COURT REBUKE

For allegedly chewing three of his landlord's toes on Aug. 18, Michael Ross, 48 years old, was given a suspended fine of $50 by Police Magistrate Henry J. Sandusky in the Cicero police court yesterday.

Anton Varpucen, 42 years old, of 4708 West 12th place, Cicero, is the landlord.

"Ross, a relief client, lived in my first floor apartment," Varpucen said. "He owed me $140. I told him to move. He started taking a gas range out the front door. When I insisted that he use the back door he attacked me, took off my shoes, and chomped his jaws on my three toes. Then he picked up the stove and carried it out the front way."

Magistrate Sandusky placed Ross under peace bonds for a year.

Big Tax Measure Also Approved.

scale committees of the operators and miners has been called to meet here on Sept. 5 to discuss new contracts.

Levies Included in Bill.

No ceremony or celebration surrounded the signing of the tax measure which started out to be a New Deal redistribution of wealth through confiscatory taxation. The bill as finally signed did not include the taxes on inheritance which the President had suggested in his special message to congress. The taxes included in the bill are:

Increased estate taxes beginning at 2 per cent on the first $10,000 over $40,000 and ascending to 70 per cent on estates of more than $50,000,000; estimated to yield $80,000,000.

Increased gift taxes; estimated to yield $21,000,000.

Income Taxes Boosted.

Increased surtaxes on individual incomes beginning at 31 per cent on incomes of $50,000 and graduated up to 75 per cent on incomes over $10,000,000; estimated to yield $45,000,000.

Graduated income taxes for corporations, the first of their kind, ranging from 12½ per cent on incomes under $2,000 up to 15 per cent on incomes over $40,000; estimated to yield $35,000,000.

Increased capital stock tax of $1.40 per $1,000 and increased excess profits tax of 6 per cent on profits over 10 per cent of the capital and 12 per cent of profits over 15 per cent; estimated to yield $44,000,000.

A tax of an effective 1½ per cent on intercorporation dividends [90 per cent exempt]; estimated to yield $29,000,000.

Due on 1936 Incomes.

The increased individual and corporation taxes apply only to income earned after Dec. 31, 1935. For most individuals this will mean that they will file their first returns under the new high rates in March, 1937, paying the high taxes on their 1936 incomes. Corporations not operating on a calendar year basis will pay the higher taxes on income earned in the fiscal year beginning any time after Dec. 31, 1935.

The increased estate taxes apply to the estate of any person dying after 6 o'clock today, the hour at which the bill was signed. The new gift taxes apply to gifts made after Dec. 31, 1935.

Alcohol Measure Signed.

The new alcohol control measure as it goes on the statute books creates a federal alcohol administration under the secretary of the treasury to take over the activities of the old FACA, killed by the Supreme court's NRA decision.

Still awaiting the President's signature, before his departure for a vacation at Hyde Park, N. Y., tomorrow night, are the neutrality resolution, carrying a six months' mandatory embargo on arms and munitions to belligerents, and the 250 million dollar wealth confiscation tax measure.

Miners Are Jubilant.

Centralia, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's signature to the Guffey coal bill today was greeted with enthusiasm by miners in the Illinois coal fields, where bitter strife in the last three years has claimed nearly two score lives.

Mining circles now are confident the way is clear for the drafting of a new agreement between the coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America. Early settlement of the wage scale dispute would minimize threatened renewed demonstrations between the rival United and Progressive mine unions, it is asserted.

Those forecasting a quick settlement when negotiations are resumed between operators and the United workers on a new wage scale and working conditions Sept. 5 based their predictions on the fact that three times a nation-wide bituminous coal strike was averted this summer on the strength of promised enactment of the Guffey legislation into law.

Mention 2 Illinois Men for Guffey Coal Board

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—It was learned from authoritative sources today Illinois has at least two candidates for the bituminous coal board to be appointed to administer the Guffey coal bill, signed today by President Roosevelt. The first of those mentioned was Charles Moderwell, a retired coal operator of Chicago. The second was C. K. Hamilton, Carbondale, Ill., now head of the state's federal housing administration.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Hugh Walpole, Ellen Glasgow Score Again

MacKinlay Kantor Also Has New Success.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Voice of Bugle Ann," by MacKinlay Kantor. [Coward-McCann.] Published on Monday.

"The Inquisitor," by Hugh Walpole. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published on Wednesday. September Literary Guild selection.

"Vein of Iron," by Ellen Glasgow. [Harcourt-Brace.] Published on Thursday. September Book of the Month offering.

One of England's best known, one of America's most tried and respected, and one of her younger popular novelists all offer us the fruit of their literary loins this week, mental offspring which may well support their parents in luxury . . . . for each of the three books is certain to have a wide and prosperous sale.

Two of them are book club selections, and that starts them off with sales of from thirty to fifty thousand, which may well provide Mr. Walpole with a Rembrandt for his collection of etchings or Miss Glasgow with the rarest Staffordshire item for her collection of china dogs, and if Mr. Kantor owns a dog himself, that dog may well be presented with a platinum studded collar, which, however, he couldn't wear any more proudly than Bugle Ann wore her hammered silver dollar tag.

Miser Continues Power in Death.

Hugh Walpole chooses Polchester, the cathedral town which was the scene of "Harmer John," for "The Inquisitor"—indeed, Harmer John's ghost almost appears in it with the mention of his name now and again. But Mr. Walpole chooses the manner of "The Man with the Red Hair" rather than his more familiar and more saga-ish manner for a tale of the evil influence of the miserly old man who had a power in his death even more malevolent than he had in his life.

There are hints of the cathedral itself taking a hand in events—out of resentment of a pageant which dug up its skeletons. There are ghosts explained and ghastly visions unexplained. There is a mystery which is no mystery long before the author would wish his readers to know how old Furze was done in. There is melodrama.

There is entertainment [if you like that sort of thing] and art, but the art is that of a skilled craftsman rather than of a genius, or even a devotee to his art practicing what is really his vocation. "The Inquisitor" is Mr. Walpole not at his best, to my way of thinking, but, being Mr. Walpole's, written with all of the inborn and acquired skill of the natural and experienced story teller.

When you read it, don't miss the author's letter to his publishers, which is printed on the inside of the jacket. . . . It tells of Mr. Walpole's amazing plan begun twenty years ago and completed with this book.

Ellen Glasgow Writes a Study in Character.

Ellen Glasgow has also turned from her customary mood and manner in "Vein of Iron." It is southern in setting, but its problems, its characters, its psychology are in no sense sectional. It is a story of "character," of moral strength and spiritual courage, exemplified in the indomitable old grandmother who was iron overlaid with the gentleness of compassion, of the mother who was delicacy and physical and mental sensitiveness overlaid with iron, and of the grandchild—the real heroine of the book—who by her birth and her association combined the fine qualities of her forbears.

Her father had lost his church when he insisted on questioning God, but he never questioned his questioning or its bare-boned economic results. His life was in danger when he insisted during the war that all war was wicked, but he never stopped believing that it was wicked. Ada knew that it was wrong to tear Ralph from her and to allow his life to be ruined for the sake of a silly girl's "honor," and her own meant nothing to her in comparison to her love for Ralph. But her real test came when her husband lost his courage and his health, as the whole world lost theirs. . . .

Sense of Doom Felt by Reader.

The most interesting thing about "Vein of Iron" technically is, I think, the sense of impending tragedy with which the author suffuses the pages, without ever giving them any unnatural injection of calamity.

Mr. Walpole's pages are pricked black and blue with hints of tragedy and disaster. In Miss Glasgow's there is not one hint, from her, that life is hard and the living of it a task which only iron in the spirit makes bearable. But all the time the reader has that undeniable and at the same time tragic and beautiful fact impressed upon him.

There are pages of "Vein of Iron" which are poignantly touching, and in none of them is Miss Glasgow brilliantly satirical as she has previously been . . . in both those qualities it differs from most of her work.

"Bugle Ann" Near Record for Letters.

"The Voice of Bugle Ann" was published first in the Atlantic Monthly, where it was hailed as "the story of the year." It gathered into the mail receiving coffers of that august periodical as many letters as last year's literary wonder child, "Good-Bye, Mr. Chips," which also appeared in the Atlantic, and which is said to have netted the United States postal service a handsome revenue.

Like "Good-Bye, Mr. Chips" "The Voice of Bugle Ann" is also published as a small book. Also like Mr. Chips it is, when you take off your rose colored glasses and give it a piercing look with your good eye, not a masterpiece of form no matter what its sentiment. But both little books have an engaging quality which has endeared and will endear them to hundreds of thousands of readers. . . . Mr. Chips to every one who ever had a teacher he loved, Bugle Ann to every one who ever had a dog he loved.

Not Dog Story in Usual Sense.

Bugle Ann isn't really a dog story at all, or even a story about a dog, for such are really tales of dog's love for and devotion to man and told from the "point of view" of the dog. This is the story of man's love for a dog, not one man's love alone for one dog, but of the love of a whole section for its dogs. Those dogs are hunting dogs . . . not "hounds" but just plain dogs, who chase foxes and bay at them, but who seldom catch their prey. Like prima donnas and golden-voiced tenors, they are listened to by rapt audiences seated around camp fires and applauding their favorite arias. Bugle Ann had the loveliest voice in the Davis pack and on account of that voice Spring Davis killed a man, served three years and more in the penitentiary, and returned a hero to the countryside.

There is nothing sentimental, nothing unreal, nothing the least bit improbable about Mr. Kantor's tale of the murder and the penitentiary sentence. It is a page out of folk history. There is something very sentimental and improbable about the ending of the tale . . . enough, in my opinion, to keep it from being a literary masterpiece, but not enough to keep it from completely engaging the affections.

Their Books Off to Good Start

ELLEN GLASGOW. HUGH WALPOLE. MACKINLAY KANTOR.

Ellen Glasgow's life story of feminine courage, "Vein of Iron," is the September choice of the Book of the Month club, and Hugh Walpole's Cathedral town novel, "The Inquisitor," the month's choice of the Literary guild. MacKinlay Kantor's "The Voice of Bugle Ann" is a classic short story of a dog. All three books are reviewed today.

IMPORTANT BOOKS OUT THIS WEEK

Nursery Education, by W. E. Blatz, Dorothy Millichamp, and Margaret Fletcher [Morrow], offers a working theory of pre-school training.

Nations Can Live at Home, by O. W. Willcox [Norton], explains a new system of crop production.

MYSTERY OF THE WEEK

BY MORTIMER QUICK

No craft, or art if that's what you like to call it, so aptly fits supply to demand as the writing of modern detective fiction. This remark is prompted by the most recent story of G. D. H. and Margaret Cole. It is far from one of their best but its significance lies in the fact that the authors have gone back twenty-five years to create a new detective who may figure in a series of future mystery stories and build up his own legend.

"Dr. Tancred Begins" [Crime Club] is what they call it and we meet the protagonist in remote Cornwall, providentially arrived to take a hand in a not too mysterious murder which, under English law, can never be proved against the ostensible murderer. But this story is not offered as anything remarkable in itself. Rather it is an introduction to more promising detection to come.

The Coles' pleasant Scotland Yard man, Supt. Wilson, is slipped in also as a promising beginner, but it is evident when the astute Coles resort to private inquiry agents as a better bet that private inquiry agents are now what interest that part of the reading public which specializes in assorted crime.

To bear this out two large publishers' prizes are being offered jointly by American and English firms and the condition is made in each case that a new detective must be introduced, unusual, arresting, interesting enough to continue to figure in a series of volumes. The idea is naturally not new, since Poe created Dupin, Gaboriau Lecoq, Conan Doyle Sherlock Holmes, and on these three all our modern authors build, but in these latter years there have been an increasing number of those casual amateurs who, like 'Typhoid Marys' of crime, are always around when some one of their acquaintances is being murdered.

But somehow the names of these nosing individuals don't stick in the mind any more than do those of the police detectives who ruthlessly track down their prey. What the public wants is a personality, a Philo Vance, an Ellery Queen, or a Lord Peter Wimsey, a Roger Sherringham. They must have eccentricities, absurd like the former or American school, engaging like the latter or British school. For we just have to acknowledge that the English have got the hang of the crime story as we never get it with all our Dashiell Hammetts and Rufus Kings. They make good novels of them as well as good detective stories and they have created a dozen sleuths whose names are widely and favorably known.

A detective story is known by the detective it employs.

"We the Accused" [Stokes], by Ernest Raymond has made a great stir in England. It is one of those long, rambling, detailed stories which seem particularly dear to the British novelist and must be correspondingly acceptable to the reading public since they get themselves written with such regularity.

It is a murder story of the Crippen pattern, a good little husband, a domineering wife, a mouselike sweetheart, and a dose of weed killer. There is no mystery about the murder. What follows is even more relentless and the whole wrings the heart.

Your blood must run very cold if you do not want that poor little man to escape the consequences of his crime and to follow his every step from a happy sense of safety, through flight, arrest, trial, conviction, and execution is painful to a degree. The book is charmingly written. If it's a good book you're after here is one. Read it and weep.

Walpole Closes Six Years with Book Society

London Writers Pay Tribute at Dinner.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

London.—[Special correspondence.]—The dinner to Hugh Walpole,* which celebrated his six and a half years' chairmanship of the London Book society [as well as, reluctantly, his retirement from that position], was one of the best attended of such functions to be held of late in London.

It would be difficult to summon successfully for any other writer of Mr. Walpole's years so representative a gathering of writers. Only the most culture-proud of our highbrows were conspicuously absent; and authors as diverse as H. G. Wells, A. P. Herbert, J. B. Priestley, and Charles Morgan, among men, and Miss Rose Macaulay, Miss Susan Ertz, and Miss Ethel Mannin, among women, were present with good will and good wishes to the guest of the evening.

It was announced that Mr. Walpole's place on the book society committee would be taken by Julian Huxley.

Mr. Walpole concluded his speech of thanks by saying that even if the news made some members of his audience ill he must proclaim the fact that he had had a happy life. He has done more than that: he has made many other people very happy, especially the young writers whom he has always so generously discovered and recommended.

The newest choice of the Evening Standard for a popular book of the month has fallen upon a new novel by M. J. Farrell, whose book is called "Full House," [Collins]. Miss Farrell's real name is Molly Skrine, and she is the daughter of the Irish poet, Moira O'Neill. She has written several other novels, chiefly of a sporting character, of which "Mad Puppetstown" is the best known; but in this one she has appealed to a wider audience, and the book, the tale of an Irish family, ought to be very much liked.

An English author who should have greater fortune in the United States, as well as in his own country, than he has yet enjoyed, is Hugh Edwards. He is at present receiving bouquets here, of which the finest so far is that awarded by James Agate, the excellent dramatic critic to the Sunday Times and book reviewer to The Daily Express. Mr. Agate first discovered Mr. Edwards by reading a novel called "All Night at Mr. Stanyhurst's," and he was so moved by it that he yielded to that stormy word, "masterpiece."

Now I claim to be a yet earlier admirer of Mr. Edwards than Mr. Agate, for in 1932 I publicly acclaimed his first novel, "Sangoree," but all our praises have apparently left something to be said. I therefore now mention that we have in England a highly original writer, belonging to no group or class, but in an order by himself, who has written three good but as yet not very popular books. This new one, "Helen Between Cupids," [Cape], to which Mr. Agate has written a preface, will attract much attention; for it is a sea story, robust in its implications, written in a fantastic style, and like nothing else in recent letters.

*Mr. Walpole's latest novel, "The Inquisitor," was published on Wednesday in New York and is reviewed today.

CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE

ROOSEVELT ONLY ISSUE IN 1936, SAYS DICKINSON

Tells Indianians About Broken Pledges.

Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Dictatorship will be the inevitable result of the political doctrines of President Roosevelt if the people approve their continuance in the national election of 1936, United States Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa declared at a Republican rally which attracted thousands of party members to Kokomo today.

"Rights of citizens are about to be abridged by denying legal redress for wrongful acts committed by the government," the senator said. "The national administration has had the effrontery to ask immunity from suits seeking to recover in the courts losses due to taxes subsequently declared illegal, or from the government's competition with private business, subsidized at the taxpayers' expense."

States to be Mere Units.

Asserting the government is threatening to "virtually annul" the constitution, Senator Dickinson said, "the states, for all practical purposes, are to be reduced to mere units of administration for a centralized economic policy such as has been brought about in Germany under the Nazi régime."

The speaker, regarded widely as an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination, defined the issue in the 1936 campaign as President Roosevelt. He listed five national platform pledges which he said the chief executive had broken—promises of economy in cost of government, balanced budget, sound currency, removal of government from private enterprise, and to restore international trade.

Action Is Opposite.

"He has done the exact opposite in every instance," Senator Dickinson declared. "He has surrendered abjectly to the politicians and sacrificed his economy measures, his monetary policy is one of unlimited borrowing on one hand and confiscatory taxation on the other with complete financial disaster the inevitable outcome, and he plunged the government into business to an extent never before approached."

The senator declared the President's social policy has failed because "instead of searching out and dealing with its underlying causes, the relief administration continues to temporize by 'raking leaves' and other 'boondoggling' makeshifts."

He also charged the administration with delaying its new works program and holding the five billion dollars appropriated by congress as a political fund.

Pleading for the cause of individualism, the senator said, the opportunity should be preserved for every man and woman to mold his career, to model his fortunes, and to seek security by his accomplishments.

AGAINST ROOSEVELT

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Detroit News in an interview with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin today quoted him as taking a strong stand against the New Deal policies of President Roosevelt and promising to make his National Union for Social Justice a factor in the 1936 presidential campaign.

"Norman Thomas in his heyday was a piker at socialism compared to Roosevelt," said the News interview, quoting Father Coughlin's critical view on many of the administration's agricultural, banking, and taxation policies.

Father Coughlin said the National Union for Social Justice, which he founded and for which he claims a membership of 8,000,000, would support some candidate, as yet unselected, in the presidential campaign next year.

Awaits a Declaration.

"We are not going to put a party in the field," he said. "Our support will depend on the principles enunciated by the candidate. You have to back up the principles with support of individuals."

The priest listed twenty states which he said were anti-Roosevelt now.

"If the vote took place tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt would be reëlected. But I wouldn't dare guess what the outcome would be with the vote six months away," he said.

Father Coughlin declared that "this 'sock the rich' is the bunk."

Middle Class Hit Hardest.

"The great middle class is the one which is getting the socking from the taxation angle these days," he said. "The middle class doesn't realize it yet, but it will one of these days. If we make an earnest effort to pay the debts which are being piled up, think of the taxes. There will have to be pork at a dollar.

"Roosevelt can't go ahead with this Tugwellian stuff, killing pigs, plowing under cotton, and now potatoes. . . . By 1936 the national debt will have reached 40 billion dollars."

Father Coughlin listed "seven New England states," "seven silver states," three "Huey Long states," and Michigan, Illinois, and New York as the states he believes Mr. Roosevelt already has lost.

COUGHLIN DROPS SOLDIERS' FIELD PLAN FOR SEASON

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin has given up his plans to hold a meeting of his National Union for Social Justice in Soldiers' field this fall, explaining that the Chicago park commissioners have delayed granting a permit so long that approaching winter rules out an outdoor meeting.

"Can't go in snowshoes," he said.

Father Coughlin's announcemnt was made in Detroit yesterday. The park commissioners refused him permission to use the field several weeks ago, and Father Coughlin took the fight to the courts. The lower court upheld his petition for a writ of mandamus, and the matter is now in the process of appeal.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Faye Quateman, 1442 South Kolin avenue, was crowned Miss Franklin Park last night as more than 1,750 persons gathered for the first annual Franklin Park water carnival held at the pool, 14th street and South Kolin avenue. Miss Quateman won over a field of fifty contestants, second place going to Lillian Dean, 3603 Armitage avenue, and third place to Miss Evelyn Mulacek, 3301 West Cermak road. The program was in charge of Erwin Weiner, director of the park, and Elva Lindau, gymnasium instructor.

QUIZ ORDERED ON BEATING OF VOTE FRAUD WITNESS

Election Board Acts in Shipley Case.

Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, acting for the board of election commissioners of which she is a member, yesterday ordered a further investigation of the beating of Ira J. Shipley, a prospective witness against five officials of the Fifty-third precinct of the Twenty-seventh ward. The poll officials are to appear before County Judge Edmund Jarecki Sept. 11 on a contempt citation arising from irregularities in the Nov. 6, 1934, general election.

John Burns, Democratic precinct committeeman, is at liberty on bond awaiting trial in City court Sept. 10 on charges of assault preferred against him by Shipley. It is considered unlikely that contempt action in the election inquiry will be taken against Burns because Shipley's participation in the earlier contempt cases is not a matter of judicial record.

Fraudulent Registration Charged.

The interest of Mrs. Reinecke was aroused by Shipley's statement that he had been removed from the election board because he objected to the fraudulent registration of sixty-five voters in the precinct. Shipley said that he had reported the irregularities in the registration canvass to Chief Investigator Mark O'Leary of the election commission and that he had been threatened with dismissal. O'Leary was unable to recall the incident yesterday and said that Shipley's case had been handled by Emil Leininger, an election official who is out of town.

"Our records fail to show that Mr. Shipley made any complaint," Mrs. Reinecke said. "We will, however, go into the matter thoroughly. The records do show that Mr. Shipley was removed from the precinct election board because he was not qualified and because he had made an independent canvass of voters, attempting to disqualify some voters illegally."

Says Shipley Violated Law.

Shipley was disqualified because he was a state employé at the time and because he was not a householder. He also was accused of not keeping the registers right," Mrs. Reinecke said. He had made penciled notations on the books, she said, in violation of the law.

Mrs. Reinecke said that Leininger will be questioned informally upon his return to the city but that any action by the election commissioners will be deferred pending the outcome of the assault case in city court and the contempt citation in the County court.

NO BETTER MAN THAN SMITH FOR '36, SAYS RASKOB

Reno, Nev., Aug. 30.—(AP)—John J. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, said today, "I don't know where the Democrats could get a better candidate" for President than Alfred E. Smith.

He commented in an interview when asked what he thought of the possibility of the former New York governor seeking the nomination.

Raskob asserted there was no foundation for a published report that he might run against United States Senator P. A. McCarran in Nevada in 1938.

"In the first place, I am not a resident of Nevada and have no intention of moving here," he said, "as I have a very comfortable home and a lot of relatives in the east."

Raskob came here to attend a meeting of stockholders and directors of the Consolidated Virginia Mining company.

St. Paul Commissioner Fires Detective on Bribe Count

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 30.—(AP)—H. E. Warren, commissioner of public safety, today ordered discharge of Arthur Haessig, suspended detective, charging the officer accepted bribes to permit operation of slot machines.

SULLIVAN CITES COURT'S WINNING FIGHT ON CRIME

Retires as Chief Justice to Join Appellate Bench.

Judge Denis E. Sullivan, who has accepted an assignment to the Appellate court, terminated his year as chief justice of the Criminal court yesterday, leaving behind him records to show the most successful and efficient year in fighting crime in the history of the court. Coöperation of State's Attorney Courtney and the police, together with acceleration of court cases made possible the excellent record, the retiring chief justice said.

Judge Sullivan will be succeeded as chief justice on Monday by Judge Denis J. Normoyle. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney has pledged the coöperation of his office in maintaining the record of the last year.

Calls System Equal to Best.

"The crime situation in the county has been continuously improving in the last three years," said Judge Sullivan. "The police, the state's attorney, and the courts have each contributed their shares. The local machinery for prosecuting crime is second to none."

As the next fiscal year opens only 236 indictments are pending. At this time last year there were 574 indictments pending, so the Criminal court not only kept up with the grand jury's indictments, but, in addition, disposed of 338 indictments left over from the previous year.

During the court year beginning Sept. 1, 1934, and ending Aug. 31, 1935, 2,138 indictments were returned and 111 indictments were reinstated. In the same period the courts disposed of 2,587 indictments.

Three Sentenced to Chair.

In this period 2,388 defendants were found guilty. The total of acquittals was 513. Of the defendants convicted three were sentenced to the electric chair and 1,563 were sentenced to the penitentiary. The rest were given jail terms or sent to state institutions.

Judge Sullivan's last official act was the confiscation of hundreds of rifles, shotguns, revolvers, and other tools of criminals, including master keys in automobile thefts. These were dumped into Lake Michigan.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Frost Arrives Early

August 30, 1935.

SOME of the workers on THE TRIBUNE experimental farms blossomed out as weather forecasters this past week while the snappy cool days and nights were shoving August warmth right out of the picture. For example, Frank Zeier on the Wheaton farm sprang this prophecy the other day. He said that if we had another rain there certainly would be an early frost this season.

Old Jack Frost evidently was in sympathy with the boys as weather prophets, because he came along the middle of the week and appeared after a rain at Yorkville with his proverbial paint brush to put a slight silver tint on the ground. The frost was very slight, but served to prove the boys' ability as weather men.

Clarence Thurow, manager of the Yorkville farm, also went on record with a weather prophecy this week while we were having cool weather. He said the signs indicated an early frost this fall. Then one of the boys on the farm cited the activity of the katydids as further proof that old Jack Frost was going to "gild" the pumpkins earlier than usual. Inasmuch as the katydids were heard earlier than usual this season, one might expect frost real early.

The Muscovy ducks on the pond staged an unexpected migration this week which surprised Rawlings.

Until now all has been going splendidly for the Muscovies and they have been quite contented on the pond.

Yesterday Rawlings took half of a new clutch of ducklings down to the pond to live with the rest of the ducks. His idea was to transport this group to the new water home and then take the rest of the clutch the following morning.

You can imagine his surprise when he was moving the second group of ducklings early in the morning to meet the other half of the gang on their way back to the barnyard. They were waddling along with but one idea in mind—get back to the old barnyard homestead. Rawlings didn't stop to argue it out with the ducklings. He just turned around and walked back to the barnyard with the whole family.

Although the oat harvest is over another kind of harvest began immediately here on the farm. With wild cherries, grapes, and blackberries plentiful, many a bucketful of these fruits has been gathered and headed straight for the cooking pots.

The final link in this "harvest" chain was delicious jelly and jams stored in cool, dark fruit cellars. The wild blackberry bushes on the farm have been loaded with fruit this season and I have noticed that literally dozens of wild cherry trees are black with clusters of fruit.

There are lots of walnut trees on the Yorkville farm, but it seems this is an off year for them. I looked at a number of the trees in the lower woods the other day, finding only a few of them bearing any amount of nuts. And the squirrels will make short work of this limited crop.

FINDS NEW DEAL CRIPPLES FARM TO AID FACTORY

The New Deal is crippling America's agricultural industry for the benefit of the manufacturers Representative Karl Stefan [Rep., Neb.] charged here yesterday. Stefan, on his way home from the closing session of congress, is visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Askren, 2746 Hampden court.

"While farmers in this country are curtailing their crops the government is permitting grains to be shipped into America from other nations," he said.

Representative Stefan predicted the government would add another 4 billion dollars to its debt during the next year. Elected last November as the only Republican from his state, Representative Stefan said he planned to introduce a bill at the next session to combine the army and navy as an economy measure. He gained attention last session by having a public address system installed in the house.

13 Explorers Missing in Brazil; Planes Hunt Men

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 30.—Concern is felt here for the department of agriculture's geological expedition of thirteen scientists, who apparently are lost near the headwaters of the Ivahy river, state of Parana. The scientists left for that area four months ago on an exploration trip. The expedition was working down the river into Matto Grosso through a region inhabited by hostile Indians. Air mail planes have been ordered to detour and pass over the region.

ASSESS CAPONE $120,000 UNPAID LIQUOR TAXES

U. S. to Sue Gang Again on New Charges.

An assessment for $120,000 in unpaid taxes was entered by the commissioner of internal revenue in Washington yesterday against Al Capone, former gang czar and beer baron who is serving a ten year sentence in Alcatraz prison near San Francisco for income tax evasion. The assessment covers 20,000 barrels of beer which the government charges the Capone syndicate had in its possession for sale, without paying any taxes on it from 1921 to 1932.

Uncle Sam will attempt to collect the $120,000 by a civil suit, in which other members of the Capone syndicate are to be named as defendants. The delinquent liquor tax assessment has been certified to the bureau of internal revenue by the tax division of the department of justice, and court proceedings are expected to start within a short time, probably in Chicago. United States Attorney Igoe, however, has not yet received instructions on the case.

Separate from Income Case.

The prospective civil lawsuit of the government against Capone and his allies to collect taxes on beer is legally unrelated to the litigation over the gangsters' nonpayment of federal income taxes.

Government officials surmised yesterday that the big gangsters very likely secreted large sums, but considered it probable that most of Capone's tangible assets in the form of real estate already are under lien to cover his income tax deficiency.

In the income tax case Capone's attorney, Michael Ahern, appealed from original claims of $322,842 and last May the government compromised on $157,416. No negotiations over paying this amount have taken place, Ahern said yesterday. He doubted that Capone had a rich cache.

Thirty-eight in Original Bill.

The new levy represents a tax of $6 a barrel on beer seized in raids. As a result of the raids Capone, Bert De Laney, Joseph C. Fusco, and thirty-five others were indicted. Repeal of the 18th amendment ended the case.

A judgment in the liquor tax case would be in effect for six years.

OLDER THEOLOGICAL ECONOMISTS.

The ethical admixture in economics has changed more than one might think in the span of about two generations. The classroom instructor will tell his students that ethics and economics do not mix, but as soon as they get in political action they do. Economic laws and practices are bent for ethical and moral purposes.

Joseph Dorfman in his biography of Thorstein Veblen gives an account of what was being taught in economics when Veblen was going through school. The economists in many colleges, big and little, old and young, were theologians. Many of the standard texts were written by clergymen. The most popular text was that of Bishop Francis Wayland, revised by the Rev. A. L. Chapin, president of the Congregational college of Beloit. The theological expounders of economics were William James' tough-minded men.

They held that the rights of property were paramount and that property was divinely instituted for the protection of what was best in the lives of men. They believed that work, thrift, saving, and the acquiring of a competence indicated that a man was worthy. A failure to exercise these virtues to such an end indicated that he was unworthy. With an apparently profound conviction they taught that to encourage any other ideas was contrary to the divine purpose and injurious to the future of mankind.

Chapin's text taught that even philanthropy is a violation of the laws of God and property, since it attempts to lift the natural penalties of indolence and improvidence and will bring about unexpected and severe evil. He held that the doctrine that government should provide for the unemployed is the most subversive of all social order. He held that the laborer has no complaint against the competitive system. The Rev. William D. Wilson of Cornell, in his text, stated that it ought to be often repeated that there may be a tendency for "claiming too much for some labor and not sufficiently regarding the rise of capital and the sacredness of law by which it is protected." The contribution of the Rev. Lyman Atwater of Princeton was that civil government, the family, and tenure of property are the great ordinances of God for the social regulation of man.

The theologians of the day, and their day lasted well into the troublous period of the Haymarket riots, the agrarian movement in the wheat country, the rise of Ignatius Donnelley, the panic of '93, the steel, railroad, and Pullman strikes, were certain that divine will established capitalism to create a stable and benevolent order. Marx and Engels were being translated, but little attention was being paid them. Bellamy's "Looking Backward" became a best seller. Henry George was a popular voice of rebellion, but to the theological economists his was a "wild scheme of iniquity and folly." Spencer, finding his vogue in America, gave the tough ethical side of the old clerical economists a justification for sifting out the population. If evolution had a divine goal, then only the worthy could attain it and only they should be given approval and consideration.

No one needs to be told how the clergy, now interested in the public and political aspects of economics, has turned away from the ethical ideas of their theological predecessors. Although clergymen now are not so much in the classroom, even of the colleges originally established for religious purpose, they are quite as much on the public platform. The teachers of the older school may be understood in the terms of their day and generation. They were of a day which believed in the acquisition of wealth. It was also a day of piratical business methods. But it was regarded as a proper life's ambition for a boy to be determined to make money.

Business and politics were two fields which offered distinction. A young fellow who wanted to make his name in the arts would have been regarded as the odd fish of his community. The country was fast developing and it needed capital. A rich man in a community was not an object of distrust and dislike, but was respected as one who had made the best of his wits and opportunities. His neighbors might wish they had as much money as he had, but they didn't think he shouldn't have it.

If the old business methods had justified the theological approval of them there might not have been such a violent revulsion. The most distinguished manipulators of capital, the biggest private enterprisers, were wild men who certainly asked for what they later got.

The new theological economists would read the text of the older one with considerable amazement. Here, as in most other things, we'd probably find that reason lay somewhere in between the two. The middle road ought to be the broadest, but somehow or other it is the hardest to find and the most difficult to travel just when it is most needed as the safest way to a desired result.

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS LOBBYIST.

Chicago's Democratic congressmen are drifting back to town, now that the session is ended. The members profess to know little about the President's No. 1 lobbyist, Charles West, undersecretary of the interior. They were acquainted with him and saw him around a good deal, but—if you can believe them—had nothing to do with him. They saw him from time to time on the floor of the house in earnest conversation with a recalcitrant brother. They knew he sometimes used the speaker's office when he was working on the house and that he had space in the senate office building as well.

If, say the returning statesmen in substance, Mr. West was doing some of the things he is supposed to have done to get the President's legislative program enacted, his behavior was reprehensible. We had no part in it. He did not offer us any of the easy money for our districts or make any promises of patronage in exchange for our votes. All we know is what we read in the papers.

In short, the Democratic congressmen are straining to repudiate Mr. West and to dissociate themselves in the public mind from the lobbyist's activities. At the same time the congressmen are under the necessity of defending the policies and conduct of Mr. West's boss, President Roosevelt, in whose name and at whose direction everything that West did was undertaken.

Politics makes mental acrobats, but nobody can straddle those conflicting propositions. The Democrats can't defend Roosevelt without taking West to their bosom. They can't denounce West without denouncing Roosevelt.

EPITAPH FOR A RUINED HAT.

The rain proved how good the show at Soldiers' field was. Some spectators left, but the vast majority sat it out to the end. They got soaked, but what they saw was worth the pressing bill and the price of a new hat.

The three fellows in straw hats [the reference will be clear to faithful readers of these columns] were struck anew with the paradox of sport. The professional plays as if for fun; the amateur takes his game as seriously as if it were a business. The All-Stars did everything according to accepted doctrin. They kicked when the book of strategy commands a kick. They did not attempt passes in the shadow of their own goal. When the ball became wet they did not try to run back the punts. Their game was strictly correct [the one exception being the choice of play when they were nearest to a touchdown] and it was in striking contrast to that of the Bears.

The business men of football are playboys. They pass from their own 10-yard line. Wet or dry, the punted ball is fielded. They take chances which would bring the orthodox football coach in sorrow to the grave and might even render him speechless. To the orthodox the spectacle would not be more distressing if Mr. Hewitt came on the field puffing a cigar or Mr. Nagurski deliberately halted on the enemy's one-yard line with no one between him and the goal.

The Bears and their business rivals have added to football a touch of bullfighting. They deliberately take crazy chances, or, at any rate, chances that look crazy. They invite disaster only to avoid it. They race the Twentieth Century to the crossings. They ought to be made to pay for their folly and once or twice a season they do; what they have discovered, as business men, is that if they pay by the occasional loss of a game, so does John Public with his cash.

WAR ON A SHOESTRING.

Mussolini may be able to go to war on a shoestring and work it up to a profitable going concern. He'll be a wizard if he does. His sevens are selling at 51, his coal dealer wants cash with the order, he is taking up everything that can be converted into exchange, motor trafic can't have gasoline, and all citizens are to make the required sacrifices to Fascist patriotism.

These are the dark moments of a country when it is deep in a desperate war and doubtful of the consequences. They are poor omens for a country about to do a little colonizing and pick up some real estate. No one outside Italy can share the Italian confidence that a conquered Ethiopia will immediately begin to show profits and that a busted conqueror, if he proves to be conqueror, will be at once in funds.

A quick raid on a gold hoard might retrieve the raider's fortunes, but Ethiopia is not a gold hoard. Mussolini is paraphrasing Foch. His credit is low, his money is gone, his expenses are dreadful. He attacks.

SIGHT FOR THE BLIND.

[Peoria, Ill., Transcript.]

Blindness has long been considered one of the greatest of afflictions to which the human body is heir. It has been one of the worst of all handicaps because little could be done for failing or lost sight.

Scientists have been trying for years to restore vision, but their progress has been pitifully slow. Now, however, there seems to be hope that the blessing of sight will come to thousands of persons who are almost totally blind.

A research fellow in optometry at Columbia university, Dr. William Feinbloom, has invented a "microvision" lens which, he says, will partly restore the sight of persons who are as much as 95 per cent blind.

The new lens, according to its inventor, who is a reputable student and who is not trying to commercialize it until it has been tested in institutions for the blind, will give sight to all who have the ability to distinguish between brilliant light and jet darkness.

If the lens does what its inventor claims for it hundreds of thousands of persons will be given sight almost miraculously. It will bring daylight and beauties of the world to many who never have seen a flower, or a butterfly, or a sunrise.

For this gift to the world Columbia university can be forgiven a hundred muddle-headed brain trusters and a whole campus full of radicals.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

TIME AND THE RIVER.

For Time's as a river
Predestined to flow
Where tides of the ocean
Move to and fro.
Yet out of that ocean
Time rises again,
As rivers reborn,
Rediscovered by men.
And endless the circuit
And wordless the scheme,
Creation is more
Than a beautiful dream.
Economy, industry,
Use are portrayed
And plans beyond telling
Have surely been laid.

BEARS AND ALL-STARS.

Chicago Bears' 5 to 0 defeat of the All-Star collegians at Soldiers' field Thursday night was not by wide enough margin to settle permanently that old argument on the relative merits of pro and college football.

In a contest of "ifs" and "buts," the last half played in the rain, the score perhaps reflected the respective merits of the two opposing elevens. As in 1934, however, neither team scored a touchdown. These experienced players instinctively know their defense. Offense was good, only a few times brilliant, but neither eleven had its attack functioning as effectively as a longer period of preparation might have produced.

Considering the gathering of All-Stars who had not played together before, considering the Bears were seeking vindication from the scoreless tie of last year, and considering weather conditions, it was one of those rare affairs in which both winner and loser emerged with honor.

Except to zealous partisans the "ifs" and "buts" may be omitted and the game pass into gridiron annals as a great spectacle and a great promotion which those present hope to see repeated each year.

AU REVOIR.

On Aug. 31, 1935, the improvised TDR [Till Dick Returns] bureau of these parts ceases to function. Its acting administrator returns to private life—back on the sports pages. Like most of the alphabetical agencies, it has failed, perhaps, in many of its purposes, but it has, at any rate, given relief to R. H. L., which was the primary objective. Moreover, it has left no deficit for future generations to repay. In fact, it accumulated a surplus, which is processed to the regular conductor and forms a large part of his awaiting mail.

The temporary administrator expresses thanks to those who coöperated in TDR. We resumed acquaintance with many old friends. We had opportunity to meet many interesting new friends. To these old friends and these new friends our best wishes and au revoir.

CONVULSIONS IN CHILDREN.

CONVULSIONS in infants and children present one of the most terrifying episodes with which parents are faced. They have a habit of occurring so unexpectedly that the means of handling the situation are rarely at hand. While convulsions are seldom fatal, yet some degree of brain damage may result, and those in charge of the child must provide prompt relief. The primary object is to control the actual attack; the cause may await a later search.

We must understand that convulsions are in themselves not a disease but merely a symptom of some condition that brings on a series of involuntary contractions of muscles usually associated with unconsciousness. Infants are in hair-trigger balance to the factors that cause the symptom; not only are attacks more likely to occur in the early months of life, but they are more dangerous.

Toxic conditions accompanied by a high temperature are often responsible. If bacteria are growing within the body a rapid elimination of toxins may occur, and toxemia plus a high temperature not infrequently means convulsions. Diseases such as measles, chicken-pox, scarlet fever, meningitis, and pneumonia are often attended with convulsions.

Sometimes brain injuries occur during the passage of the infant through the birth canal. These may give rise later to the condition known as spastic paralysis. Now and then convulsions with a high temperature may appear when the baby is 2 or 3 days old. These are probably absorption symptoms, but they must be controled quickly. The child may be deeply cyanotic or cyanosis [blueness] may alternate with pallor, and severe recurring seizures are not uncommon.

A deficiency of calcium in the body may lead to the condition known as tetany or spasmophilia. Occasionally convulsions manifest themselves as a result of rickets, and they may be observed coincident with the cutting of the first teeth. As the child grows older—passes the fifth year—convulsions will be less frequent, and when they occur between the fifth and twelfth years epilepsy must be thought of.

A prompt form of relief is the hot mustard bath, although the word hot must not be interpreted in relation to the ability of the mother's hand to withstand heat. The temperature of the bath should not be over 105 degrees F. Test the temperature with the wrist or the tip of the elbow. If the water does not feel hot to these parts, it is probably about right. Then add one level tablespoonful of ground mustard to each gallon of water; do not attempt to measure this exactly and use less rather than more. Speed is important. Care must be taken not to get the mustard water in the baby's eyes, nose, or mouth. Rubbing the skin while holding the body submerged will help. After 5 or 10 minutes the skin will usually become quite red, and the temperature will drop. A further drop in temperature may be accomplished through sponging, using warm water and alcohol [10 to 15 per cent]. If the skin remains blanched and does not become red, additional mustard may be added, but great care must be taken not to use a mixture strong enough to cause blisters.

One to three ounces of a 3 per cent solution of epsom salts, injected slowly into the rectum, will be rather rapidly absorbed and will have a tendency to reduce swelling of the brain. If the convulsion is caused by intestinal toxemia as an accompaniment of summer diarrhea, a soapsuds enema may be useful. In severe cases, chloral hydrate, sodium bromide, or even ether or chloroform may be required.

We must remember, however, that convulsions that are toxic in origin [not epileptic] may occur at any age. A serious case that came under my observation was that of a college girl of 18, the attacks beginning with the onset of measles.

THICKENED PLEURA.

E. H. writes: What is the cause of thickened pleura? How could the condition of the lungs be determined if the person is not an active case of tuberculosis? Will the fluoroscope penetrate the thickened pleura if it is impossible to see anything with an X-ray? Is there anything that can be done to help this condition? Can pneumothorax be given if a person has had fluid and pleurisy?

REPLY.

Whenever the pleura becomes inflamed and then heals, it is a bit thicker than normal. Repeated inflammation may lead to considerable thickening, as well as to adhesions between the two layers. A fluoroscopic examination, plus X-ray plates, plus a careful physical examination, will disclose the condition. Pneumothorax is valuable in the treatment of lung tuberculosis, provided adhesions have not formed. When air is introduced into the pleural space [pneumothorax] the lung will collapse. This will not occur, however, if adhesions prevent free movements of the pleura and hence of the lung. If fluid is present in the pleural space it should be removed unless it has been absorbed in a reasonable time. After healing has occurred the pneumothorax treatment may be attempted.

EXCESSIVE SWEAT.

L. R. J. writes: I have suffered with excessive perspiration and for about five years have used a perspiration remedy very successfully. Is it harmful?

REPLY.

Excessive sweating, called hyperhidrosis, is usually noticed on the palms of the hands, soles of the feet, under the arms, and around the groin. Sometimes it follows the course of a particular nerve, for example, the fifth nerve of the face. Often it is due to a toxic condition, as tuberculosis of the lungs accompanied by night sweats. In the disease we call influenza excessive perspiration is characteristic.

Generally speaking, frequent bathing and eliminating the toxic cause should be the treatment.

Perspiration remedies as a rule consist of an astringent that puckers up or closes the outlets of the sweat glands. I have seen cysts of the glands result from their use. Carefully applied, however, there is usually no obvious harm. Certain preparations can be used with safety.

CITIZENSHIP AND PASSPORT.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Aug. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—A lady born in Michigan and still residing there married an alien in 1920, but in 1921 her husband was naturalized as an American citizen. She has never left this country. Is this lady still an American citizen? We made application to Washington for an American passport for this lady to visit Italy. She has been advised that she is not a citizen, that she lost her rights when marrying an alien, and the only way for her to travel would be to apply to the Italian consul for an Italian passport and to the department of labor at Washington for a reëntry permit.

E. G.

Under the laws then in effect the subject lost her citizenship by marriage to an alien prior to Sept. 22, 1922. However, if her husband was naturalized prior to Sept. 22, 1922, she regained her citizenship by such naturalization.

It is noted the writer states the subject has been having difficulty in securing a United States passport. It is suggested that with her application for passport she submit her husband's naturalization certificate, which, together with her marriage certificate, should establish her citizenship in the United States.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

FILING OF WILL.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother died during April and left a will. My sister had the will and gave me a copy, but would not show me the original. She refused to file the will and I employed an attorney to force her to file. 1. I have reasons to believe that she did not file the original but just had some copies made, leaving something out. My mother told me that interest was added to my share, which she loaned to my sister when she sold the house and divided the money between us. This interest of ten years is not added on in the will. 2. How can it be proved that she filed the original will? 3. How long after a will is filed are we notified it is ready for probate? My sister refuses to give me money or even security. My security was held by my mother in her name, but left to me in the will. 4. Must I employ a lawyer to take care of this when we are called to court?

F. C.

1. The basis of your suspicion is not clear. You can examine the purported original in the office of the clerk of the Probate court. 2. Depends on the nature of the supposed alterations. We cannot advise without having the document before us. 3. In many cases probate is never commenced. If the other parties do not commence probate on a filed will you can commence it yourself. 4. Ordinarily it is not necessary for one of the beneficiaries of an estate to be represented separately by an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WORDING CONTROLS.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My brother died last month leaving a will in which several thousand dollars was given me in care of his wife. She is to invest this money in some safe manner for me. The will reads there should be no bonding, but in order to secure myself I should like to have her bonded in trust for me. Can this be done and how?

G. S.

The wording of the will controls so that you cannot force bonding unless you can satisfy the judge that the named executor is untrustworthy. If you are willing to pay the expense and the executor has no objection to the bond there probably would be no difficulty in arranging it by getting in touch with any surety company.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

In a little book, "Contest Gold," Mary Burgert and Grace Tousley reported their findings from a nation-wide study of radio, magazine, and newspaper contests. They found that there are no certain "lucky" people who win most of the prizes; that an education is not necessary to win; that it is not necessary to live in any certain part of the country to win, and that contests are not followed chiefly by abnormal people. The study revealed that more than 10,000,000 persons in the United States enter one or more contests each year.

NOT A FABLE

[South Wales Echo, Cardiff.]

As a wolf was lapping from a stream he spied a lamb paddling. Having made up his mind to seize her he bethought himself how he might justify his violence. "Villain!" said he, running up to her. "How dare you muddle the water that I am drinking?" "Indeed," said the lamb humbly, "I do not see how I can disturb the water, since it runs from you to me, not from me to you." "It's no use," replied the wolf, "trying to argue me out of my supper." And without further delay he began to maneuver into position for an attack.—With acknowledgments to Æsop's Fables.

HOLC LOANS.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—In defense of the appraisals of HOLC loans in this column John C. Bowers, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, shows that sixty-four properties sold for prices in excess of the HOLC loans. He concludes from this that the charges that "in many cases the HOLC loans are twice the actual market value of the property" have been successfully refuted.

Such, however, is not the case. The application of a little common sense will readily show that only properties with loans of less than 100 per cent are sold. Those with excessive loans remain unsold.

I am personally acquainted with three HOLC loans. Two are about 100 per cent loans and one is a full 200 per cent loan.

DOMESTIC FINISH.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—I am a woman in my thirties and by trade a fur finisher. The other day I went to look for work in a fur store, as this is the season for fur workers. A lady was attending the office, and when I sprang the question "Have you engaged a fur finisher for this season?" she answered, "Well, we could use one right now, but you are too good looking and that won't work in this shop." I asked the reason for refusing me the job and she shrugged her shoulders and said, "My husband won't do much work in his business with a handsome finisher like you around."

Now may I ask some one of the readers who may be furriers what must a finisher look like to get a job today?

SANTA CLAUS.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—In the HOLC offices even the cipher and alphabet experts could not decipher a letter received from a woman who asked for a loan. The rest of her letter was unintelligible. In desperation they wrote requesting that she get some one to write for her, telling in detail on what kind of property she wished a loan, the amount she needed, and all pertinent facts. To their complete surprise they received a reply which read:

"I own no property, I have never owned any—I need a new set of false teeth. How much can I borrow from you for those?"

To such a people a beneficent government is all powerful.

CORN WALLACE'S MODESTY.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Trying to shift the blame for high cost of living from himself and New Dealing onto the drouth, the packers, and so forth, Corn Wallace fails to mention to what extent his own much heralded scheme of selling Hi-Bred seed corn to counteract acreage reduction has helped to counteract scarcity and high prices. Is he too modest, or what?

MUSIC AND THE AIRPORT.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—If an airport is built on the lake front the people who would like to enjoy good music in the parks they have paid for might just as well give up the idea, as all will testify who listened last year to the disturbance one airship made at the Fair. What Chicago needs at the moment is another Montgomery Ward. Is there such a disinterested person?

Taxpayer.

THE SLAUGHTER.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Congratulations on your "Shocking Truth of Auto Crash Horrors Told." This is intelligible to the average reader; statistics mean nothing. The pictures speak even more distinctly.

Keep up the good work with sufficient variation to keep them reading.

REFERRED TO CHICAGO HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Has it ever occurred in the history of Chicago that man, woman, or child, having broken a bottle on sidewalk or street, has been known to pick up the pieces and safely dispose of them?

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

BATTLE IN CITY COURT TODAY ON SHOWBOAT RAID

Jurisdiction of Police Is Challenged.

The jurisdiction of the police of the city of Chicago over the nearby waters of Lake Michigan and particularly that portion of the lake a mile or more east of the Navy pier will be challenged in City court today when the owner and operators of the Showboat Sam will be arraigned on charges of conducting a gambling establishment.

Somewhat perplexed by the intricacies of maritime law and the honored customs of the sea, the police gambling squad, under the direction of Sergt. Frank O'Sullivan, early yesterday conducted its widely publicized and belated raid on the barge, which has operated off the Navy pier most of the summer.

16 Persons to Be Arraigned.

Today John Lucas, 1118 North State street, owner of the boat, and James Johnson, 3337 Wall street, described by the police as boss of the gambling concession, and 14 other employés of the establishment, will be arraigned before Judge Frank M. Padden in the Town Hall Police court.

Lucas and Johnson were released on bonds of $1,800 each. They posted bonds of $25 each for the 14 others.

After police made the arrests their plans went awry when they sought to return to shore with their prisoners. The speedboat operators were not interested. Flares sent up by Lucas brought the coast guard, but Capt. John Anderson refused to remove the police at the request of the boat owners or to return both prisoner and police to the shore as Sergt. O'Sullivan requested.

Five Hours of Shivering.

After five hours of shivering in the unheated boat Lucas at dawn relented and ordered the speedboat pilots to take all back to shore.

"The police have no power beyond the shore of Lake Michigan," said Attorney Maxwell Landis, who was counsel for the previous owner of the showboat, Charles Zito.

William V. Daly, assistant city corporation counsel, pointed to an ordinance passed under an enabling act of the state legislature of 1911 which defines the Chicago harbor as "the waters of Lake Michigan for a distance of three miles from the shore between the north and south lines of the city limits." Under this definition of the city's limits, Mr. Daly declared, the city can prosecute the crew of the barge.

SEIZE BURGLARS LOOTING A HOME; 1 SHOT; MAY DIE

A burglar was critically wounded yesterday and his two companions captured when they were surprised by a police squad while they were ransacking a bungalow at 2639 Farwell avenue, home of Mrs. Edward Jacobs. Mrs. Jacobs is out of the city.

The wounded man is Sam Ters, 30 years old, 1435 North Rockwell street. He was shot through the right lung by Sergt. Loubeck Zaccard. His companions are Leo Matuszewski, 19 years old, 1545 North Claremont avenue, and Al Smolish, 23 years old, 2551 Hirsch street.

Sergt. Zaccard and his squad answered a call that three men were loitering near the bungalow. They found Matuszewski sitting in the car outside, and two of the officers remained to guard him while Sergt. Zaccard and Robert Sammon went to the house.

The front door had been jimmied, and Ters and Smolish had just finished collecting jewelry and other valuables. Ters fled as the police entered and escaped by a back door as Zaccard fired. Pursuing, Sergt. Zaccard found Ters in a basement at the rear of 6738 North Rockwell street, wounded, but still carrying the loot.

Doctors at the Bridewell hospital said he probably will die.

HUNT INSURANCE TELLER SHORT IN ACCOUNTS $15,000

Police yesterday were searching for Clarence E. Jensen, 25 years old, 2117 North Cicero avenue, charged with the embezzlement of $15,000 from the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, 120 South La Salle street, where he had been employed as a receiving teller. A warant for his arrest was obtained on Aug. 19 by William Echols, cashier of the insurance company.

At Jensen's home it was learned he and his wife disappeared Aug. 17. The couple had been married only a few weeks.

Echols refused to discuss the case other than to say that Jensen, on the eve of an audit, took $5,000 in a lump sum and left. Other employés of the company said Jensen was regarded as a trustworthy teller. They said he frequently placed bets on horse races, many of these bets being for large sums.

Mother of Miss Minter Files $500,000 Libel Suit

Los Angeles, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, mother of Mary Miles Minter, filed a libel suit for $500,000 today against Blythe & Co., Inc., brokers, and J. Lawrence Pagen of New York, charging that she was falsely linked with the slaying of William Desmond Taylor, film director. Mrs. Shelby contends the libel occurred when her former broker, Leslie B. Henry, now serving a sentence in San Quentin penitentiary, was examined at the behest of the company and Pagen for a deposition. The plaintiff recited that the deposition was taken in connection with a civil action she filed against Pagen, the company, and Henry for recovery of monies which she alleges she had been defrauded by Henry.

MOTHER DROWNS HER TWO BABIES; STANDS IN RIVER

Holds One Under Each Arm in Water.

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Carrying her two children under her arms, Mrs. Leo Bartholmey, 33, walked into the Fox river here today and stood in water up to her neck for about three hours until police pulled her out.

Patrolman Lester Van Roy said the bodies of both children were under water when he reached the woman. Not until he reached her did he learn she held the bodies of her dead children. The victims were James, 4½ years old, and Carol, 14 months.

Police were told that Mrs. Bartholmey tucked a child under each arm this morning and walked down Pierce avenue to the river. She continued walking when she reached the bank, striding along steadily as her children gradually went below the surface.

In Water Up to Neck.

The caretaker of Alicia park on the river front said he saw some one standing in the river about 6:30 a. m., but paid little attention, thinking the person was a swimmer. Two hours later some men on the opposite bank of the stream noticed Mrs. Bartholmey in the water up to her neck.

Police were notified and Patrolman Van Roy and Frank Reck, one of those who had observed her, rowed across the river to where the woman stood. They brought her and her children to shore where police rescue squads worked over the victims with inhalators, but were unable to revive them.

Mother Tells of Fears.

Mrs. Bartholmey was taken to police headquarters, where she told District Attorney Samuel Sigman, Coroner F. J. Huberty, and Police Captain P. J. Vaughn that she feared some of her children were subnormal mentally and physically.

She also said she at first planned to end her own life, but later decided "to face all the people."

The woman's husband said he could offer no explanation for his wife's act. He is employed, and the family is in comfortable circumstances. It was believed Mrs. Bartholmey was mentally deranged.

U. S. INDICTS 3 ON BOGUS LIQUOR STAMP CHARGES

Indictments against six men were returned by the federal grand jury before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday.

Peter D. Pinkussohn, known as the "airplane bootlegger," Louis Troeger and R. J. Ilian were indicted on charges of possession and sale of counterfeit liquor revenue stamps. Maxie [North Side Maxie] Eisen and William Troeger, brother of Louis Troger, arrested with the others after a raid on a printing plant at 218 South Wabash avenue on Nov. 5, were "no billed" by the grand jurors for lack of evidence.

Barney Gisnet, Joseph Burr, and Harry Minski, former operators of the BG Garment company, 337 South Franklin street, were named in true bills charging them with evasion of income taxes for 1929 and 1930. Gisnet is charged with having evaded payment of taxes on $137,283 of income for the two years, Burr with failure to pay on $68,517, and Minski with evading the taxes on $56,343.

Owner of Counterfeiting Plant Held to Grand Jury

Harry Pritzke, 60 years old, in whose home at 3120 Wall street government agents found an elaborate plant for counterfeiting coins, was held to the federal grand jury yesterday by Commissioner Edwin K. Walker in bonds of $5,000. At the arraignment Pritzke admitted manufacturing spurious coins of denominations from a dime to a dollar. Unable to furnish the bond he was taken to the county jail.

INQUEST LEAVES MORRISON DEATH UNSOLVED CRIME

Wife Insists Park Official Had No "Affairs."

The mysterious murder of Kenneth A. Morrison, 47 years old, assistant controler of the Chicago consolidated park district, remained unsolved yesterday after a coroner's jury had concluded an inquest into his death. The jury recommended that the authorities continue their investigation to apprehend his slayers.

Mrs. Ethelwyne Morrison, 46 years old, widow of the park official, who appeared at the coroner's hearing at the county morgue yesterday, was questioned concerning Morrison's personal affairs, and reaffirmed her expressed belief that her husband was not slain because of an affair with another woman.

Morrison's body, pierced by three bullets, was found propped up in the back seat of his new automobile in front of 628 Alaska street at 6 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 14. Witnesses told the police they had observed two men hurriedly leaving the parked car at 11:30 o'clock the previous night. A cigaret, burned down to a stub, was found between Morrison's lips when his body was discovered. His personal effects were scattered on the floor of the car and there was $25 in one of his pockets. Other pockets had been turned inside out.

Women Friends Questioned.

During the investigation Capt. Andrew Barry of the Hudson avenue police station and Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle have questioned several women friends of the slain park official. Miss Mary Pepin, a former secretary for Morrison, was to have returned from her vacation yesterday for questioning in connection with the case. Mr. Boyle received word last night that she will appear at his office Tuesday to tell what she knows of the victim's affairs.

At the inquest yesterday Mr. Boyle asked the widow to account for the manner in which her husband's income was spent. Records revealed that in 1934 Morrison received a total of $6,900 in salary and overtime pay from the park district. Mrs. Morrison said that the family's household and living expenses amounted to about $300 a month and was unable to give a detailed account of the balance.

Questions Become Personal.

At one time during the questioning, her attorney, Charles H. Pegler, objected to the personal nature of several queries. Deputy Coroner Eugene F. Ingles insisted that Mrs. Morrison answer, however, asserting that personal matters may have been the motive for the murder.

She declared she knew all of Morrison's women acquaintances who have been questioned by the police, adding: "I'll say positively that my husband was not killed because of affairs with women."

Mrs. Morrison told authorities that on the night her husband was slain he telephoned her about 8:15 o'clock and informed her he would work late. She retired fifteen minutes later, she testified, taking a sleeping powder because of the hot weather. She admitted, when asked, that she seldom used sleeping potions.

Capt. Barry, the other witness at the inquest, said the police have exhausted all clews in the case without being able to establish the motive for the murder.

SECRETARY FILES PROTEST AGAINST WILL OF WILLYS

West Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The will of John North Willys, automobile executive and former ambassador to Poland, was filed here today, but caveat proceedings followed to prevent its admission to probate.

Charles B. Mertz, of Pelham, N. Y., said to have been Willys' secretary, claimed in a suit against the document that he was named in a will of the automobile magnate dated June, 1934.

Under terms of the will filed for probate, dated May 13 of this year, the estate goes to Mrs. Florence E. Willys, the widow, and a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Clayton Willys Delanda.

The Florida law prevents probation of the will until the court disposes of the suit brought by Mertz, who is required to file his objections within 30 days.

The more recent will gives the Palm Beach residence, all of Willys' jewelry and personal belongings and 1,900 shares of capital stock in the Thomson Manufacturing company of Toledo to the widow.

Of the remainder of the estate, 65 per cent was left to Mrs. Willys, 35 per cent to Mrs. Delanda. No inventory of the estate was filed.

Handy Man Sues to Break Wilmette Woman's Will

Suit to set aside the will of Miss Ella Brewster, formerly of 1258 Asbury avenue, Wilmette, who with her sister Eva was killed a year ago in an automobile accident in Florida, was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Alfred C. Facchini, 39 years old. Facchini contends he served the Brewster family as handy man and chauffeur for 28 years, giving up the thought of marriage and the study of medicine on the promise of Miss Brewster to will him her $28,000 estate. Instead, the suit relates, she was "induced" to execute a will which failed to carry out the promise.

Body of John Hamilton Still Unclaimed in Oswego

The body of John Hamilton, slain Dillinger gangster, was still unclaimed last night at the J. B. Thorsen undertaking parlors at Oswego. Mr. Thorsen indicated that it will be buried within a day or so, but declined to give any details, and declined to state whether any of the relatives of Hamilton had communicated with him.

WILL LEAVING PET DOG $25,000 TO BE FOUGHT

Relatives announced yesterday they would contest the will of Miss Margaret McDermott, 70 years old, 5347 Wayne avenue, who died on June 4, bequeathing her $25,000 estate to Pet, her white Eskimo dog. When the will was admitted to probate yesterday before Edward Luczak, assistant to the probate judge, Thomas W. Flynn and John Lanigan, attorneys representing Martin J. Clara, 335 North Latrobe avenue, and Mrs. Mary Prendergast, Los Angeles, cousins of Miss McDermott, said they intended to file suit in Circuit court asking that the will be set aside on the ground that Miss McDermott was of unsound mind because of extended illness when the will was drawn.

Under the terms of the will, Pet was to be placed in the hands of some woman "who loves dogs" until the animal's death and then the estate was to go to the Anti-Cruelty society. Attorney David W. Kahane, representing the estate, said a "proper" mistress for Pet had not yet been found and that the dog was at the Minocqua, Wis., summer home of George A. Trude, executor of the estate.

A schedule filed in the Lake county Probate court yesterday placed a value of $205,000 on the estate of Miss Gertrude W. Hart of Barrington, who was killed in an automobile accident on Nov. 1, 1934. The Illinois inheritance tax was set at $9,654. The estate was left to H. Stilson Hart, a brother; Mrs. Pauline Evans, a sister of Miss Hart, and three nieces.

New Wills Filed

The following wills were admitted to probate yesterday and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin:

PROSPER TWISS, died Aug. 1. Estate, $60,000, to widow and executrix, Helen Twiss.

EMMA SCOTT, died June 22. Estate, $48,000, to two daughters and two sons, Ethel Lake, daughter, executrix.

LOUISA DERBACH died July 12. Estate, $11,000, to daughter and two granddaughters, Catherine Feitel, daughter, executrix.

ANDREW RASMUSSEN, died June 7. Estate, $18,000, to widow, son, brother, two nephews and two nieces. Magnus Benson, executor.

Mrs. Robert E. Calkins Dies; 11 Children Survive

Mrs. Gertrude Shanley Calkins, 41 years old, 5952 Ohio street, wife of Policeman Robert E. Calkins, assigned to the office of Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt, died in the Lewis Memorial hospital yesterday after a short illness. She is survived by her husband and eleven children, the youngest one a week old. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in Our Lady of Sorrows church. Burial will be in All Saints cemetery.

Ex-Official of Mail Order House Found Dead in Car

Apparently a victim of exhaust fumes, Clark H. Lentz, 41 years old, former assistant treasurer of the Kansas City, Mo., division of Sears Roebuck & Co., was found dead yesterday in his automobile in the garage at the rear of his home, 244 South Wesley avenue, Oak Park.

J. J. JONES DIES; A POLICEMAN IN HAYMARKET RIOT

Funeral services for John J. Jones, 81 years old, retired patrolman and member of the "famous 300" who aided in quelling the Haymarket riot in 1886, will be held Monday morning in St. Francis de Paula church. Mr. Jones died Thursday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Anna Sullivan, 8014 Ingleside avenue.

He joined the police force in 1884 and retired in 1922. Besides Mrs. Sullivan, survivors of Mr. Jones are a son, Edward Jones, 3725 Union avenue, and another daughter, Mrs. Margaret Grant, 6243 Rhodes avenue.

Enos Bookwalter Rites to Be Held This Afternoon

Funeral services for Enos Bookwalter, who died yesterday in his home at 1538 Sherwin avenue, will be held this afternoon at the residence. Mr. Bookwalter was in the insurance business. He is survived by his widow, Nellie, daughter of the late Rt. Rev. William A. Toll, Episcopal bishop. Burial will be in Nashotah, Wis.

U. S. DEATH RATE INCREASES AFTER 5 YEARS' DECLINE

Rise in Auto Fatalities a Chief Factor.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—An upward turn in the country's death rate, after five years of continuous decline, was reported today by the census bureau in its preliminary summary for 1934.

But keeping step with death, the birth rate also increased. There were 1,396,903 deaths and 2,167,636 births, compared with 1,342,106 deaths and 2,081,232 births in 1933.

The death total was the largest since 1918, when there were 1,471,367 and a rate of 18.1 per 1,000 of population. Last year's rate was 11.0 per 1,000, compared with 10.7 in 1933.

Suicides Continue Decline.

Suicides continued a decline begun in 1932, after a yearly increase beginning in 1920, when the rate was 10.2 per 100,000. They numbered 18,828, or 14.9 per 100,000, compared with 19,993 and 15.9 in 1933. Firearms was the leading method; hanging and strangulation second.

Legal executions numbered 162. In 1932 there were 153 and the previous year 131.

Excessive heat deaths showed a big jump for the year. They totaled 3,250 against 1,025 the previous year and 689 for 1932.

Auto Deaths Rise.

Automobile deaths totaled 33,980, marking a continued increase from 29,323 in 1933 and 26,350 the previous year. The rate per 100,000 population was 26.9, while the two previous years were 23.3 and 21.9.

Deaths from alcoholism increased from 3,049 in 1932 to 3,921 in 1934. Social disease deaths mounted from 11,600 in 1932 to 12,777 last year.

Deaths from childbirth and related causes declined over the three year period, while diseases of early infancy claimed an increasing number of babies. Deaths from senility were down from 1933 but up from 1932.

HENRI BARBUSSE, PACIFIST AUTHOR, DIES IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The French pacifist writer, Henri Barbusse, 61, died at 9 a. m. today of pneumonia in Kremlin hospital. He was the author of the famous war novel, "Le Feu." Barbusse was here on one of his periodical visits and attended, as a visitor, some of the recent meetings of the seventh congress of the Communist Internationale.

The writer's health was wrecked in the war and he had been frail ever since. He went to Moscow early in August and told friends it was "perhaps for a last look at soviet Russia." One of his greatest interests was the world committee against war and Fascism, which he founded and headed. He was a member, but his poor health prevented active work in the recently formed Ethiopian defense committee.

The foremost soviet specialists struggled in vain to save the life of Barbusse, who was held in high esteem by the communists. Josef Stalin, soviet dictator, ordered all the Kremlin medical facilities placed at the writer's disposal and he was transferred to Kremlin hospital immediately after he became ill. Barbusse was a member of the communist party and held an honorary post in the Red army.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

It's a busy week-end for Lum and Abner. Last night they finished their long and successful run on W-G-N and the Mutual system. Today they are driving to Indianapolis to be special guests at the opening of the Indiana State fair. Tonight they will judge the state amateur radio auditions being held in connection with the exposition. Tomorrow they will hurry back to Chicago to get ready for their new engagement on NBC, starting at 6:30 Monday with WENR as the local outlet.

Lum and Abner, Chester Lauck and Norris Goff, two young lads turned out after the fashion of the gentlemen in Esquire instead of the rubes they portray, have made a lot of friends since they first came to the networks in July, 1931, but none more loyal than Dick Huddleston, who runs a general store at Waters, Ark. When they first went on the air from local NBC studios, Huddleston journeyed 44 miles every evening in his flivver to Mt. Ida, Lon Warnecke's home town, to get to a radio to hear them.

Goff was a grocery salesman before he entered radio and Huddleston was one of his customers. When the boys started their radio serial they named one of the characters after Dick Huddleston. Goff, who portrays Abner, uses his own speaking voice when portraying the rôle of Dick. Folks who have followed them on the air, on meeting Goff, often are a bit surprised to hear him talking naturally as one of his characters.

Mrs. Roy L. Plhak of Ottawa, Ill., yesterday won a prize of $100 for suggesting the winning name for Lum and Abner's new store on wheels. It will be called Lum and Abner's Vittle Vendor.

Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady, returned yesterday morning from a vacation in England, flying back from New York. She arrived the day before on the Bremen. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock were passengers on the same liner. The Singing Lady will return to W-G-N and NBC Monday afternoon.

Olga Albani, who is Mrs. H. Wallace Caldwell in private life, will be back on the air Oct. 7 as the singing star of NBC's Silken Strings. Charles Previn's orchestra will continue on the program. The Caldwells are at Saugatuck, Mich., at present.

The Max Baer-Joe Louis battle on Tuesday, Sept. 24, is to be broadcast over both of the NBC networks under national sponsorship. The fight broadcast will begin at 9 p. m.

Don Briggs, well known to NBC listeners for his parts in "Welcome Valley," "Girl Alone," "Lights Out," and "The Kilmer Family" is leaving radio tomorrow for Hollywood. A recent screen test was successful and he has been called by Universal to go to work at once. Briggs is 24 years old and just a few months ago gave up bond selling to devote all his time to radio.

RITES TODAY FOR JOHN T. M'GRATH, POSTAL "SANTA"

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. today in St. Ignatius church for John T. McGrath, assistant postmaster, who for fourteen years was "official representative of Santa Claus" in the Chicago postoffice. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Mr. McGrath died Thursday at the age of 69 in Henrotin hospital from a throat infection. He had been in the postal service 54 years.

Postmaster Ernest Kruetgen yesterday ordered flags flown at half staf on the new postoffice building, the U. S. courthouse, and the 65 postal stations in the city. Mr. McGrath's vacant chair in his office was draped in black. At the funeral there will be a uniformed guard of honor consisting of letter carriers and members of the Van Buren post of the American Legion, made up of postal employés.

Mr. McGrath started in the postoffice in 1881 and advanced steadily to assistant postmaster in 1920. He won the title of Santa Claus because each Christmas he opened the letters addressed to St. Nick and saw that requests of needy children were taken care of by charitable organizations. The McGrath family lives at Crystal Lake.

Visiting Bud Special Guest at House Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

An out of town debutante is the special guest at the house party Miss Mary Young is having this Labor day week-end at the lovely summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Victor Young, at Lake Beulah, Wis.

The debutante is Miss Betsey Beeler of Knoxville, Tenn., who was a classmate of Miss Young at Vassar. Miss Beeler is the daughter of Mrs. Ulysses Beeler and the niece of Dr. James Hoskins, president of the University of Tennessee. When she makes her bow to society on Dec. 26 in Knoxville Miss Young will be one of her assistants.

Miss Young has invited fifteen friends for the house party. They motored up to the lake in several cars yesterday afternoon.

This evening they are coming back to the Knollwood club in Lake Forest for dinner and dancing. In the party, besides Miss Beeler, there are Mr. and Mrs. John Linder of Miami, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Atherton, Mr. and Mrs. B. Henry Sincere, Miss Helen Gillette of Pasadena, Cal.; George Robinson, Paul Kenneth Brooks, Charles Robinson, Alfred King, and Edward Brand.

Luncheon Party for Ellen Allen.

Added this morning to Chicago's already crowded calendar of debutante festivity is the party for Miss Ellen Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Allen of Winnetka. At a luncheon at home the noon of Sept. 11 Miss Allen will make her bow to society.

The Allens are comparative newcomers since it was just about five years ago that they moved here from Sewickley, Pa., but they have made many friends along the north shore.

The beginning of August the Allens took their present Winnetka house at 550 Spruce street. Before this they lived in Evanston.

All of the guests at the luncheon the 11th are to be the season's debutantes. It may be that Mr. and Mrs. Allen will give a second party for their daughter later in the autumn, since she is to be here all winter. Last spring she finished at the Shipley school in Bryn Mawr, Pa. She is in Englewood, N. J., now visiting friends who were her classmates at the Shipley school. She will be home shortly after Labor day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hyde Barnum and their daughter Grace, who made her debut in June, returned on Thursday from their summer home, "Christmas Tree Cabin," in the Land o' Lakes region of Wisconsin. Miss Barnum also is adding to the debutante gayety of the fall for there are to be two parties given for her within the next few weeks.

One will be the luncheon that Miss Helen Fulton will give on Sept. 17 at her residence in Winnetka. On Sunday, Sept. 8, Clement Haile of Rockford is giving a dinner party for her at the Nippersink Country club.

Tell Engagement of Rachel Pettit.

Friends of Miss Rachel Pettit will have to wait until next week to felicitate her on her engagement to Hollingshead T. Martin, which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pettit of 1425 Ridge avenue, Evanston, are announcing today, for she is visiting her fiancé and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl N. Martin, in Philadelphia.

Most of her close friends met the

Mary Pickford and Lasky Organize Producing Unit

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Mary Pickford and Jesse Lasky have organized the Pickford-Lasky Productions, Inc., to produce films for United Artists release, it was announced today. The transaction forecasts an expenditure of two and one-half million dollars during the first year. Pictures will star Nino Martini, Francis Lederer, and Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

Tribune Makes Gift of $5,000 to Algonquin

Golden Gloves Cash to Aid Poor Mothers.

The gift of $5,000 for the Camp Algonquin fund—a sum sufficient to finance two week outings at Camp Algonquin on the Fox river for 555 mothers and children—was announced yesterday by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The gift comes partly from the receipts of the Golden Gloves tournament sponsored annually by THE TRIBUNE and partly from other funds set aside for charitable purposes, said D. M. Deininger, auditor, in making the announcement.

Through it, sun-hungry children of the tenement district and their work-worn mothers will taste new joys of living at 43 acre Camp Algonquin, administered by the United Charities and supported largely by contributions of readers of THE TRIBUNE.

They will swim, and hike, and go boating on the winding Fox river. They will breathe invigorating country air, will eat nourishing wholesome food and will sleep the complete, body-building sleep of the happy.

In less than two weeks now, the last mothers and children at the camp—some 260 who are there now—will leave for home. Already, an autumnal tang is in the air, and giant wood logs are burning in the open fireplaces of the green and white cottages, while evening outings, centered around a roaring bonfire, have become the campers' entertainment and delight.

Finally, on Sept. 11, when this last contingent goes home, Camp Algonquin, where more than 50,000 mothers and children have gained health during the 26 years of its operation, will close for another year.

THE TRIBUNE gift raised the Camp Algonquin fund to $7,644.47. Two gifts to the free ice fund, one of $5 from the Dorcas club of Sandridge, and one of $2.50 from Shirley Schumacker and Mary Beth Malsie, brought its total to $1,655.64.

The ice fund, operated principally for the benefit of babies and sick persons, who need ice for health, also is administered by the United Charities of Chicago. It is now in its 21st year of operation.

Contributions to either fund should be addressed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. All donations will be acknowledged in the columns of this paper.

Joyce Allen, Daughter of Dixie Governor, Is Engaged

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The engagement of Miss Joyce Love Allen, only daughter of Gov. and Mrs. O. K. Allen, to Dr. Frederick A. Stare of Columbus, Miss., a research chemist, was announced today by Mrs. Allen. The wedding will be held at the executive mansion Sept. 14. Miss Allen met Dr. Stare at the University of Wisconsin in the summer of 1933. Dr. Stare is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Stare of Columbus, Miss.

Bridal Satin Gown

At 8:30 o'clock last night in Christ church, Winnetka, Miss Betty Edmonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Edmonds of Winnetka, became the bride of William A. Frazer Jr., son of Mrs. William A. Frazer of Omaha. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard performed the ceremony. A reception followed at the Indian Hill club.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a simple gown of bridal satin made with sleeves that were puffed above the elbow and long and tight to the wrist. Heirloom lace, lent by a great-aunt, trimmed the square neckline, and finished the long train that hung separately down the back of the dress. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley, and wore a billowing tulle veil fastened to a renaissance cap of pearls.

The matron and maid of honor, Mrs. Harold C. Rittenhouse of Pontiac, Ill., a cousin, and Miss Margaret Huxley were gowned in burgundy velvet with matching half-hats and carried bouquets of burgundy cockcomb, chartreuse coxcomb and blue delphinium, with the chartreuse flowers predominating.

The bridesmaids, Miss Eleanor Barron of Southern Pines, N. C., Mrs. John B. Clemens [Louise Stanton], Miss Mary Turner, another cousin, and Miss Billie Andersen wore chartreuse velvet gowns made similarly to the bride's with square necks and puffed sleeves, and burgundy half-hats. Their bouquets were the same as the others, but with the accent on the burgundy coxcomb.

George Frazer served his brother as best man, and ushering were Joseph Barker Jr. of Omaha, Robert D. West of Oconomowoc, William P. Wilke III. of Hammond, Samuel A. Bingham Jr. of Tryon, N. C., and G. Bowman Kreer of Winnetka.

Following the reception Mr. Frazer and his bride left for a wedding trip to Canada. Upon their return they will make their home at 8011 Edgewater road, Riverside.

Good Morning!

They picked the right man to play "Diamond Jim Brady." Edward Arnold, in the title rôle, gives one—swell—performance!

It wasn't an easy rôle to play, I should think, for Brady, though real, was—sort of incredible. But Mr. Arnold makes the big fellow ring true. He makes him laughable, lovable, pitiful. All of which he was, I guess.

The picture was adapted from Parker Morell's book on Brady and follows him from babyhood to the moment when, deliberately, he starts to dig his grave with his teeth.

To make money you've got to look money. That was Brady's slogan—and it worked. From a salesman of railroad supplies he became a big figure in the railroad industry—one of the most remarkable combinations of geniality and gall that the world has ever known.

He rented diamonds till he could buy diamonds and when he could buy 'em he didn't purchase all the sparklers in the world, but he certainly made a hole in the supply. He gave away more than he wore, and his lavish parties were the talk and laughter of a flabbergasted community.

Here are some of the facts about the man that are brought out interestingly in the movie:

He was mightily successful in business.

He was a prodigious eater—had a stomach twice the size of the ordinary man's.

He started out with a $90 rented diamond. Later his collection was worth $175,000.

Once he tore up some $200,000 in I. O. U's.

He was abstemious—orange juice by the pitcherful being his favorite beverage. The picture has him get drunk just once, but records have it that, because of a promise made to his mother, he never took a drink.

All women were fond of him, but he was never loved by one.

His beautiful friendship with Lillian Russell greatly influenced his life. . . .

And so on. You can see that the movie is an eventful one.

Mr. Arnold plays Brady simply and sympathetically. He invests the uncouth, uneducated fellow with a natural dignity that commands respect for him wherever he goes, and, with no suggestion of the sentimental, invests the man he portrays with an innate sweetness that is very touching.

Binnie Barnes as Lillian Russell and Jean Arthur as the woman that he wants to marry, give excellent portrayals. Other players please.

Sets, scenery, costumes, etc., have the stamp of authenticity. You will see reproductions of Delmonico's, the old Rector's, a Western Union telegraph blank used in 1880—a jeweled bicycle. . . .

The picture has considerable suspense and, while you may think it too long, is never uninteresting.

"Diamond Jim" is an honest and enlightening screen biography of a most colorful character.

Club Dinner Dance.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A hair style with youthful charm, worn by Genevieve Tobin, has a soft fringe of curls high on the forehead and back curls fairly low on the neck.

The fall showings in Paris having officially opened the style season, it's only natural that the hairdressers should get themselves into as much of a dither as the dressmakers. They're simply buzzing with ideas for the way we women should arrange our hair this fall and winter.

The only difficulty is that there's a little disorganization along the line. One expert screams "Renaissance" and piles hair high, wide, and handsome. Another says we must all try to look like Botticelli dryads, with clean cut little curls at the nape of the neck to carry out the guileless effect of youthful innocence. Still another insists that the rich fabrics, warm colors and the much talked-of Italian influence are going to demand elaborate, sophisticated coiffures glorified by flowers, jewels, and maybe velvet bands. A fourth expert says flatly that the Mme. Recamier motif is the only possible one for the woman who wants to be truly chic.

It's all very confusing, but nothing to be frightened about. The sound old rule for hair styles still holds good: Any coiffure that becomes you, that looks good with your autumn bonnet and that's suitable to the time and place is as high style as any. But there's always this: The only way to get a better coiffure if you're dissatisfied with what you have is to place yourself in the hands of a good stylist. Let him try a new effect. You never know till you try—and if you deny yourself the satisfaction of a truly chic hair style you're missing plenty.

There's nothing that will do as much to spoil or to improve your face as your hair style. Time and money expended in search of just the right one are really well spent.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Receives Bachelor Degree at U. of C. After Year of Study

Mrs. Martha Friedman Marenof, 35 years old, of Paterson, N. J., yesterday received a bachelor's degree from the University of Chicago after one year of study. She was among the 501 students who received degrees at the 181st convocation. She was the first student to pass the requirements in that time.

Mrs. Marenof majored in ancient and oriental culture. Before she enrolled last October she had passed five of the seven examinations. She was graduated from the Paterson high schools in 1918 and spent two years as secretary to the chancelor of a Hebrew university in Palestine.

A large number of those receiving degrees obtained master or doctor of philosophy degrees, many being teachers who finished during the summer. Dr. Gordon J. Laing, retiring dean of the humanities division, gave the address.

Chinese Students Meet at U. of C. for Conference

Fifty-five Chinese, students in American and Canadian universities, gathered in International house at the University of Chicago yesterday to begin a seven day conference on their problems. The delegates represent a Chinese student population of 4,000 now in North America. While here they will visit a number of Chicago's large industrial plants. Among those who will address their meetings are Ernest B. Price, director of International house, and Frederic Woodward, vice president of the University of Chicago.

First of Fall Clothes Adorn City's Streets

Hats Are High, Small, and Unusually Smart.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Chicago women are wearing the first of the new fall clothes.

Hats are high, small, and are made tremendously smart by high bow trims, by quills that shoot skyward, by bunches of feathers, and by long dashing veils scattered with big chenille dots. Most of the velvets are draped and twisted and composed of as many as three to four shades and tones of color or color contrast.

Wool dresses as thin, soft, and as ingeniously fashioned as anything of heavy silk and satin, are worn over rustling taffeta slips . . . gay plaids and huge plaids in bright blazing color combines are teamed with tops of velveteen.

All velveteen costumes are high favorites, in gun metal gray, in rich wine red tones, and emerald greens. Decorative belt buckles and equally effective matching metal clasps are used on these velveteens.

Fuzzy woolens are coming out for crisp, cool mornings; red, sapphire blue, purple, and green backgrounds are frosted with a silver gray or the same colored soft fuzz. Hairy wools fashion some of the newest of street clothes, slim casual dresses and two piece outfits that are worn with a fur piece or cape. Ginger brown and inky black are the favorites so far.

Suede footwear is worn from morning till late at night . . . after weeks of white and pastels suede street shoes, oxfords, pumps, and even the low heeled walking sandals recreate that grand feeling of being slimly and smartly shod again. Deep brown, leaf green, wine red, new ginger brown, and super swanky all black suedes are the favorites.

Young Chicagoans returning to school are wearing their hair in pigtails with ribbon bows . . . with a plaited skirt and sweater being almost a uniform. Good old Peter Thompson outfits, or dresses made to look like them, have been revived with marked success. Scotch plaid kilts, smocked blouses, and a cardigan sweater come along in second position in the affections of the small schoolgirl.

STROBL, Austria.—Tonight there is festivity in the hotel at this charming resort on Wolfgang See, in the heart of the Salzkammergut. Every one wears the picturesque local costume—green embroidered lether shorts and jackets with red lined vest pockets and deer-antler buttons for the men; gay aprons over full skirts, with silk scarves tied about the neck of the puff sleeved blouses, for the women.

At dinner the dining room overlooking the lake and the mountains looked like a scene from "Autumn Crocus." Yet no peasants were these folk. Among them was a prince, two grafs, a Hungarian countess or two, an English lady and her two golden haired daughters [Lady Derby], and various travelers on a holiday. In the tennis semi-finals held this afternoon on the hotel's courts Prince Hohenlohe, Graf von Thurn, Prince Lichtenstein, and Prince Tassilo Furstenberg were playing.

DESPITE this peasant attire, when the orchestra swung into a peasant dance, after several fox trots and tangoes, only four couples attempted it. The others clapped time while the eight twirled and clasped arms, but they faltered and grew mixed and finally stopped altogether. We had seen a series of peasant dances the preceding evening done by real peasants in brocaded aprons, bodices gleaming with gold ornaments and deer's teeth, and with fresh mountain flowers set in their shawls. They swung hands and did innumerable figures with grace and vigor, their wide skirts standing out as they twirled, the men punctuating the strains from the zither or harmonica with occasional shouts. My companion watched with interest, but commented that it looked just like the World's Fair to him.

THE old timbered White Horse inn, the Weisses Rossl of operetta fame, is nearby. Not far away is Bad Ischl, a watering place that was the favorite resort of Emperor Franz Josef. There is still a flavor of the nineteenth century about the sleepy little town. It was in his modest yellow villa here that Franz Josef received King Edward VII. to try to dissuade the emperor from his alliance with Germany. But when I think of Bad Ischl I shall remember, not the emperor's yellow villa nor Prince Starhemberg's house, but Zauner's, a pastry shop with the most heavenly pastries it is possible to imagine. A sort of buffet table at one side of the establishment is spread with them; one is given a plate and an attendant waits, with hovering serving tongs, for one's selection. Shall it be chestnut filled or heaped with little wild strawberries; chocolate and crisp pastry or a ripe peach concoction? One's selection made, a pretty little fräulein brings tea or coffee to the table, and one joins the plump Austrian frauen and herren at the little tables and emulates their disregard for their waistlines.

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

After two years of marriage, Nancy and Dick Heritage are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by her mother-in-law, Edith Heritage, she has come to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy is informed by Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, that she has been bequeathed £5,000 by Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. Nancy learns that her sole remaining relative, an aunt, has been killed in China. Dick and his mother are displeased when they learn that Nancy is expecting a baby. Edith Heritage invites a friend, Mrs. Lane, and her daughter, Sylvia, for tea. Nancy pleads a dentist's appointment. The Lanes arrive just as Dick comes home. They are startled when they see Nancy's photograph, but Sylvia, who is interested in Dick, explains that Nancy had lived with them and they'd had a misunderstanding, but bygones were bygones. Next day Sylvia calls on Dick at the architect's office where he is employed, asks him to plan a house for her, and boldly invites herself to his home for dinner. Sylvia assures Nancy that her secret of the reformatory is safe. She asks Nancy for the written confession, but Nancy tells her she had torn it up. Sylvia's new home is started and Dick spends most of his time with her. Nancy learns that she has inherited another small legacy from her aunt. Mr. Digger suggests that she pass the two legacies off as one. He also offers his help if she is ever in trouble. Nancy returns home unobserved and overhears Sylvia berring Dick to get a divorce. Mrs. Heritage has gone away for a week-end with Mrs. Lane. Nancy and Dick dine out. Nancy suspects that Dick has an engagement with Sylvia. To forestall him she decides to pay Sylvia a visit. Sylvia tells Nancy that her mother is going to tell Mrs. Heritage the secret of her past. When Nancy returns home she finds her mother-in-law is back and knows her secret. Nancy confesses to Dick.

INSTALMENT XXX.

A BREAKFAST FARCE.

A stony look was creeping over Dick. Seldom had Nancy seen him look like that. It meant that he was about as angry as he could be.

"So you're dragging my mother into it now," he said quietly.

"It was your mother who—who started all the trouble between us," Nancy said, groping for courage to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

"Because, quite innocently, she asked her friends to tea in what might be described as your house? That's how my mother started the 'trouble,' as you call it."

"O, Dick, Dick, you make it out that I'm all in the wrong! Don't you see that nothing in this world would matter if you really loved me? If you loved me, you'd believe me because you would want to believe me. You would shield me. You wouldn't let either Sylvia Lane or your mother come between us. It wouldn't matter to you if I committed murder."

"That's beside the point entirely. I can quite conceive of my feeling sympathetic towards a murderer—but a dirty little sneak thief only fills me with disgust."

Nancy reeled back a little, her hand held to her cheek as though he had actually struck her.

"For heaven's sake don't start being dramatic at this hour of the night. I can't stand it," Dick said.

"I'm not going to be dramatic. Your mother is right. You have stopped caring for me. I tried to tell myself this afternoon that I might have made too much of the scrap of conversation I overheard between you and Sylvia when I came home and you were with her in your study. But now I see——"

"Nancy has agreed not to leave you? I'm afraid I don't understand," said Edith.

"O, you've added eavesdropping to your accomplishments! That accounts for your manners this evening. I thought I couldn't be imagining things. And you thought I had an appointment with Sylvia after dinner and decided to put a spoke in my wheel."

"I didn't think anything about that—I simply knew it. And I gathered from my eavesdropping that Sylvia is willing to pay me a decent price if I hand you over to her without any fuss or bother. My dear, she may have you for nothing. You aren't worth tuppence to me."

"Thank you," said Dick. "And having unburdened yourself so frankly on the subject of my value as a husband, what do you propose to do? Have you any plans in view?"

"Only this—that I'm leaving this house—your house—tomorrow."

"Yes, I knew that money—wherever it did come from—had gone to your head. You're not going to leave my house, anything of the sort."

"That's all you know about it!" Nancy exclaimed.

"I know this much—if you leave me for no better reason than you've trumped up at present, the law will give me the custody of my child. Perhaps not for the first year or so of its life, but afterwards. And I'll fight you for it, with every weapon I can lay hands on."

A queer little thrill went over Nancy and she had all she could do to control a smile in spite of the fact that she was almost as angry as Dick.

All unconsciously he had given himself away. He didn't want her to leave him in spite of what seemed to stand as solidly between them as a brick wall, and he was using their as yet unborn child as a sort of bogey to frighten her into submission.

It seemed to Nancy that she had better pretend to be frightened. That would give her a chance to fight, too. If she ran away, Edith and Sylvia would have the field to themselves.

"I bow to the intelligence of a bully," she said with a mocking flourish. "If you love me as much as all that, of course I'll stay!"

A feeble sort of grin appeared at the corners of Dick's mouth.

"I thought I had you there. I say, Nancy, this is the most whacking row we've ever had, but I don't think you realize how much you've hurt me."

"Yes, I know I've stung your pride. You don't like to think you're married to a dirty little sneak thief. If it hurts as much as it hurts me to know that I'm married to a traitor, then I pity you. . . . And now, good-night. Or it's good morning, really. Your birthday and I wish you many, many happy returns!"

It had been hard to leave Dick like that when he had made that tentative move towards a reconciliation. But Nancy had no use for peace unless it promised to be permanent.

It was plain enough to Nancy now that it was Sylvia—using her mother as a scapegoat—who had engineered the conveyance of that information to Dick's mother. A skilful piece of juggling.

But Nancy was not quite so unhappy when she laid her head on her pillow that night as she might have been.

Dick did not want her to leave his house. Whatever his reason was did not matter; only the fact itself counted just now.

It gave Nancy a command of the situation which she had not expected.

Edith Heritage, altering her usual custom by coming down to breakfast the next morning, was considerably surprised to find a son and a daughter-in-law who were looking life in the face quite cheerfully.

That they were both acting for her benefit did not dawn on her; but it happened that Dick and Nancy were also acting for each other's benefit.

Dick said: "I congratulate you on this day, mother! And don't you admire the beautiful pullover my industrious wife has been knitting for me? It brings out the color of my lustrous gray eyes."

"You have such lovely long lashes, Dick, that your eyes are always ravishing. I don't wonder women fall in love with you."

Mrs. Heritage looked from one to the other, as shocked as though they had been guilty of unseemly conduct at a funeral.

"O, it's all right, mother," Dick assured her. "Nance hasn't kept anything back. I know the whole horrid story. But in spite of everything, she's decided not to leave me just yet."

"Be careful-I don't change my mind," Nancy said airily.

"She has decided not to leave you!" gasped Edith. "I'm afraid I don't understand."

"He won't let me go. He threatened and bullied me," said Nancy.

"Surest thing in the world," Dick agreed.

It seemed to his mother that he was actually flirting with his wife, and in the circumstances that seemed hardly decent.

But if Nancy and Dick were flirting it was in a spirit of sheer bravado, and for her part Nancy had no intention of carrying it to serious lengths.

Dick had said and done things that no wife could forgive on the spot; and which Nancy almost believed she could never forgive at all.

His mother would have been pleased could she have known how definitly Sylvia Lane stood between her and Dick.

There had been some haphazard plans for a picnic today, not only Dick's birthday but the last Saturday of his holiday. Sylvia had wanted him to ignore the indications of a family celebration and come with her alone as usual to the woodland plot in Surrey where her cottage was to be erected, and Nancy intended to fall in with her rival's plans.

Indeed, it was unthinkable after what had happened last night that Sylvia Lane and she should ever pretend to meet as friends again.

Mrs. Heritage ate her breakfast in stony silence.

She was conscious, now, of a brand new reason to dislike Nancy, a reason based on personal jealousy. Nancy, it appeared, had more power over Dick than she, his mother, who had brought him to man's estate, could ever have exerted. A subtle, cunning creature, if ever there was one.

Cosmetic Art Finds Way to Hide Birthmark

Mask Cream Is Boon to Many Persons.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

On two occasions we have seen brilliant evidence of the advantages women owe to modern cosmetics.

Not long ago a young woman duplicated a previous experience we witnessed of how a bad birthmark may be covered completely from view. To demonstrate the cosmetic article, in each case the young women "undressed" their faces of the mask cream and exposed half a face bearing that tragic purple wine stain, as it is popularly called, a condition, as explained to me by a physician, due to a surcharge of blood under the skin surface.

But just think of what it means to modern victims of this and other birthmarks to have products within reach that completely hide from sight the unfortunate mark! One does not realize how many victims of the type of blemish are extant, until one gets figures on the sales of the cover-up products. There must be many victims, as these figures prove.

They have these products down so fine that one can go in swimming, get the face wet, and still emerge with birthmark still covered over with the mask cream. As temporary measures of relief, they are a godsend. I happen to be deeply interested in that type of birthmark, and know that modern science has means at command for eradicating the stain altogether. There are several types of treatment that are proving successful.

However, I would request you not to ask me for recommendations on this score, as I feel strongly that the best medical advice that can be obtained is the right and only approach for a sufferer. I merely pass on the word that work is being done by skilled medical men in this connection. The cream preparations for temporary obliteration of the birthmarks are within my province to recommend. Further than that, the best medical judgment is advocated.

The same applies to moles. I don't care how mild a mole appears to be, I would not take it upon myself to suggest treatment other than at the hands of skilled medical practitioners. The dark brown moles, particularly, never should be tampered with, except under the most reputable medical circumstances.

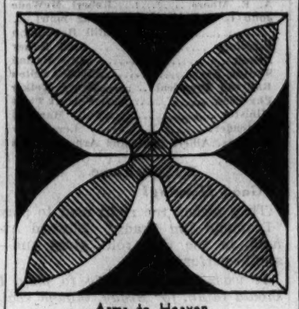
Pieced Quilt Is Easy to Make in Only Short Time



Arms to Heaven

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is an intriguing pieced block which may be made in a short space of time. It is one of those quilts which work up easily and rapidly. The finished block measures 12 inches square, and 18 pieced and 24 plain ones are required for an entire coverlet. The background of the title, "Arms to Heaven," is as obscure as the origin of the quilt.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Mary Young Hostess to Knoxville Girl.

young man when he visited here this summer. The wedding is planned for spring. The couple will make their home in Philadelphia.

Miss Pettit attended St. Timothy's school at Catonsville, Md., and Miss Hourigan's residence school in New York City. Mr. Martin is a graduate of St. George's school at Newport, R. I., and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Luther of Evanston today are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Betty Ann, to John Charles Kingery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Kingery of Wilmette, which took place last Monday. Mr. Kingery and his bride are on a wedding trip in the east.

The bride completed her junior year at Wellesley last June and the bridegroom is a graduate of Dartmouth, where he was a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa. They will make their home in Chicago.

Two Weddings on North Shore Today.

Two weddings of interest will take place on the north shore today. Miss Ann Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burt D. Stevens, will become the bride of John V. Haas, son of Mrs. Maud Haas of Fargo, N. D., and Miss Dorothy Louise Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sheldon Wood of Winnetka will be married to Chester E. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson of Oak Park.

The Stevens-Haas nuptials will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the home at 2855 Sheridan place, Evanston, which the bride's parents have leased for the summer. A small reception will follow. Miss Stevens will have her sister, Ruth, for a bridesmaid and Miss Alberta Woodruff, with whom she attended school at Roycemore and in Paris, will be her maid of honor. Robert Scott will serve Mr. Haas as best man.

Another sister of the bride, Mrs. Robert Gerlicher of Baton Rouge, La., and her three weeks old daughter, Gretchen, are here for the ceremony, as are the baby's great-great-aunt and great-aunt, Mrs. Cora Davies and Miss Lena Dunn, both of Saginaw, Mich.

After a wedding trip east Mr. Haas and his bride will make their home in the Marshall Field Garden apartments in Chicago.

Christ church, Winnetka, will be the setting for the Wood-Johnson wedding, which will take place at 4:30 o'clock, followed by a reception at the Wood home, 845 Locust street. Miss Marjorie Wood will be her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Johnson will have his brother, Lawrence, as best man. Following a wedding trip to Miami Mr. Johnson and his bride will make their home in Chicago.

Edwina Snyder Bride Tonight.

Miss Edwina Snyder, daughter of Mrs. Maud Snyder of New York and Chicago, will become the bride tonight of Dr. George W. Tarry, son of Mrs. Fontaine Tarry of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place at 7:30 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's church. Maj. Chester L. Fordney will give Miss Snyder away, and her sister, Miss Dorothy Eleanor Snyder, will be the maid of honor.

Capt. Harold M. Keller, commanding the 9th battalion of reserve marines, is to be the best man, and the staf officers of the marines are to act as ushers.

Dr. Tarry is a member of the surgical faculty of Northwestern university and a medical officer for the 9th battalion reserve marines. After a short honeymoon Dr. and Mrs. Tarry will make their home in Chicago.

Miss Beatrice Myers and Richard Younger, who were to have been married on Sept. 10, have advanced the date of their wedding to the 9th. Miss Myers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Myers of 5000 Cornell avenue, and Mr. Younger is the son of Mrs. Laura Younger of Winnetka. The ceremony will take place in the evening in the Powhattan apartments, and Mr. Younger and his bride will make their home in Chicago after a wedding trip.

Son Is Born to George Voevodskys.

Col. and Mrs. George Voevodsky announce the birth of a son, Peter, at the Evanston hospital yesterday morning. Mrs. Voevodsky is the former Maroussa Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund A. Russell of Lake Forest, and her husband is the son of Admiral Voevodsky, the former secretary of the Russian imperial navy.

Alexander Tarsaidze is arriving in town today from New York to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Starosselsky in Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Starosselsky are giving a dinner for him tonight. Mr. Tarsaidze recently succeeded to the head of the business founded by his cousin, the late Prince Matchabelli.

Playing the rôle of the early bird, the Beverly Hills Center of Infant Welfare this morning announces Oct. 19 as the date for its annual Ballyhoo ball. The party will be a supper-dance as in years past and will be held in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Mrs. William Gleason Jr. is general chairman for the party and Mrs. Homer Spencer is president of the center.

The Barrington Hills Country club will have an evening of "home talent" for its dinner-dance tonight. The program will range from a violin solo through a fancy diving exhibition by several young men.

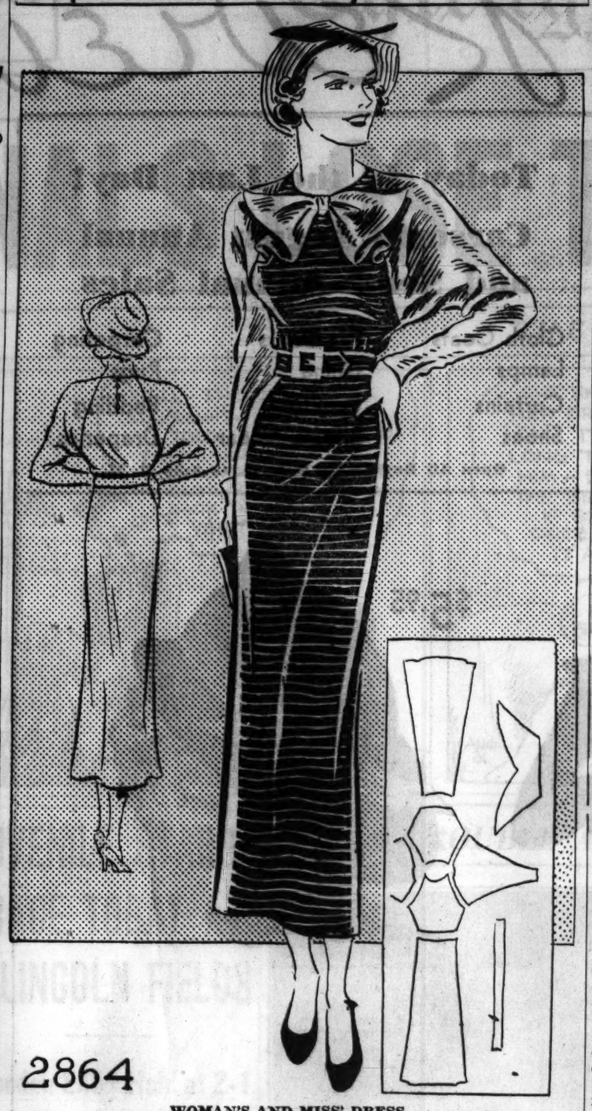
Chicago Illinae Tea.

The Chicago Illinæ club will hold its annual tea for Miss Marie Leonard, dean of women at the University of Illinois, and the entering freshmen next Wednesday from 2:30 until 5 o'clock at the Chicago College club.

Important in Every Wardrobe



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is one of those simple day frocks that find an important place in every wardrobe. The original was fashioned of a woolly silk crêpe with satin back, in a rusty brown. The easily made sleeves, that are cut in one with the shoulders, were made on the reverse side of the crêpe, providing a smart, contrasting effect.

The pattern, No. 2864, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Sarah Gardner, Kin of Morgans, Will Be Bride of Grid Star

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James L. Breese of Santa Fe, N. M., and Princeton, N. J., have announced the engagement of Mrs. Breese's daughter, Sarah Morgan Gardner, to Sumner Rulon-Miller Jr., Princeton university star football back. They are to be married Sept. 3 at the Breese home, Los Vientos, in Santa Fe.

Miss Gardner's engagement to Henry Latrobe Roosevelt Jr., son of the assistant secretary of the navy, was announced July 17, 1934. No official announcement of termination of the engagement was made.

Rulon-Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Rulon-Miller of Ardmore, Pa.

Miss Gardner is the granddaughter of Mrs. Junius Spencer Morgan, who introduced her to society in December, 1933.

"Cold Plates to Tempt Summer Appetites," a booklet of hot weather combination plates with recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

The formation of crystals in jellies and jams is troubling Mrs. W. H. H. of Harvey, Ill. The usual cause of these inconvenient (if frequently attractive) formations is too great a proportion of sugar. If your recipe is a good standard one which doesn't overload the sugar carrying qualities of the juices, and your jellies still crystalize, you may be slipping up on technique. If the fruit juices are cooked too long (and thus over-concentrated) before being measured and combined with the sugar, the actual proportion of sugar to juice again may be upset, even though your measuring be accurate.

Then there's the cream cheese situation. Miss G. A. P. of Memphis writes that grocerymen in those parts use the terms American cheese and cream cheese interchangeably and she'd like to have the distinction cleared up.

American cheese is a term which generally means an American Cheddar cheese. (Cream cheese is made in this country, as well, but is given the benefit of the more specific name.) This American cheese is of the hard type, while cream cheese is soft. American cheese may be either yellow, tinted by vegetable coloring, or may be uncolored for White American. It is molded into a variety of different shapes for no apparent reason, since the same cheese is used for all—Longhorns, Prints, Daisies, Flats, Twins, Cheddars, etc. It also is possible to obtain this American cheese in blended, pasteurized form in packaged, foil wrapped form, as well as by the whole cheese or piece.

Cream cheese, on the other hand, is a soft, unripened cheese, and almost as perishable as the milk and cream from which it is made. It is creamy white in color and usually sold either in small foil wrapped packages or from the three or five pound loaf. The former usually is considered the best way to buy it, not only because of its convenience, but because of more complete assurance of protection.

There's much more that could be said about the differences in making these two cheeses, but we hope that this much of a dividing line will help Miss P. in her dealings with Memphis grocers.

Miss A. U. of New Vienna, Ia., writes to ask a recipe for making caramelized popcorn. We've had many recipes for this, but of them all here's the one that gets our star—because it's extremely simple and because it doesn't burn as easily as others we've tried:

Home Made Caramel Corn.

3 tablespoons lard
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup raw popcorn

Put the lard in the corn popper or large covered skillet. When almost smoking hot add the sugar, salt, vanilla, and unpopped corn. Keep the corn constantly in motion until completely popped, and each kernel will be coated with an excellent sirup which is neither sticky nor tough. About two quarts is the usual return from this recipe, although that may vary with the type of corn one uses. Peanuts may be added at the beginning of the popping if desired.

Film Songbird Is Silent on Engagement

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The status of the engagement of Jeanette MacDonald and Robert Ritchie, her business manager, has become a moot question. All because Gene Raymond, the actor, has moved into the picture during Ritchie's absence in Europe on business.

A long time ago Miss MacDonald stated that she and Ritchie were betrothed, but they have repeatedly denied rumors that they were married. A few months ago Ritchie went abroad in search of talent and to arrange dates for Miss MacDonald in event she decided to make a concert tour. And lately she and Raymond have been seen together a great deal at social functions and at some of the night spots. As for Miss MacDonald, she answers no questions. She is now preparing for her appearance in "Rose Marie" at M. G. M.

Rosalind Keith today became the second Paramount actress to be injured playing tennis. She fell and sprained her wrist. Not long ago Claudette Colbert was seized with an attack of what is called bursitis—an inflammation of the muscles of her arm—brought on by overexertion in the game.

Ghosts of Davy Jones' locker, with all the legendary splendor of the old salts, found their way back home to Alan Dinehart, the Twentieth Century-Fox actor. They came in the form of four books—the chronicle of exciting whaling cruises made by his great-uncle, David Young, in 1845 to 1851. They came back to him after being missing for four years. He had loaned them to a friend, the late George McClelland, radio company official, to be utilized as material for a radio program.

Then Dinehart came to Hollywood. He thought the books were lost when his Westport, Conn., home burned in 1931, but a letter from Mrs. McClelland explained she found them in her husband's library.

The logs contain the account of a voyage on the boats Snag Harbor and Nile. Stark, realistic and true drama is set down in precise, neat longhand, narrating in matter of fact style accounts of men lost overboard during storms, mutinies, murders, totals of whales killed and the amount of oil derived.

*

Paul Sloane, the director, and Bertram Milhauser had good luck on a trout fishing expedition into the mountains, that is, until they started on their way home and were driving across the desert. Sloane's automobile caught on fire, and they had to get out in the heat and shovel the rumble compartment full of sand to put out the flames. The exhaust pipe was jammed against the floor board when Sloane backed it against a rock, and the heat set fire to the boards. All the way back Milhauser had to sit in the rear in readiness with a bucket of sand in event the flames broke out again.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

BIDDING AND PLAY.

Some players seem to labor under the delusion that the less support shown for partner's suit the better. They are "les miserables" who find themselves playing a hand at a two-card suit when their partners tire of rebidding a five-card suit headed by the ace, queen.

"But you must have known I held four of your trumps to the king, jack," they clamor.

Those Souths who arrived at four spades must have been of that ilk. The bidding presumably went:

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH
1 Cl.	1 Ht.	2 Di.
2 Sp.	Pass	3 Sp.
4 Sp.	Pass	Pass

The king, queen and jack of diamonds were to provide a pleasant surprise for one's partner.

South's correct bid over three spades is four diamonds. And when North bids five diamonds, South can go to six diamonds. North, in playing the hand, should attempt to set up the fifth club rather than try to guess the spade finesse.

If South plays the hand at four spades [and let's hope that he doesn't], West may be so uncharitable as to open the ace of hearts. When a second heart is continued, South must refuse to ruff. After that he loses only the queen of spades. Such plays, my children, are to guard against four trumps in one hand.

If West opens the singleton diamond, South is fortunate in that he can make six-odd. He wins the diamond and naturally takes the spade finesse into the West hand. Since East holds three diamonds, South can discard his losing heart before East can leap upon the diamonds with his trump.

Parents Should Understand the Two Year Old

Experimentation Motive for His Destructiveness.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Sometimes, when I get letters from poor bewildered mothers, I feel sorry for their children. But sometimes I feel even more sympathetic toward the mothers. Here is a case in point.

"I am having a difficult time with my little girl, who is just 2 years old. I can't make her obey or leave things where they belong. She is so destructive that I can't take her any place. She has a habit of slapping people and pushing little children. She will get out of her crib at night and keep it up for hours.

"I am at my wit's end to know what to do. Every one tells me I am too easy with her, and that she is spoiled. My husband has no patience and spanks her hard, and that makes me ill. I make apologies all day long and sometimes am in hysterics and feel like running away and never coming back.

"You may think I am stupid, but my husband and I are so anxious to do the right thing for our only child and to help her to grow up to be an adjusted woman. Can you help us?"

Could any letter be more sad? A lively, adventurous baby and two loving parents completely at sea as to how to handle her, friends and relatives standing around giving advice and criticism, and making the parents even more confused.

These parents, like all others, need to know only two things: What to expect of a 2 year old and how to direct the manifestations of his growth and development.

Disobedience at this age is not "naughtiness," for one thing. If he is a typical 2 year old he won't and shouldn't "leave things alone." This is the age of adventure and experiment. If this thirst to touch and see is sufficiently satisfied at home he won't be destructive away from home.

*

Slapping and pushing little children is another usual stage that little children often go through, and often is the result of the same impulse, experimentation. If this baby is with children his own age for any length of time he'll be taught, by them, and learn how to act.

Knowing that these and other actions are normal phases of development would mean that the parents would expect them and be in a better state to handle them intelligently. Spanking is not the answer. Neither is spoiling the method.

Our booklets on "Patience," "Don't Touch" and "Obedience" are helpful with your two-year-old. They may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope for each booklet.

Heavy Drinking Is Outmoded as Social Pastime

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My girl friend and I just had a quarrel over drinking. I took her to a dance and afterward we went to a night club. I took a couple of drinks and she was furious, telling me that she hated a person who drinks. But she herself had ordered a Tom Collins. I do not drink, as a rule, and I was as sober as she was, but she didn't like it. I love the girl. She won't talk to me over the phone or answer my letters. SAMO."

We assume that the girl ordered her drink to appear the good sport, since her distaste for drinking is so loudly voiced. It was an odd way of trying to preach a temperance lecture, to be sure. Perhaps you pressed the Tom Collins order on her, Samo? We are only assuming, of course. We can't believe a girl so immune to the inconsistency of her position, so perfectly humorless as to read the riot act on drinking with a long beaker before her.

But all this is beside the point for today. It's the subject of drinking among youth on which we'd comment. In certain quarters the lifting of prohibition does not seem to have affected the attitude of indifference toward liquor with the consequences that party hostesses and week-end ones offer numerous complaints about the "swill-guzzling" practiced by both young men and women guests.

It seems pretty outmoded behavior for this young group which prides itself on being up-to-date, if nothing else. They wouldn't be found dead, for instance, driving a pre-'29 car. They scorn a good many of the old fashioned mannerisms and behaviorisms. Yet, in party gatherings, one will find an element of young folks who conduct themselves in a drinking manner as out of date as the slang that was used a quarter of a century ago, by which they'd soon "date" an oldster using it.

Quite aside from the moral angle, young people, you and your heavy drinking simply mark you as away behind the times.

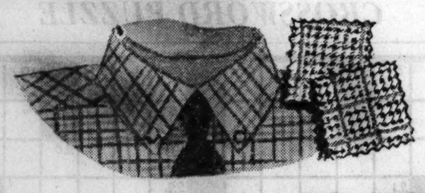
Barathea is among the silk fabrics we've chosen to tie up with diagonal stripes—first, because barathea is, for all its softness, a firm fabric; secondly, its hardly discernible basket weave is a departure from the usual run of tie silks and makes for brighter and crisper color tones.

At $5

The Braxton—in its favor is its ready ability to see eye to eye with the style ideas of the man who owns it. As a result of its fine blocking and the exceptional quality of its felt, it lends itself easily to transformation, can be shaped quickly to the "British Pork Pie," modified Tyrolean or square blocked, sharply pinched front and deep, snapping brim. In 2 1/8-inch bound edge brim. Brown, dark and medium grey. Another new hat is the Douglas with silk lined perspiration band—2 1/4-inch brim.



At $2.50

The Scotch influence is apparent but not overpowering in these shirts that have used to good effect and copied faithfully the smaller and lighter tone plaids and checks. Note the short point collar which comes without buttons or with, as shown—the material is soft and light weight with a finish like English flannel.

PATTY BERG, 17, AND MRS. VARE IN GOLF FINAL

Minneapolis Girl Wins on 21st.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Seventeen year old Patty Berg of Minneapolis made one of the most stirring comebacks in the history of the national women's golf tournament today to join Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, five times titleholder from Philadelphia, in the finals tomorrow.

PATTY BERG.

Before 4,000 spectators, the little redhead, who took up golf only three years ago, dropped a 25 foot uphill putt on the 18th green to square her match against Charlotte Glutting of West Orange, N. J., and then went on to win, 1 up, on the third extra hole. In the excitement, a galleryite, Maurice Bartholomew, 55 years old, of Minneapolis, dropped dead.

Mrs. Vare Has Fight.

Patty will meet Mrs. Vare in the 36 hole final tomorrow. Mrs. Vare, on the road back after marriage and motherhood, swept aside another Minneapolis school girl, 18 year old Beatrice Barrett, 2 and 1, coming from behind on the first nine.

The victory placed Glenna in the finals for the eighth time since 1922, when she won her first championship at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Before today, she ranked as the prohibitive favorite against the field, but the galleryites and even the lingering contestants weren't quite so sure tonight.

Every one expected Glenna to win today, but a victory for Patty, who cried herself into the game three years ago when her father at first refused to get her a Junior Golf club membership, was doubtful. Yet she exceeded the wildest dreams of her followers in this, her first national.

Up from Behind.

The story of Patty's comeback to defeat the long driving New Jersey state champion was packed within the space of rolling terrain of the last three holes. Two down coming to the 16th hole, she got her first big break of the match as Miss Glutting hooked her tee shot among some low spreading oaks and was forced to roll out safely. Patty seized the break with perfect golf to reduce her handicap to one hole.

The halved the 17th without incident, but the 18th, where Patty came through, was a classic finish for a steel nerved kid with a magic putter. Patty's second was off to the right, down a steep incline, while Charlotte's was resting nicely to the left edge of the green. Patty's third was 25 feet short of the pin, and Miss Glutting, playing too boldly, overshot the cup by 12 feet. As the breathless crowd looked on, Patty measured the putt and sent the ball over the high mound. The ball ran straight and true and dropped for a birdie four to square the match. Charlotte's putt for a half was 4 foot short.

They halved the first two overtime holes in par, Charlotte's putt for victory on the 19th hanging on the lip. On the 21st Charlotte conceded as she misjudged her tee shot and approach and took 4 to get on.

Mistake Is Costly.

Mrs. Vare literally wore Miss Barrett down. She was ten to twenty yards ahead of Miss Barrett from the tees, while her approaches split the pin. On the 8th she scrambled out of trouble by whacking a niblick shot from 40 yards that hit the pin and stopped two feet away.

She also won the ninth and rounded the turn 2 up, but Beatrice squared it again by winning the tenth and 13th where traps cost Glenna shots. Glenna won the 14th by laying her approach five feet from the pin for a birdie and ended the match on the 17th with a par as Beatrice made the mistake of trying to pitch off of hard ground, instead of running the ball up.

YAROSZ TO ASK WORLD'S TITLE AGAINST RISKO

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Teddy Yarosz, world's middleweight champion, and Babe Risko of Syracuse, signed today for a championship fight in the Pittsburgh National league ball park Sept. 19.

Yarosz' contract called for a $25,000 guarantee with the privilege of taking 40 per cent of the gate, $1,000 training expenses, and exclusive rights to the motion pictures.

Risko was promised $2,500 with an additional 10 per cent of receipts between $40,000 and $50,000, and 20 per cent of all over $50,000.

Each man agreed to fight for the Sportsmen's Enterprise corporation before next Jan. 1 in an overweight bout if he won. Bill Jacks represented the syndicate, which promoted the battle in which Yarosz won his title from Vince Dundee.

§Dixiana entry.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Juveniles—14 of them—will wage a battle at Lincoln Fields race course this afternoon which should determine the best 2 year old now racing in the middle west. They will come together in the $5,000 added Joliet handicap which is a dash at 6 furlongs.

Tom Worden of Chicago served notice that he does not intend to let this $5,000 prize slip away from him. He named three of his colorbearers for the struggle—Nedrow, Continuity, and Mansco—and almost before the entry list was off the press his entry was installed as the favorite at odds of 2 to 1.

Mansco Likes Distance.

Mr. Worden didn't like that so much because he fancies a taller price on his horses, but what horsemen doesn't like long odds? Yet when a $5,000 pot of gold is at stake the betting seldom worries the owners who are striving to win it.

While Nedrow turned in an impressive victory for Owner Worden a few days ago, the dopesters believe that Mansco is the strongest card he holds in today's contest. They believe he will like the six furlong route better than either Nedrow or Continuity. Nedrow's most recent victory was in a 5½ furlong dash. He showed signs of wanting to quit toward the end of that short race.

Charles T. Fisher's Dixiana stables entry of Thatagal, First Class and Erin Torch was also mustering support and was the second choice at 5 to 2. Joseph E. Widener's Rushaway was at 5 to 1 and Adolf, the fleetest colt to race at the recent Latonia meeting, was at 6 to 1. The longshots which were commanding some attention were My Colin at 15 to 1, and Dusky Prince, owned by Mrs. R. B. Fairbanks of Indianapolis, at 20 to 1.

Eastern Horses To Run.

The field for the Joliet is the smartest juvenile outfit that has gone to the post in Chicago since the running of the Arlington Futurity and the colt that wins it will be ranked among the championship possibilities in next season's series of rich 3 year old events.

The Worden nominees are the only Chicago owned 2 year olds in the race. Easterners in the battle are Owner Widener's Rushaway and the Rosedale stable's Kentucky Blues. The far south has a representative in Sandy Boy, owned by the Southland stable of New Orleans.

This will be the eighth running of the Joliet. It has been won by such good horses as No Regrets, Anita Peabody, Belle of America, Siskin and Hygro in past years.

Minnesota's Gallivan Most Valuable Big Ten Player

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Tommy Gallivan, pitcher on Minnesota's championship baseball team, was chosen the most valuable player of the Big Ten in a poll of conference coaches. This was announced today by Frank McCormick, athletic director and baseball coach at Minnesota.

TROUBLE AHEAD

Helen Jacobs, whose long tenure of the national tennis championship is threatened this year by one of the strongest fields which has ever challenged her. She won her first round match Thursday, but must face many dangerous rivals before emerging with her fourth title.

CUBS CHEER AS PIRATES WHIP LEAGUE LEADERS

Hope to Halt Pittsburgh Rush Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30.—The third place Cubs idled away a couple of hours as spectators at a ball game here today and rooted most noisily in behalf of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cubs, being pennant-minded, at least in a subconscious way, naturally wished to see the Pirates pull down the pace setting St. Louis Cardinals. The Chicagoans had their wish granted, so now they're only one and one-half games from the top in the tightening National league race.

The pro-Pirate attitude of the Cubs was only for the time being. Tomorrow they themselves will battle Pittsburgh in the first of a two game series that is of importance for two reasons. One is that the Cubs must keep on winning until they can balance themselves in the loss column with the rival contenders. The other is that the Pirates with nine straight victories have suddenly pitched themseves into the reckoning, at least so far as second and third places are concerned.

Southpawing for Pirates.

Although the Pirates had a good workout this afternoon against southpaw pitching as dispensed by Bill Hallahan, they are going to be given the same variety of opposition tomorrow. They will be asked to look at their old mate, Larry [Lefty] French. Then on Sunday, when the Cubs make their season's final appearance here, the Pirates will see more southpawing. Manager Charley Grimm intends to start Tiny Roy Henshaw, who is a real nightmare for Pie Traynor's club. The little fellow has won five decisions from the Pirates this season.

After finishing here Sunday the Cubs have twenty straight games at home and five at St. Louis before concluding the season. This arrangement should be helpful for them, but there still remain the excess losses already suffered. In effect this means they are farther behind the leading Cardinals than shown by the present percentages.

32 Games for Cardinals.

For instance the Cards have thirty-two more to play. The Giants have the same number of games remaining. The Cubs have to battle their way through twenty-seven games before completing their season's toil. If the Cubs should win twenty of these they would have a final standing of 97 victories and 57 defeats. The Cards could beat them to the wire by winning 22 while losing 10. The Giants could beat out the Chicagoans on the same basis by capturing 23 while losing nine.

Should the Cubs win 18 of their remaining 27 games the Cards would need only 20 victories out of 32 games to get in on the world series. By the same reckoning the Giants could finish ahead of the Cubs by winning 21 out of 32. In other words, the percentage on recent performances favors the world champions.

Jitters Spreads to Cards.

What the Cardinals did on the ball field today made the Cubs think the percentage against them wasn't as bad as it looks on paper. The Cubs can get jittery themselves, but the champions had a bad attack of the same this afternoon.

Ducky Medwick played a ground ball badly, and it led to a Pirate run in the first inning. In the third the effervescent Pepper Martin let a pop foul elude him. The surviving batter then singled and three runs followed. The three runs meant the ball game.

Birkofer Opposes French

Ralph Birkofer will pitch against French tomorrow. The Cubs aren't worried about the former being a left hander. They have taken 12 of 18 games from the Pirates this season and they hope the good work will continue.

Gabby Hartnett, as the result of his strenuous running at Boston yesterday, was complaining again today about his weak left ankle, originally injured here on July 30, but he thinks he'll be able to take a hand in tomorrow's party.

Bears, All-Stars Regret Absence of Touchdowns

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The day after the Chicago Bears' 5 to 0 victory over the College All-Americans found no one getting cussed out but the weather man. Apparently the weather man was the only one who didn't click, but he tried hard and THE TRIBUNE, originator of the show which has drawn 158,000 in two performances, has decided to let bygones be bygones if said weather man will promise to have a heart, come next year.

GEORGE HALAS.

The Bears were pleased, of course, that they had turned in a well earned victory. Owner-Coach George Halas figured that just a split second's better timing would have given his outfit two touchdowns and he was willing to concede the All-Americans rated one. Mr. Halas, however, spent little time in second guessing. His Bears won on a placement kick by Jack Manders and Jack Manders' boot is a very definite part of his organization and strategy, for which he pays a pretty penny each annum. There have been other times when Mr. Manders has made up touchdown deficiency with place kicking adequacy.

Bears Get Vacation.

The Bears were given a four day vacation as a reward for their skilled performance. During those four days they can break training as they see fit, though of course, they are not expected to get noisy about it. At the end of the period they will return to their St. John's training camp in Delafield, Wis., to resume work for the regular National league opening less than a month hence.

The pros, according to their boss, were in much better physical shape than in last year's contest. Nevertheless three of the Bears' stars weren't feeling so well yesterday. Bronko Nagurski, who played briefly, was in a hospital where doctors were looking him over to discover why he is being beset with arthritis. Bill Karr was limping on a reinjured leg and Beattie Feathers, who shared hero honors with Manders, was moving about cautiously as he nursed a bruised chest.

Rain Upsets Plans.

The vanquished All-Americans took off in all directions. Those who are to play professional football went to their training camps. Others went back to their jobs and still others went to get their feet under the parental board, pending employment.

The players who had a considerable part in the game enjoyed the contest. Several who were kept on the sidelines, or played only briefly, were disappointed.

Many of the 77,450 persons who paid to see the spectacle were disappointed that Cotton Warburton did not play at all and that Buzz Borries got in only in the last minute of the game. It was said, however, that the rain was responsible for their inactivity.

Weather also was given as the reason for the absence of Purdue's touchdown twins, Duane Purvis and Jim Carter. It was reported that plans had been made to turn loose these speedsters in the second half. When the coaches found themselves confronted with a muddy track in the second half, it is reported, they changed their plans considerably, especially in regard to Warburton, Borries, Purvis and Carter.

No One Censured.

The day-after cheering for the All-Americans for the most part was concentrated on Bill Shepherd, as a result of his all around play [despite two spectacular setbacks], Tony Blazine, who stood out among the tackles; John Regeczi, whose kicking in the middle of the game averted much trouble, and Don Hutson, whose 20 yard end-around play gave All-American partisans their biggest thrill of the game. The guards, Regis Monahan and Bill Bevan, also came in for much praise. There was no player who took an extensive part in the game who was censured for any of his maneuvers.

Auditors yesterday were classifying the receipts and the charity disbursements. Announcement of these items will be made later.

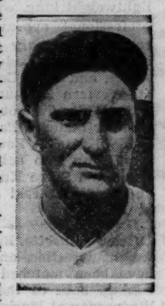
PITTSBURGH'S 9TH IN ROW, 9-3, TIGHTENS RACE

Vaughan, Medwick Hit 19th Homers.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The Pittsburgh Pirates, who are declaring themselves in on the tight National league pennant fight, today whipped the leading St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 3, for their ninth successive victory and their second straight over the 1934 champions.



PAUL WANER.

Led by the hitting of Paul Waner, who made four hits, including two triples, in five times at bat, and Arky Vaughan, who connected three times in four times up, the Pirates routed Southpaw Bill Hallahan and continued their bombardment against the pitching of Phil Collins. The Pirates made fourteen hits.

As a result of today's beating the Cardinals' lead over the second place New York Giants was reduced to one game and now the Pirates consider themselves definitly in the race, for they are only six games behind the Cardinals.

Lloyd Waner Hurt.

The victory was costly to the Pirates. In the first inning Lloyd Waner incurred a leg injury sliding into the plate with the first run of the game. His spikes caught in the dirt and it was believed he suffered a torn ligament.

In hitting his 19th home run of the season, Vaughan, the league's leading batsman, established a new Pittsburgh record for circuit drives. Since the Pirates entered the National league no member of their team ever has hit more than 18 homers in a season. Only George Grantham and Glenn Wright had made that many.

The Cardinals could do little with the pitching of Red Lucas, who duplicated Jim Weaver's achievement of limiting the leaders to seven hits in yesterday's game.

Chase Bill Hallahan.

After the Cardinals had equaled Lloyd Waner's run in the first half of the third, the Pirates came back with a three run attack that removed Hallahan from the scene. Lucas and Jensen singled and ran in on P. Waner's first triple. Vaughan then drove in Waner with a single.

In the fourth Joe Medwick smashed out his 19th homer of the season, cutting the Pirate lead to 4 to 2. Meanwhile Collins was pitching effectively and the Pirates were scoreless until Vaughan knocked homer No. 19 in the seventh.

A fumble by Pepper Martin started the Pirates on their way to four more runs in the eighth. After the error, Padden and Jensen doubled, Waner again tripled and Vaughan hit a single.

SIGN BUDDY BAER TO BOX LEVINSKY ON LOUIS CARD

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Buddy Baer, knockout conqueror of Jack Doyle, was signed today by Promoter Mike Jacobs to oppose King Levinsky in the semi-final to the Max Baer-Joe Louis bout at the Yankee stadium on Sept. 24. The battle will be six rounds.

Doyle, who was stopped in one round by the younger brother of the former heavyweight champion of the world on Thursday night, plans to continue his boxing career. He announced that he plans a fight in Boston next month, against an opponent not yet selected.

BETTING ODDS ON CARDS NOW 7-10; TIGERS ARE 1-8

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Betting on the National league race remains lively, and the Giants still have many supporters, Jack Doyle, the Broadway commissioner, reported today.

"The odds change with each day's results," Doyle said. "Today the Cardinals are the favorites at 7 to 10. The Giants are 13 to 10 and the Cubs are 4 to 1.

"In the American league the Tigers are 1 to 8, with almost no action. The Yankees are 7 to 1.

GIANTS PURCHASE HARRY GUMBERT FROM BALTIMORE

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—In an effort to bolster his overworked pitching staf, Manager Bill Terry of the Giants today purchased Harry Gumbert, right hand star of the Baltimore club of the International league. As Baltimore still has a chance to get into the pennant playoff, it will not deliver Gumbert at once, but Terry hopes to have the youngster in a Giant uniform within two weeks.

Gumbert is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds. He has won 20 games and lost 9 for the Orioles this season.

SHERMAN SIGNED TO BOX NOLAN AT MARIGOLD

Six Bouts Compose Card for Monday.

Co-Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun yesterday announced the complete card for their boxing show Monday at Marigold Gardens. At the same time Sam Abruscato, Western stadium promoter, completed his program for Tuesday.

In addition to the eight round main bout between George Engel of Plymouth, Ind., and Bob La Monte of Chicago there will be five matches at Marigold, one between wrestlers. Jackie Sherman, Detroit welterweight, will meet Mickey Nolan at four rounds. Other contests at this distance will bring together Johnny Campbell and Wilmer Van, junior lightweights, and Jimmy Richards and Joe Wiley. A six round semi-final matches Jackie Sharkey with Tony Michaels at 132 pounds. In the opening bout Paul Miller will wrestle Al Williams.

Lorenzo Lovings, this year's intercity and international Golden Gloves lightweight king, will make his third professional appearance in a four round preliminary to the ten round bout between Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, and Billy Celebron, Rockford, at Western stadium. He will box Davy White five rounds. Another five rounder matches Patrick Henry with Ernie Kulasik. Four round encounters bring into action Sam de Pasquale and Steve Kulic at 130 pounds and Eddie Mileski and Stout Petrie at 147.

George Dusette, Boston light heavyweight wrestler, and Ivan Rasputin have been matched to meet in the windup bout of the wrestling show Wednesday at Marigold Gardens. . . . Jimmy Christy, Catholic Youth organization lightweight star, yesterday left for a week's rest at Eagle River, Wis. . . . Jack Lazar, Chicago junior welterweight, has resumed drills after being out of competition six months. . . . Harvey Massey, New Orleans, La., welterweight, arrived in the loop yesterday and placed himself under the management of Jack Eile. . . . Baby Manuel, Tampa, Fla., who won a dull eight round bout from Henry Hook here recently, will meet Hook again at Sioux City, Ia., Monday, this time for 15 rounds.

Irving [Fat] Goldstein, 1934 intercity Golden Gloves featherweight winner, sparred with Wilmer Van at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday. . . . The drill was Goldstein's first since a year ago last June when he made his pro debut in California. . . . John Freiberg, heavyweight wrestler, is training at Madison Square loop gymnasium, in expectation of leaving the city Monday to engage in a series of encounters on the west coast. . . . Madison Square gym, opened a few months ago under the joint management of Felix Kolk and Paul Poloski, is being operated at a profit this month for the first time. . . . Barney Ross, training for nontitle matches against Baby Joe Gans at Portland, Ore., next Friday, and Ceferino Garcia at San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 13, took a respite yesterday for the second time in the last three days. CAMPBELL WILL SEEK NEW SPEED MARK TUESDAY

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Aug. 30. — (AP) — Sir Malcolm Campbell, holder of the world's land speed record of 276 miles per hour, announced late today he would make an attempt to boost his mark to 300 miles per hour Tuesday morning.

The Englishman, who carefully inspected a big portion of the 13 mile track over the White Salt flats, said he planned to bring the big bluebird racer here from Wendover 10 miles away, Monday morning, for practice runs.

Residents warned him to make the test during the morning hours to avoid cross winds prevalent at this season.

He walked over much of the course of hard, glistening salt this afternoon and said further dragging of the speedway should remove the remaining rough spots.

A three foot black line which will guide the giant Bluebird down the straight course is to be spread by an asphalt truck.

Oak Brook, Fort Sheridan Poloists Win

Coming from behind in each instance to overcome a four goal handicap award, the Oak Brook Polo club defeated Twin Cities Polo club of St. Paul and Minneapolis, 10 to 7, and Fort Sheridan won from the Black Black Horse Troop, 11 to 7, yesterday in the semi-finals of the Central circuit tournament at the Oak Brook Polo club. The winners will meet tomorrow afternoon for the title on the No. 3 Oak Brook field.

With Paul Butler knocking in six goals, Oak Brook made a strong finish, accounting for five of its ten goals in the last two chukkers, while blanking the invaders from Minnesota.

Chamberlin Makes Six Goals.

Lieut. Col. Harry D. Chamberlin of Fort Sheridan tied Butler's mark of six goals in the army team's victory over the Black Horse Troop.

The Twin Cities quartet started off impressively, maintaining their handicap margin in the first period. They were two goals ahead at the end of second chukker. The teams continued to battle on even terms until the fifth period, when Oak Brook's team play began to function. A goal by Jim Hannah tied the count, following which Butler drove through for the point that put Oak Brook ahead. He added two more to his total in the final period. For Twin Cities the work of Al Lindley at No. 3 and Leo Butler at back was outstanding.

Army Rides Hard.

Hard riding that bordered on the reckless enabled Fort Sheridan to catch up with the Black Horse Troop as the second chukker concluded. From then on the Army officers pulled steadily away.

The skill of Maj. C. A. [Doc] Wilkinson in placing setups for Lieut. Col. Chamberlin and the long hitting of Capt. Larry Smith proved important factors in the Army's victory over the Troop foursome. For the latter Herb Lorber was a power on both offense and defense.

DOG FANCIERS HOLD OUTING TO RAISE FUNDS

Members of the Cocker Spaniel Club of the Middle West will hold their annual outing this afternoon at Bergman's picnic grove, 24th street and Des Plaines avenue, North Riverside. All who are interested in dogs, regardless of breed, are welcome.

The primary purpose of the outing is to raise funds to provide trophies and cash prizes, and to help finance the specialty club dog show which will be held this fall.

Betty Butler to Meet Ruth McCabe in Net Final

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Betty Butler of Des Moines and Ruth McCabe, New York, will meet tomorrow afternoon for the women's singles title of the Minnesota State Tennis tournament. The Iowa girl won as she pleased today, 6-0, 6-1, over Mrs. Vida Shaffer of St. Paul, while Miss McCabe turned in an upset for the second straight day by defeating the seeded Alice Frazer of St. Paul, 6-3, 6-4.

L. S. Pratt Leads in National Skeet Shooting Tourney

Solon, O., Aug. 30.—(AP)—L. S. Pratt, 28 year old Indianapolis, Ind., sporting goods store employe, held the lead in the individual all-bore skeet tournament today as the nation's leading marksmen ended the second day of shooting.

Pratt, who finished the first 100 targets yesterday with 99 breaks to tie with O. Mitchell of Natick, Mass., for the lead, hopped out in front by two clays today when he came back in the rain to crash 97.

The Hoosier shooter holds all the Indiana long run records, and the midwestern and Indiana .410 crowns. He broke 74 of his first 75 today, but dropped a pair in his last event.

Tied in the second spot as the tournament goes into its final 50 targets tomorrow are Phil Conway of Green Village, N. J., who broke 99 today for the best performance on the rain swept field; Mitchell, and W. A. Jackson of Conneaut Lake, Pa., all with 194 of 200. Close behind were Augie Macone of Concord, Mass.; Jack Tway of Atlanta, Ga., and E. L. Marshall of Birmingham, Ala., all with 193.

The rest of the field was strung out down to 132 of 200, the score registered by Mrs. D. F. Rice of Chicago. She added a 64 of 100 today to yesterday's 68.

ALLEN, JONES WIN HORSESHOE PITCHING EVENTS

Moline, Ill., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Ted Allen of Alhambra, Cal., the defending champion, and 16 year old Charles [Casey] Jones of Waukesha, Wis., swept through their six opening match play assignments today to share the lead in the national horseshoe tournament.

C. C. Davis of Kansas City, former champion, who set a new record qualifying total of 266 yesterday, landed in a temporary tie with Joe Bennett of Moline, for third place with five victories and one defeat. Davis fell before the pitching of Jimmy Risk, Montpelier, Ind., star, for his lone defeat, while Davis accounted for Bennett's only setback of the day.

Guy Zimmerman, trick shot artist from Sac City, Ia., shared the next position with four others, Frank Jackson, Blue Mound, Kas.; Risk, Harold Scheets, Waukesha, Wis., and Harvey Elmerson, Milwaukee, at four victories in six matches.

Six matches will be played by each of the qualifiers tomorrow afternoon.

C. Y. O. WINS, 6-1, OVER TRI-CITIES' BOXING SQUAD

The Catholic youth organization boxing team added another intercity victory to its list last night by defeating a squad from the Tri-Cities of Davenport, Moline and Rock Island, 6 bouts to 1, at the C. Y. O. outdoor stadium. Chet Ackerman defeated Charles Caborski for the visitors' only victory. The results:

112 pounds—Johnny Noto beat Joe Cirello [3].
126 pounds—Joe Drennan beat Bob Pauly [3].
126—Tony Gora beat Jim Briggs [3].
147—Justin Straksis beat Mickey Capman [3].
147—Jake Lampkins knocked out Harry Virren [1].
160—Chet Ackerman beat Charles Caborski [3].
160—Charles Wozniak beat Tom Donnelly [3].

Here Are Sites for Week-End Camping Trips

BY BOB BECKER.

Labor day week-end brings thoughts of fishing expeditions and camping trips to thousands of families in Chicagoland. There are several good places which can be suggested to fishermen and to families who would like to make a trip of 100 to 150 miles.

One of the most interesting trips for a one day outing is to Wedron, Ill., on the Fox river. This trip is a good one because of the scenery and the historical background of the area, and there is some fishing in the Fox river. One can locate campsites just above the town of Wedron, opposite a beautiful sandstone bluff. A small charge is made for just about all campsites along the river.

If you decide to spend the day there include a hike on your program for the day, because the high bluff, flowers, and birds of the area make a hike particularly interesting.

Starved Rock Near By.

A little south of Wedron is the Starved Rock State park, on the Illinois river west of Ottawa, and this spot might also be taken in during the day's outing.

For a good two day trip, which will combine fair fishing, a pleasant drive, and delightful country, try going to Rock lake, near the town of Lake Mills, Wis. The distance is about 125 miles from Chicago, and the best way to get there is to take U. S. routes 12 and 14 until you hit the junction of state route 89. Take that north to Lake Mills. Rock lake, about a mile and a half long and a mile wide, has fair fishing for bass, pickerel, and panfish. There are good campsites around the lake.

Lake Ripley Good Spot.

Another good spot for a two day trip is Lake Ripley, which is a mile from the town of Cambridge, Wis. This lake is smaller than Rock lake, and has bass and panfish. The town is about 130 miles northwest of Chicago. To get there take the Northwest highway to U. S. route 430, take that north to McHenry, and from there take U. S. 12 into Cambridge. Aside from the chance to get in some fishing and camping, there is a possibility of having a round of golf, because there is a course just a short distance from Lake Ripley.

Another good week-end trip is to Freeman and Shafer lakes, which are located on either side of Monticello, Ind. This is a trip of about 95 or 100 miles from the Chicago loop. The chances for fish there are as good as at any of the other spots mentioned above.

Of course, Lake Geneva, Wis., is a spot to which hundreds of Chicagoans go every week-end, with Labor day week-end one of the favorites. We have had some good fishing in Lake Geneva this summer, and intend to go back there once more before the season closes. You can get a guide, bait, and a boat at the pier.

Andrews, Golden Glover, Defeats Jack Reed

Model Yachts to Start Three Day Regatta Today

Model yachtsmen from Milwaukee, Detroit, Grand Rapids, St. Louis, Cleveland, Traverse City, and Saugatuck, Mich., and Oshkosh, Wis., are expected to join local skippers in the largest regatta of the year at 51st street and the lake over the week-end holiday. The Chicago Model Yacht club is sponsoring the regatta.

Racing by Marblehead 50-800 inch class sloops will feature today's opening events. This event is open to all owners of 50-800 inch craft, regardless of club affiliations.

Commodore Sheldon Clark's trophy will be raced for tomorrow and Monday on the same course by the large class A model yachts. This marks the third year the Commodore Clark trophy has been sailed under Chicago Model Y. C. auspices. E. L. Cheney of Grand Rapids, president of the Model Yacht Racing Association of America, will defend his title for the Commodore Clark trophy. Racing on all three days starts at 9 o'clock in the morning.

A three day regatta is scheduled for the Eagle class of the Chicago Yacht club, starting today, off Belmont harbor. A new prize, the E. Ross Gamble trophy, will go to the series victor on points.

Sailing over the C. Y. C. 12 nautical mile course every afternoon, the Eagles are to be handicapped. Aquila and Quienna will be scratch boats. Orn will benefit by a 49 second allowance, Ishtar gets 59 seconds, Falcon gets 2 minutes and 40 seconds, and Altair gets 4 minutes and 8 seconds.

ROBY SPEEDWAY TRACK REBUILT; INSURES SAFETY

Promoters Carl Stockholm and Emmett T. Howard have rebuilt the Roby speedway track to eliminate hazards whe nracing is resumed here on Sept. 8. A guard rail, constructed so that a skid into it will throw the car back onto the track, is only one of the measures that has been taken to prevent injury to contestants. The rail is hub high and has been found practical at Ascot speedway in Los Angeles and various other dirt tracks where it has been tried.

In addition, the track is being ironed out to eliminate all waves, holes, and soft spots so that the drivers may have confidence to keep their cars rolling at high speed every bit of the way. Special care has been taken in banking the track at the turns and, although it is not banked as high as many of the dirt tracks around the country, it has been made steep enough so that cars will hold traction around them.

ROUND TRIP 75c

KUNES LEADS IN CANADIAN OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Young Gene Kunes of Norristown, Pa., took a six stroke lead in the Canadian open golf tournament today by firing a sub par 68 that left the 27 year old professional with a score of 138 at the end of the second round of the 72 hole play. The final 36 holes will be played tomorrow.

Tied for second place with 144 were Horton Smith, Chicago; Paul Runyan, New York; Tony Manero, Greensboro, N. C., and one Canadian, Lou Cumming of Toronto. Smith and Cumming posted two rounds of 72 while Manero took a 74 after tying Kunes and Jimmy Hines of Garden City, N. Y., for the lead yesterday with a 70. Runyan turned in a 71 to add to his first round score of 73.

Another stroke behind were Hines, Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J.; Al Wastrous, Oakland Hills, Mich., and two Canadians, Arthur Hubert, Toronto, and Gordon G. Taylor, Montreal, former dominion amateur champion.

LARGE FLEET TO START TODAY IN TRIANGULAR RACE

Head for Michigan City, Then St. Joseph.

At 11 a. m. today a large fleet of cruising and racing yachts will start off Jackson park for a three day triangular race. When the fleet has finally finished at the Van Buren street gap sometime late Monday, the boats will have covered at least 130 miles each. The first leg of the race is to Michigan City, and is being sponsored by the Jackson Park Y. C. Tomorrow, the fleet races from the Indiana port to St. Joseph, Mich., under the Columbia Y. C. auspices. The last and longest course, starting Monday morning, takes the fleet from St. Joseph to Chicago, under Chicago Y. C. sponsorship.

Defending one of the major trophies in the triangular race is Dr. William E. Redlich's Auf Wiedersehen, which won the Hamilton club trophy when last it was competed for. The schooner's crew also includes Dr. Francis Yager, Walter Frey, and Tom Lake.

Noble Trophy At Stake.

The first yacht to finish in the first third of the race, to Michigan City, will win the Commodore Noble trophy of the J. P. Y. C. As all entries start on one gun, this will afford the largest and fastest yachts a chance to get a prize without the drawback of handicaps. The largest sailing fleet to compete in any long distance race of the Lake Michigan city, is expected to be in the triangular, three-club three-day event.

A passenger steamer, the S. S. Roosevelt, will carry friends and families of yachtsmen on all three courses to watch the racing. As special guest ship, the Roosevelt will leave the wharf at the Michigan avenue bridge at 10 a. m. today for Michigan City. Tomorrow the steamer will follow the yachts from Michigan City to St. Joseph, and will return with the fleet on Monday. This is the first time in many years that a spectator boat has been available for a long distance yacht race here.

Star Boats To Race.

Star class yachts will wind up the Chicago and interclub season at the Sheridan Shore Yacht club today, tomorrow, and Monday, in the annual shipping board series regatta.

Donated by the shipping board during the world war, the trophy is the most coveted prize for star boats on Lake Michigan. Boats of this class from the St. Joseph river [Mich.], Jackson park, Columbia, and Chicago Yacht clubs will join the Sheridan Shore fleet at Wilmette harbor. Mooring accomodations for the visiting yachts have been provided. Today and tomorrow's races start at 3 p. m. On Labor day, the final event will be sailed at 10 a. m.

A. A. Threatens to Quit Little World's Series

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association, yesterday said there would be no little world series with the International league unless the International agrees to call its playoff winner the league champion.

Hickey said Association objections were based on the International league practice of staging a post-season playoff between the first four finishers and sending the survivor to meet the Association pennant winner.

"We played their playoff winner the last two seasons and on neither occasion was their representative the team which won their pennant," Hickey said.

"We will not play again unless they agree to designate their playoff winner league champion. A little world series between the American Association champion and their playoff winner under present conditions is just a series of exhibition games which mean nothing."

Hickey's statement came in the wake of a Buffalo, N. Y., report that a little world series would be staged if Buffalo or Montreal won the International league title.

FRED HAAS WINS CHICAGO DISTRICT GOLF TITLE, 1 UP

Beats Keith Johnson in 36 Hole Final.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans, a determined and persistent 19 year old front runner, yesterday wrote a new chapter in the history of Chicago golf as he defeated Keith Johnson of Bloomington, Ill., 1 up in 36 holes over Olympia Fields' No. 4 course, to win the Joe G. Davis trophy, emblematic of the amateur championship of the local district.

Johnson, a diminutive, black haired youth, who, like Haas, is not 20 years old, gave the southerner a vigorous argument all the way, coming from behind several times to erase large deficits. But he was never able to take the lead, and in the end it was Haas, the boy who won the western junior championship the last two years, who became the first outsider in twenty-two seasons to win the Davis trophy.

Haas Takes Lead.

Fred got away to a big lead early in the morning round, winning the first hole with a birdie 4 on a six foot putt, and adding the fifth, sixth and eighth to his string when Keith found trouble each place. The downstater took the ninth, however, when Fred was short with his second, leaving the title-bound Haas 3 up at the turn.

He made it 4 up by holing a 30 foot putt for a birdie to win the tenth, but Johnson fired in a par and two birdies to win the next three holes. Haas won the 14th and 15th as Keith was short and found traps, but two more birdies on putts of 15 feet at the 16th and eight feet at the 17th again pulled Johnson up within one hole of the leader. Fred made it 2 up before going to lunch, however, by winning the 18th with a par as Keith three-putted. Morning totals gave Haas a 35—35—70 and Johnson a 36—34—72, two over par.

Haas Increases Lead.

Again in the afternoon Haas dominated the early play, winning the first two holes to go 4 up as he reached the first green in 2 for a birdie 4 and holed a 20 foot chip shot at the second for a par. The two young men then halved the third and fourth before Johnson started a drive that brought him four straight holes and put him on even footing for the first time since the second hole in the morning round.

He won the fifth as Fred's second and third shots caromed off trees and left him with a 6. Keith took the next with a par as Fred, short on his drive, needed a 4. On the seventh he banged his second shot from the rough to within three feet of the cup for a birdie, and at the eighth holed a five footer for a deuce. Haas turned back the challenge and again went out in front, however, at the 27th hole, winning with a par 4 as Johnson was trapped on his second and out short in 3.

Both Play Steadily.

Going into the final nine holes the pair settled down to par shooting in earnest. The first four holes were halved in regulation figures, but at the 32d green Johnson laid Haas a near dead stymie to win and leave the match even again. Halving the long 33d in par 5s, Haas attained his final margin on the short 34th.

At that hole Johnson, driving first, put his tee shot in the parallel creek hazard while Fred was pin high ten feet from the hole. After taking a penalty shot and then pitching wide of the cup, Johnson conceded the hole. On the final two greens Haas gained the necessary halves with a par at the 35th and a 5 at the home green.

DARLING EXTENDS SHOOTING TIME ON RAILS, DOVES

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Doves and rails may be shot from 7 a. m. to sundown, central standard time, during the season opening Sunday, Sept. 1, C. F. Thompson, director of the Illinois department of conservation, announced today following receipt of a telegram from J. N. Darling, chief of the United States bureau of biological survey. The federal bureau originally had set a 4 p. m. daily deadline.

The dove season closes Sept. 30 and the rail season Nov. 30.

The daily deadline for shooting coot will remain at 4 p. m., according to Darling. The coot season, along with the season for ducks, brants, geese, and snipe, will be from Oct. 21 to Nov. 19.

Federal regulation also provides that guns used in taking all migratory birds, including doves, rails, coots, ducks, geese, and snipe, must not be larger than 10 gauge, and must be plugged to make them incapable of firing more than three consecutive shots.

WHITE SOX LOSE EXHIBITION AT MILWAUKEE, 6-2

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 30.—The Brewers pounded three White Sox pitchers for 16 hits today to defeat the major leaguers, 6 to 2, in an exhibition game at Borchert field. Johnny Salveson, Carl Fischer, and Whitlow Wyatt were easy for Milwaukee, while Forrest Pressnell, who pitched the entire game for the Brewers, coasted after his mates had piled up four runs in the fourth inning.

Luke Appling drove in both of Chicago's runs.

The Sox returned to Chicago tonight and will meet the Cleveland Indians at Comiskey park tomorrow in the first of a two game series.

Sox Miss Chance to Score.

The visitors missed their first scoring opportunity in the second when Appling was nailed at the plate after getting to first on Marshall's error and moving around on Bonura's single.

Milwaukee broke through for a run in its half on successive hits by Gullic, Torres, and Trapp.

Radcliff and Simmons singled in the Chicago third with one out, but were left stranded. The Brewers added to their margin in the same inning, putting across four runs on four hits, all at the expense of Salveson. This assortment included a triple by Rensa with Torres and Trapp on and a double by Storti.

Chicago Wastes More Hits.

The White Sox wasted hits in the fourth, fifth, and sixth. The Brewers scored again in the sixth when Storti smashed his second double, this one off Fischer, went to third on Webb's infield hit and rode home on Gullic's slow roller back of second.

Chicago got to Pressnell for a run in the eighth on singles by Hayes and Appling. Hayes was a pinch hitter for Radcliff.

Appling also batted across the Chicago team's final run in the ninth, sending a long fly to Gullic on which Hayes ran home. Hayes had started the abbreviated rally with a single and sprinted to third on Conlan's double.

Browns Pound Bridges; Beat Tigers, 8 to 7

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Browns upset league leading Detroit, 8 to 7, today by stopping a belated Tiger drive after staging a late inning rally of their own.

After overcoming an early handicap the tailenders broke a 6-all deadlock in the eighth with two runs, when Hogsett, who replaced Tommy Bridges on the mound, filled the bases with two walks and a high throw to first. Heath scored after Julius Solters' long fly and Lary followed him home when Pepper singled.

AIR CONDITIONED PUTTING GREENS ARE SUGGESTED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Air conditioned putting greens may be the latest scientific wrinkle for golf courses. Soon electric fans may be just as common a fixture on the greens as are the sprinkler systems now. The electric fan treatment is the latest trick of keeping putting greens from developing those big bare brown spots, commonly known as brown patch.

At the experiment station of the department of agriculture at Arlington, Va., the greens section experts of the U. S. Golf association have found that electric fans dissipate the fungus growth which causes brown patch. The fans are turned on during the hot nights to keep the greens cool and to dry off the dew gradually before the warm morning sunstrikes it.

The innovation came about this way:

Dr. John Montieth, chief of the greens section of the U. S. G. A., found that brown patch resulted from a fungus growth which comes out of the ground on hot and humid nights when the dew lies heavily on the grass tops.

"Why not," he reasoned, "cool off the grass and keep it from getting moisture by use of electric fans to dry up the dew?"

Brown patch, he found, does not come from the spider web or other webby formations seen on greens early in the morning after a night of heavy dew. It results from a fungus which comes out of the ground itself.

BRADDOCK ENDS SOUTHERN TOUR; ENGLAND NEXT

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Jimmy Braddock, heavyweight boxing champion, finished his exhibition tour of the south last night and left for New York today with his manager, Joe Gould. Gould said Braddock probably would leave New York in late September for a tour of Ireland and England.

While in Texas, Braddock predicted that Max Baer would beat Joe Louis in their fight in New York next month.

GASTONIA WINS JUNIOR LEGION BASEBALL TITLE

Gastonia, N. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Gastonia's junior legion baseball team made it three straight over Sacramento, Cal., 12 to 8, today to win the national championship.

The western champions staged a futile five run rally to tie the score in the eighth. The North Carolinans immediately put on the steam in their half, making four runs and bringing the South Atlantic section its first junior legion title.

Cardinals Play Tomorrow at East Chicago

The Chicago Cardinals of the National Professional football league play in their first exhibition game at East Chicago, Ind., tomorrow afternoon. Their opposition will be a team of ex-college stars from the Calumet region, known as the Calumet All-Stars. The game will be held at the Roosevelt High school field at East Chicago.

After two weeks of intensive practice at Mills Stadium, Milan Creighton, player-coach, believes new men as well as the veterans are ready. The back field has been greatly strengthened by the addition of Gil Berry, former University of Illinois captain. Other newcomers in the back field expected to give the Cardinals added punch are Kenneth Peterson of Gonzaga; Hal Panglem of Oregon State, and Red White of Colorado State.

Tony Blazine of Chicago, who starred at Illinois-Wesleyan last year and who played with the All-Stars against the Bears at Soldiers' field Thursday night, will join the Cardinals Monday.

VAUGHAN'S THREE HITS GAIN BACK LOST GROUND

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

Arky Vaughan found a couple of cousins among the St. Louis pitchers yesterday and got three hits, including his 19th homer, in four times at bat to regain most of the ground he had lost in the Big Six batting race the last few days. The three hits sent his average up three points to .398.

Joe Medwick also hit homer 19, but got no other hits and dropped a point while Hank Greenberg failed to hit at all and took a three point loss. The other three members were idle. The standing:

Chicago Cricket Team to Meet St. Louis Today

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 30.—(AP)—St. Louis and Chicago cricket stars will open the second half of their annual home-and-home series tomorrow in the first of three games here. A picked team from the Missouri Cricket association will oppose a squad from the Illinois Cricket association headed by Tom Crompton, well known soccer referee. The teams will meet again Sunday and Monday. Last month the Chicago team, playing on its home field, took four games in a row from St. Louis.

Sets 24 Hour Auto Record of 135 M.P.H.

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Ab Jenkins, Utah driver, tonight broke the world record of 134.85 miles per hour for 24 hours, set recently by John Cobb of London, by racing his powerful automobile through a night and a day at an average speed of 135.47 miles per hour.

Jenkins completed his 24 hour run over a glistening white track of salt at 8 p. m. Success climaxed the Utahan's third effort to recover the title he lost to the Briton here earlier in the summer. Motor and tire trouble slowed up the earlier runs.

Failure nearly came again today when, after traveling 2,500 miles in record time, fire caused a costly delay. With the ignition system blaze under control, Jenkins raced on. At the 3,000 mile mark he had again built up his average by a terrific burst of speed. At this point he bettered Cobb's record time of 134.56 miles per hour by hitting an average of 134.72.

Jenkins was relieved at the wheel by Tony Gulotta of Kansas City, Mo.

The course Jenkins used for his trials is near the 13 mile stretch where Sir Malcolm Campbell will take his Bluebird next week in an attempt to reach 300 miles per hour.

Waggoners Face Winicki Cragins in Midwest Game

The Waggoner Greasing Palaces baseball team will meet the Winicki Cragins in a Midwest league free-lance baseball game at Long and Fullerton avenues tomorrow at 3 o'clock. Pete Beam will hurl against the Cragins. Monday the Waggoners travel to Blue Island to meet the Grove St. Colts at 134th street and California avenue.

Hopeful Stake Ends Saratoga Meeting Today

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—There was a close finish in the stake feature at the Saratoga race track this afternoon when the Wheatley stable's Misled was able to stave off her opposition and score by a head. This was in the second consolation claiming stakes, an event for those juveniles nominated for, but not considered good enough to start in the meeting's rich specials.

Misled ran coupled with District and the two went up in the betting to a closing at 7 to 1. Indianbroom landed the place by a late charge with Kievan a fast closing third. The winner's time of 1:13 3-5 was slow for the fast track which prevailed. The test had a value of $2,045.

With seventeen named for the Hopeful, and seven for the Cup, the month long meeting of the Saratoga association will come to an end here tomorrow after one of the most successful sessions in recent years. To a large degree the outcome of the Hopeful, which may gross $45,000, will decide the juvenile championship which is in a very muddled state.

Once more there is no certainty even of naming the pre-race favorite, but it is probable that this distinction will go to the Milky Way farm entry of The Fighter and Sangreal. Each must take up penalties for earlier victories, but the top impost of 129 pounds is the lot of Coldstream Stud's Coldstream, stake winner in the west and the colt which ran a dead heat with Red Rain in the Special here.

Red Rain is in with a five pound concession over his rival and many admirers think him the champion 2 year old.

GIVE GOLF EXHIBITION.

PERRY STARTS TITLE DEFENSE IN MEET TODAY

Rain Postpones U. S. Tennis Matches.

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Fred Perry of England will start out in defense of his national tennis championship at Forest Hills tomorrow as play is resumed following a twenty-four hour postponement.

In spite of the loss of a day's competition as a result of rain, the combined men's and women's tournament will be brought to a conclusion on Sept. 7 as scheduled, unless further inclement weather is encountered.

The program for tomorrow is the same as arranged for today so far as the men's championship is concerned, with thirty-two second round matches listed, in addition to the first round meeting between Christian Boussus of France and Robert Harmon and the unfinished engagement between Laird Watt of Canada and Lieut. R. M. Watt Jr. of New York, who divided four sets on Thursday.

Second Round for Women.

The entire second round of the women's singles will be run off and the national veterans' tournament will get under way with Raymond B. Bidwell, the defender, heading a field of sixty-four.

In all, a total of eighty-two matches will constitute the business of the day. If that is not a record for national championship play, it is probably as close to one as the committee relishes undertaking.

With Perry's entrance upon the scene against Arthur Fowler, an unknown player of Pleasantville, N. Y., the tournament will get under way in earnest. The program will open with the giant Roderick Menzel of Czechoslovakia pitting his top spin drives against Richard Norris Williams II.

Kay Stammers in Action.

Katherine Stammers, who has risen to such compelling stature in tennis, and Sidney B. Wood Jr., also will make their appearances in the stadium. Outside, on the grandstand court, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan will have the opportunity to give full play to her piercing, correctly fashioned ground strokes against Miss Katherine Winthrop, and Donald Budge who, California hopes, will develop into a second Ellsworth Vines, will launch his bid for the crown against Donald Hawley of New York.

Enrique Maier of Spain is likely to meet with a stern challenge from Hal Surface of Kansas City. Ernest Sutter, who plays in a manner worthy of the brother of Clifford Sutter, will face Frank Shields, and Eskell Andrews of New Zealand meets a soundly armed opponent in Martin Buxby.

Helen Jacobs, the women's champion, will play Miss Norma Taubele, Jean Sharp and Gracyn Wheeler are expected to provide one of the best matches of the day.

COCHRANE THINKS TIGERS ARE 35 PCT. BETTER THAN 1934

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, said today that he considers his team 35 per cent better this season than it was last year when it won the American league pennant.

The personnel is practically the same, but he attributes the superiority to greater experience.

"We had the jitters in last year's world series," he said. "That was because only one or two of us had had world series experience. If we get into the series this fall you'll see none of that nervousness."

BET HEAVILY ON MATCH RACE AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Myrtlewood Favorite at Odds of 4 to 5.

The match race to be run at Lincoln Fields on Monday between Myrtlewood and Clang, both holders of world's records, brought a fresh outburst of wagering among those in yesterday's Lincoln Fields crowd.

Myrtlewood continued to rule as the favorite at 4 to 5, but the Clang backers were more numerous than they have been at any time since the match was arranged.

Col. M. J. Winn, who arranged the race and who has staged such famous match events as Zev against In Memorian and Hourless against Omar Khayam has not announced the place the race will hold on the holiday program. It will be listed as a special event and will be decided between races although there will be wagering through the pari mutuels on the outcome of it.

My Auntie, a daughter of Busy American-Babe K, won the Arrow Brook purse yesterday in such handy fashion that many race goers came to the conclusion that she might be one of the fastest fillies in the Chicago racing section.

She turned back such speedsters as Hatcheck, Lady Montrose, Pierre Andre, and Threadneedle over the slow drying out track and never left the result in doubt. Jocky Haas had her well in hand at the finish. She is owned by Roscoe Goose of Kentucky and was a stoutly backed favorite in the Arrow Brook, paying $6.40.

When the veteran Jocky Jimmy McCoy rolled up a double on Rebekah in the first race and Carnelian in the sixth the players gave him a rousing cheer. It is the first time this season McCoy had ridden two winners in one afternoon.

A betting cleanup was reported to have been made on Golden Rock II., which won the Parneil purse yesterday. He paid off in the mutuels at slightly more than 10 to 1 and smothered his rivals with his speed once he started running on the turn into the stretch. The favorite, Mama's Choice, from Tom Worden's stable wasn't able to finish in the money and apparently didn't like the damp track.

Four Iowa Teams Will Hold Fall Practices

Iowa City, Ia., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Four University of Iowa sport squads will hold regular fall practices, coaches announced today. Fall drills will be held in baseball, basketball, track, and golf. Golfers will begin practice at the opening of school in preparation for the Iowa intercollegiate championships to be played this fall.

Winner trained by B. S. Michel. Went to post at 2:46. At post 3½ minutes. Start good from Pylodyne gate. Won easily.

ALBERT D., suited by the soft track and aided by clever rating, raced through on inside in reaching the lead on stretch turn, came away easily approaching final eighth and had something left. SOCK DODGER, a strong factor from the start but forced to hold on well through, was under pressure the final five-sixteenths and held on well. FOREST AVENUE was under urging after three-eighths, came to outside in stretch and finished with good speed.

Winner trained by C. M. Ferretti. Went to post at 4:17. At post ½ minute. Start good from Pylodyne gate. Won driving, place same.

GOLDEN ROCK II., rated around the leaders while still under restraint, increased his margin gradually after straightening out in the stretch but weakened in late stages yet stalled off SALAAM. Latter, allowed to drop out of it, bettered his position gradually after five-eighths and holding on well was wearing down the winner. DOKAS, on inside throughout weakened badly after three-quarters but outlasted BLESSED EVENT.

SIXTH RACE. One mile and one-sixteenth. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by H. Loudon. Went to post at 4:44½. At post ½ minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving, place same.

CARNELIAN, much the best, took command when called upon and continuing well held sway thereafter. STATION BELLE, a factor from the start was under vigorous riding the final half mile and held on well. BAKU saved ground where possible, moved up slightly soon after reaching stretch but tired in late stages.

SNOBEEDO, under snug restraint for three-quarters and forced wide on stretch turn by SWEET CHARIOT, outgamed BLAST in a hard drive. Latter, fractious at post but away fast, was much used in early stages, drew off to the lead on inside in stretch and withstood a long drive gamely. SWEET CHARIOT displayed speed from the start, bore out badly on stretch turn and gave way slowly in the drive.

PORT O' PLAY, away slowly and badly outrun for five-eighths went to outside when beginning to move up, overtook the leaders rapidly in stretch and had something left. MAD EAGLE, under steadying restraint for three-quarters held on well in the drive. PARTIES, badly jostled about early, lost much ground on second turn then went to inside for the drive which she withstood gamely.

WABASH STRIKE POSTPONED; WILL TRY ARBITRATION

U. S. Mediation Board to Hear Controversy.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A strike of 4,500 employés of the Wabash and Ann Arbor railroads, set for tomorrow morning, was called off this afternoon when both sides of the controversy agreed to submit the dispute to the United States mediation board. The board asked that the strike be postponed.

C. S. Montooth, a spokesman for the four major brotherhoods who announced the strike yesterday, said the organizations would send delegations to Washington Wednesday to confer with the board. This decision came soon after Montooth received the board's offer to seek a solution of the trouble.

Offer Is Accepted.

S. E. Cotter, chief operating officer of the Wabash road, said earlier that the company would accept the offer of the mediation board without delay. Previously both he and Montooth had said the first move in mediation was up to the government.

The four brotherhoods involved in the dispute are the Locomotive Engineers, Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. In a referendum taken Aug. 10 they voted in favor of the strike as a climax to a three year controversy over wage schedules.

Car, Bus Strike Ended.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Street car and bus transportation in South Bend and on the Mishawaka line was resumed at noon today when a two weeks' old strike was terminated by an agreement between the operators and union employés.

It was agreed to enter into a one year contract and to submit to arbitration the demand for wage increases. The agreement also provided that the union will be recognized as the employés' agent for collective bargaining and that Lea Schuler, discharged motorman, will be reinstated within 90 days.

Warns Against Picketing.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Maj. E. E. Weimar, commander of Indiana National Guard units stationed here, said today that picketing of strike-bound plants in Vigo county would not be tolerated and warned the public that military control of the county, instituted July 22 by proclamation of Gov. Paul V. McNutt, had not been lifted and will be enforced with as many troops as are necessary.

STOCK TRADING DWINDLES, BUT CLOSE IS STRONG

Late Buying Flurry Aids Utilities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—Dull trading and narrow price movements were the chief characteristics of operations on the stock exchange today, but at the close gains exceeded declines by a considerable margin. Volume fell to 831,000 shares, the poorest showing in weeks.

A flurry of late afternoon buying centering in the utilities enabled the list to close strong, but the net improvement of most of the group leaders was nominal. American Can was prominent on a gain of a point, and Chrysler stepped up 1¾.

Absence of many traders for the holiday and the lack of important trade news contributed to the market's indifferent performance. Few expected a decisive turn of prices today.

Oil Group Is Weak.

The slash in California crude oil prices continued to make itself felt in the petroleum group and declines of a fraction to a point or so were suffered by the Standard issues, Phillips Petroleum, Atlantic Refining, Seaboard Oil, and others. Another group that could not seem to get going even after the afternoon turn came was the tobaccos. Reynolds managed to perk up a shade, but American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, and Lorillard all closed behind minus signs.

American Power and Light shares were the pacemakers of the utility division's advance, the preferred issues running ahead for 4 points each and the common rising a point. Advance reports of a large increase in the company's earnings helped. American and Foreign Power senior shares were well bought and the preferreds of Standard Gas and Colorado Gas turned up rather sharply. Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey both rose fractionally on moderate demand.

Some Liquor Shares Gain.

Some of the liquor shares attracted a sizable number of buying orders. National Distillers rose to a new high on an upturn of more than a dollar a share and Schenley came in for a like gain.

Reports of ambitious fall offerings in the movie field stimulated demand for shares of this industry. Twentieth Century-Fox was aided by talk of benefits supposed to be coming its way from the merger.

Anticipation of better earnings reports by leading railroads failed to spur any pronounced demand for the carrier shares. Most of the leaders of the group edged slightly ahead, however. Union Pacific was an exception.

New York tractions had another of their occasional good days, both Interborough and Manhattan being able to make some further capital out of the perennial talk of imminent unification developments.

FORMER BANK EXAMINERS TO MEET MONDAY

Former national bank examiners for the Ninth district, centered at Minneapolis, will hold their third annual reunion here on Labor day. Howard M. Sims, manager of the Chicago Clearing House association and former examiner at Minneapolis, has sent invitations to twenty-six men for the reunion.

Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company, and J. W. McIntosh, The Plains, Va., former controler of the currency, are among those in the group. Others are Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston; J. W. Pole, former acting controler, and A. P. Leyburn, chief examiner in the Cleveland district, who formerly served in that capacity here.

CHICAGO JOINT STOCK LAND BANK TO PAY 10% MORE

John B. Gallagher, receiver for the Chicago Joint Stock Land bank, announced yesterday that the bank would pay another 10 per cent of the institution's indebtedness represented by farm loan bonds and interest.

The dividend will be distributed out of proceeds derived from the liquidation of assets. Checks will be mailed about Oct. 7 to registered holders of receiver's certificates as of Sept. 11, 1935.

This is the fourth dividend of the bank. The first, amounting to 30 per cent, was paid in September, 1934. Others of 10 per cent each were paid in January and June of this year. The total of the four dividends is $26,164,036.

30 STEEL BARGES ARE ORDERED BY MISSISSIPPI LINE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Officials of the American Bridge company announced today it has been awarded a contract to construct 30 steel barges for the Mississippi Valley Barge Line of St. Louis, Mo. The order, they said, will require more than 7,500 tons of steel plates and shapes.

Riverment described the order as the largest commercial contract let to Ohio river barge yards in the last four years. Each of the new barges will be 132 feet long, 35 feet wide and 10 feet deep. Work will be started on them immediately.

U. S. Spending Viewed as Key to Bond Prices

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Although they fear that ultimately the billions of dollars that the federal government is spending annually in excess of its revenues will break down government credit unless these extravagances are curtailed, bankers and bond men do not look for a bad break in government bond prices in the near future.

The troubles that they foresee are down the road—possibly two, three, or more years ahead. For the near future they believe that the New Dealers have so rigged the machinery for the distribution of new bonds and the manipulation of market prices on outstanding issues that a severe decline is highly improbable—unless, of course, a major war should break out threatening to involve the United States.

* *

Secretary Morgenthau's failure to obtain sufficient subscriptions to cover his latest 100 million dollar bond offering has led professionals to expect the treasury to be forced to pay a slightly higher rate on its fall refinancing operation, in which funds must be raised to retire the billion and a quarter dollars' worth of Liberty bonds called for redemption Oct. 15, but no great decline in quotations on government issues is anticipated.

One big reason for the failure of government bond prices to decline as budget deficits mount lies in the fact that the treasury during the last three years has managed to concentrate government bond holdings in the banks. Before the depression, when government bonds were widely held by the general public, the treasury could not effectively control the market for them.

During the last three years, however, the ownership of government bonds has been radically changed. The outstanding Liberty Loan bond issues that have been retired have come largely out of the safe deposit boxes of individual investors, but the new bonds that have been sold to pay for these retirements have been bought largely by banks. And the treasury can and does control the government bond investment policies of the banks in various ways.

Strangely enough, the very extravagance of the government which has necessitated its selling additional bonds has made it increasingly easy for the treasury to force the banks to buy more bonds. The reason for this is that an increase in the federal debt almost automatically enlarges bank deposits proportionately, and as deposits grow the banks become increasingly desperate to find means of putting their mounting idle cash to work to get some return on it.

* *

The whole thing is a ring-around-a-rosy. Bigger federal debt causes bigger bank deposits; bigger bank deposits increase the banks' idle cash reserves, and bigger reserves force the banks to buy more government bonds, thus encouraging the politicians to spend still more money because it's easy to get.

This beautiful bubble of course cannot keep on expanding indefinitly. Sooner or later if the deficits are not tapered off the public will discover that artificial expansion of bank deposit money is just as inflationary as artificial expansion of currency.

For the immediate future, however, bond experts do not expect a crisis in government credit or a bad relapse in government bond prices. The larger banks are not selling bonds. They realize that if they should try to sell some of their holdings they would only be cutting their own throats by undermining the market for the balance of their government bonds.

* *

Having about 40 per cent of their deposits invested in "governments," the banks know that it would be folly to try to get rid of them. In the first place, there would be nobody to buy them and, in the second place, there would be nothing for them to do with the money if they could sell them.

Furthermore, the treasury has not yet thrown its heavy artillery into action. If necessary, Morgenthau could manipulate the market for government bonds with the 1 billion 800 million dollar "stabilization" fund, which was part of the "profit" that the treasury allocated to itself when it wrote up the price of gold from $20.67 to $35 an ounce and commandeered all monetary stocks of the metal.

Also the treasury, acting through the "open market" committee established by the new banking act, could quickly force the federal reserve banks to step into the open market and buy billions of additional government bonds to support quotations.

* *

Another means of support for government bonds could be afforded by permitting the commercial banks to borrow from the federal reserve banks, giving their government bonds as collateral. Such loans could be made at par and could be extended indefinitly.

The New Dealers have so set up the machinery for supporting the government bond market that with skilful handling it might be possible for them to keep the superstructure of government bond prices apparently intact until the foundation had been completely undermined through the inflation of bank deposit money resulting from extravagant federal borrowing continued too long.

273 Day Treasury Bills Sold at 99.885 Average

The average price of accepted bids on the $50,000,000 273 day treasury bills offered last Wednesday was 99.885, with an average yield of about 0.151 per cent on a bank discount basis. The accepted bids ranged from 99.909, or a rate of 0.120 per cent, to 99.870, or a rate of 0.171 per cent.

U. S. Steel Will Use More 'Ads' in Trade Drive

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The United States Steel corporation has decided to seek a larger share of the business in its industry through more active advertising. This was revealed today with the announcement by the corporation that it has engaged the services of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne, Inc., as advertising agents for the corporation and its subsidiaries.

In Wall street circles the corporation's decision to inaugurate a unified advertising campaign was interpreted as a departure from the extremely conservative selling and merchandising methods which it has pursued from the time of its organization.

Aggressive Marketing Foreseen.

The plan is believed to be in line with the policy of aggresive marketing activities forecast by the corporation's recent announcement of unification involving its two largest subsidiaries, Carnegie Steel and Illinois Steel.

Carnegie Steel today engaged James S. McKesson, a former vice president of the Corrigan McKinney Steel company, to take exclusive charge of selling its pig iron. It was the second time within a week that U. S. Steel went into the ranks of the independents to pick a key executive. Benjamin F. Fairless, vice president of Republic Steel, was signed recently to head the combine of Carnegie and Illinois Steel.

McKesson has been prominent in the pig iron industry many years. He started as a bookkeeper with the Corrigan, McKinney Steel company, about 35 years ago.

The industry here took the moves as further indication that the corporation intends to "shakeup" its units and make a more determined drive against competitors for the steadily increasing business.

Steel Pay Rolls Increase.

A 2 per cent increase in pay rolls of the steel industry during July over June was reported by the American Iron and Steel institute today, notwithstanding a decline of 2 per cent in operations. The increase over the same month last year was nearly $8,000,000, or 22 per cent.

July pay rolls in the industry totaled $42,725,150, against $41,902,874 the month before and $34,913,521 in July a year ago. Operations were at 39.44 per cent of capacity, compared with 40.31 per cent in June and 27.06 per cent in July, 1934.

The total number employed in the steel industry in July of this year was 415,937, a recline of only two-tenths of 1 per cent from the total of 416,732 employés in June. In July, 1934, employés numbered 424,126.

RYERSON STOCKHOLDER MEETING VOTES FOR MERGER WITH INLAND

Stockholders of Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., approved all steps necessary to effect the company's merger with Inland Steel company in a meeting yesterday which was attended by six of the seven directors, two secretaries, and one reporter. It was the only time in the company's history that no shareholder aside from members of the board attended a stockholders' meeting. Proxy representation, however, amounted to 373,247 favoring votes, or more than 92 per cent of the 406,780 shares of stock outstanding.

Half a dozen resolutions were approved, the unusually great number being required because Illinois law does not permit an Illinois corporation to merge with one of another state. The plan involved formation of a Delaware corporation [Inland is incorporated in that state], to which all Ryerson assets will be transferred in exchange for all of its stock. Inland will take this company and issue 240,000 of its shares in payment therefor. These shares will be distributed to present Ryerson stockholders on the basis of 59/100 Inland share for one present Ryerson share.

Inland stockholders will meet Oct. 20 to carry out their part of the deal. This includes authorizing issuance of the additional shares and enlarging its directorate to include three representatives of Ryerson interests.

WILD STEER SCARES OFF CATTLE THIEVES, BUT NOW IT'S STEAK

E. Brammeir of Cedar county, Ia., left the stockyards $1,780 richer last night, thanks to the efforts of a wild black steer, which last week frustrated attempts of cattle rustlers to make off with the string of cattle which he sold here.

Last week cattle rustlers cut through a temporary barbed wire corral Brammeir had erected, backed in two trucks, and prepared to make off with the cattle. Brammeir's wild black steer didn't like the idea and started such a commotion that they were unable to load the lot.

Brammeir, attracted by the uproar, dashed to the field, but the rustlers, in true western style, had sped away via truck. The Iowan was grateful to the steer, but figured such a display of temperament removed all rights to placid farm life. The steer is now being processed into steaks and roasts.

BORG-WARNER PAYS MORE; WILL REDEEM STOCK

Directors of Borg-Warner corporation yesterday declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, an increase from 37½ cents a share paid in previous quarters, and the regular quarterly disbursement of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock, both payments to be made Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 13.

Authorization was also given for the redemption on Nov. 30 of 5,000 shares of the preferred stock, having a par value of $500,000. This will reduce the outstanding preferred stock to 20,000 shares with a total par value of $2,000,000. The shares to be redeemed will be drawn by lot from certificate holders of Sept. 13, such holders to receive $107.50 a share plus any accrued dividends. On Wednesday the preferred closed on the Chicago Stock exchange at $109.50 a share.

SELECT TRUSTEE FOR MILWAUKEE LINE ON SEPT. 24

Sept. 24 was set yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson as the date for a hearing on the appointment of one or more trustees for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, now undergoing reorganization under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy act.

A voluntary petition for reorganization was filed last June 29. The management was permitted to remain in possession and control pending acceptance of a new plan. Under a recent amendment to the law appointment of one or more trustees is mandatory on the court. Previously the action was optional.

Judge Wilkerson ordered publication of his order in newspapers of New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, and Seattle, Wash.

SOUTH DAKOTA TO ASK $50,000,000 FOR POWER UNITS

Pierre, S. D., Aug. 30.—(AP)—South Dakota's electric commission decided today to submit to the Public Works administration four Missouri river hydro-electric projects, estimated to cost 50 million dollars. State Engineer Charles Trimmer, who told the commission power could be produced cheaply enough for private companies to buy it, was instructed to prepare applications.

Sites of the projects are Mobridge, Mulhead, Gavin Point, and Medicine Butte.

The electric commission was created by the 1935 state legislature at the request of the Public Works administration with broad powers to produce and distribute electricity.

Consolidation Announced of 2 General Mills Units

H. R. McLaughlin, president of the Washburn Crosby company, Inc., Chicago subsidiary of General Mills, Inc., announced yesterday the company has taken over the Gold Medal Flour company. The latter was also a unit of General Mills. H. E. Burgess will continue to manage the company. The parent company announced in Minneapolis yesterday the start of a national sales campaign to stimulate consumption of wheat products.

Retail Sales Still Climbing, Survey Shows

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Retail sales throughout the country continued this week to show gains over the corresponding week last year, but wholesale trade encountered more resistance, Dun & Bradstreet's reported today in the agency's weekly review.

"Recovering from the lag of the preceding week retail sales moved more confidently upward as consumer interest broadened in fall merchandise when the weather turned cooler," said the review. "Purchases for the Labor day holiday gave a final spurt to the movement of vacation goods and traveling accessories, while preparations for the opening of schools and colleges bolstered sales of misses and youths' clothing and luggage.

Women's Wear More Active.

"Both in women's wear and millinery demand was stronger than a week earlier, and there were more calls for novelty jewelry, hosiery, and shoes. Previous gains were extended in the results reported for August promotions for fur garments, furniture, and housewares."

Commenting on the slowdown of wholesale trade the agency pointed out that retailers generally have accumulated substantial inventories and now are awaiting the test of consumer buying before making additions to their commitments.

"The summer season is closing with some of the most spectacular increases in many years recorded for both the production and distribution of merchandise, and with preparations under way for a wider advance during the fall," the review continued.

Industrial Operations Expand.

"Although production in a few divisions was curtailed to permit arrangements for higher schedules, the general rise of industrial operations has yet to be checked."

The report pointed out that because of the rising trend of retail distribution at the close of August, last year, increases over the comparative showing of 1934 were smaller than during the opening weeks of the month, as the estimated gain for the country was held to a range of 2 to 20 per cent.

"There were no developments during the week to alter perceptibly the average of industrial operations, which held to 20 to 30 per cent above the comparative 1934 level," the survey added.

CREDIT COMPANY LIFTS DIVIDEND TO $2.50 YEARLY

A dividend increase of 50 cents annually was voted yesterday by the Commercial Credit company with the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 62½ cents, against 50 cents previously. First payment under the new schedule, which lifts the yearly rate to $2.50 from $2, will be made Sept. 30 to holders of record Sept. 16.

Universal Products corporation declared a dividend of 40 cents, payable Sept. 30 to holders of record Sept. 20. The company paid dividends of 20 cents in each of the three previous quarters and 40 cents on Sept. 29, 1934.

Mapes Consolidated Manufacturing company reduced the quarterly dividend to 50 cents from 75 cents.

GAS FIRM MAKES PIPE LINE DEAL; BEATS DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Detroit City Gas company announced today it had contracted with the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company, to bring natural gas into Detroit for industrial uses.

The announcement created surprise at the city hall, since the council several days ago said a $4,000,000 bond issue for construction of a municipal distributing plant would be submitted to a vote in October.

The city also has been negotiating with the Panhandle Eastern, and said when the bond vote was announced that the Panhandle had given assurances no contract would be negotiated with the private company before the election.

RAIL INTERESTS COOL TO PLAN FOR BIG MERGER

Asked as Solution of 3 Roads' Problems.

A cool reception met a proposal presented yesterday for consolidation of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, St. Louis-San Francisco, and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroads.

C. & E. I. representatives were inclined to ignore the merger plan presented to the interstate commerce commission by the Rock Island preferred stockholders' protective committee. Other Rock Island interests were studying the proposal, with vigorous opposition indicated. No comments were forthcoming from Frisco quarters. All three roads are involved in financial difficulties and are seeking a way out through reorganization under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy laws.

Plan of Shareholder Group.

The shareholders' group, headed by Carter H. Harrison Jr., envisions a solution for the trio in merging their interests to form one of the largest rail systems in the nation. This is the only plan offered for the Rock Island since it filed a reorganization petition on June 7, 1933.

A special meeting of the Rock Island board of directors will be held in New York next Wednesday to face the issue raised here by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom the case is pending. Judge Wilkerson has issued an order requiring the road to show cause on Sept. 17 as to why no plan has been presented and why he should not set a date by which a plan must be filed or the proceedings ended.

Congress further brought the matter to a head by amending section 77 to require presentation of reorganization plans within six months of filing petitions, or, in the case of pending cases, six months after the amendment becomes effective.

The board also is expected to take a stand on the merger proposal.

Expected to Plead for Plan.

Harrison, who joined the board as representative of the preferred stock after the company went into bankruptcy, is expected to plead for his plan Wednesday. It was learned that Rock Island bondholders, who would hold a predominant position in any reorganization, had not studied the plan before it was announced, nor had the preferred stock committee submitted it to shareholders.

In New York it was said that the Rock Island management looks with disfavor on several features of the plan. One is the proposed $800,000,000 capitalization for the consolidated lines, of which 63 per cent would be funded debt. It was pointed out that many roads have ridden themselves into receivership and bankruptcy on such a ratio and it was contended that the ICC would turn down the plan on this provision alone.

Charles M. Thomson, trustee for the C. & E. I., said that he failed to "see the slightest excuse or justification" for the merger. A hearing on reorganization plans is to be held Sept. 17 before the commerce commission, he pointed out, and indicated a belief that this will proceed as if no merger had been proposed.

States C. & E. I.'s Position.

"It would surprise me very much," he said, "if any cognizance is taken of the proposal. From all I have heard the Rock Island and Frisco present highly involved situations, and sharp scaling down will be required. Our property, on the other hand, requires only a small improvement in business to lift it out of the red."

A plan for reorganization of the C. & E. I. has been presented to the commission informally, and the road is preparing its own proposal now. Minier Sargent, son of the president of the Chicago and North Western road, who is associated with Ernest F. Ballard as counsel in drawing the plan, said it will be ready by Sept. 17.

Financial interests blinked when they read of the merger ambitions. It reminded them of the old days of secret conferences, buying of "key lines," and complicated negotiations when merger aspirations were many.

Faces Other Obstacles.

They recalled that the ICC has bestowed its blessing on union of the Rock Island and Frisco under its 1932 consolidation outline. As to the C. & E. I., however, they, too, shook their heads. The ICC had placed it in a different system, and, furthermore, they doubted that the Van Sweringens would permit Chesapeake and Ohio to relinquish its $8,000,000 investment in C. & E. I. to aid the merger.

Rock Island groups, while silent, were studying the plan with skeptical eyes, it was said.

Doubt was expressed that the earnings could support the proposed capital structure, and it was a creditor viewpoint that a much more drastic scaling down of shareholder interests is imperative. It was learned that one plan contained such drastic cutting that it was shelved for the time being, despite the fact that it was viewed by at least one creditor group as the most liberal offer that could be made.

Chicago Stock Market Seat Sells for $5,000, Up $800

Sale of a Chicago Stock exchange membership for $5,000 was announced yesterday. This was up $800 from the last previous price, and is the top price for a seat since Feb. 15, 1934, when a sale was made at that price. Early this year memberships sold as low as $2,000.

Rails Report Heavy Holiday Trafic Volume

America's annual Labor day jaunts got under way last night as people in cities began their trek to the country over the holiday, and country dwellers started moving cityward.

Railroads operating in all directions from Chicago reported the addition of extra sections to their trains, and inquiries and ticket sales for use today or tomorrow indicated a heavy business.

Estimates of passenger trafic movements this year varied widely, but all prognosticators agreed that the current volume would equal if not exceed the total last year. The public, it was explained, is earning more and is investing part of it in travel deferred for five depression years.

Some Predict Big Gains.

Some lines predicted an increase in passenger movement of as much as 35 per cent over 1934. Others contented themselves with the statement that the outlook is better, but all are making preparations for handling larger crowds. The movement is spread throughout the country and cars have been shunted all over the lines to care for the volume.

Last year Chicago was the focal point for excursions and mass passenger movement because of A Century of Progress Exposition. This year, railroad officials said, has a larger movement from the city than to it.

Special rates were inaugurated over the week end to stimulate business. In some cases cent a mile fares were established for coaches and 2 cents a mile in sleeping cars. Some roads are charging five-sixths of the one way rate for a round trip.

Roads' Trafic Estimates.

The Chicago and North Western expects to handle 40,000 to 50,000 persons, exclusive of suburban passengers, through the Chicago terminal over the week-end. The 400, mile a minute train, will operate in two sections.

The Rock Island estimates its volume will be 25 per cent larger this year, with heaviest travel between Chicago, Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City, and Peoria.

The Illinois Central expects to encounter the same increase in its volume between Chicago and New Orleans and intermediate points, while the New York Central estimates its outbound movement from Chicago 10 per cent ahead of 1934.

Burlington Business Good.

The Burlington reports business is exceptionally good, with the Zephyrs booked solidly and other trains well filled. The Milwaukee is running two sections of its Hiawatha, and expects corresponding increases on other trains. Suburban coaches are being pressed into service to care for the crowds on short runs, such as that to Lake Geneva.

The Pennsylvania expects to use 500 extra cars on its western division comprising Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, and Missouri.

The heaviest Labor day holiday travel by water to Michigan resorts since 1929 will start this morning when the S. S. Roosevelt weighs anchor at the Michigan avenue bridge docks as the advance guard of four other ships bound for Michigan with Chicagoans. Passage on other boats to vacation resorts is reported to be completely booked.

CALIFORNIANS PROTEST ORDER GIVEN CHICAGOAN

Sacramento, Cal., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The attention of Gov. Frank F. Merriam was directed today to protests by California companies over the decision of the board of equalization to award a $107,250 contract to a Chicago manufacturer for furnishing a two-year supply of 150,000,000 liquor tax stamps.

After consulting with Arlin Stockburger, director of finance, who must approve the contract before it can be executed, the governor said:

"The director has a right to know why the contract was awarded to an outside party at an increased price of about $60,000 when the state is making every effort to bolster and support home industry. If any price advantages are to be given, I would be in favor of giving them to California companies."

Stockburger said representatives of the companies had told him they could guarantee to do the work as well as the eastern company and that their bids were made at 34 cents and 44 cents a thousand stamps compared with 71 cents for the Chicago concern. The director said protests also had been made to him by labor organizations.

Utah Radio Products Co. Meeting Delayed to Sept. 6

FORD OFFICIALS WON'T TALK OF REPORTED NEW CAR IN $1,000 CLASS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Recurring rumors that the Ford Motor company is soon to enter the medium priced field were revived here today with the report that an announcement is expected about Oct. 1. Prices of the new car, it is said, will range from $1,000 to $1,200.

It is reported the new model will be named the Edsel after Henry Ford's son or Edison after the late Thomas A. Edison, long a close friend of the elder Ford. One Ford official said today the rumors were "very much out of order," but denial or confirmation was not forthcoming.

Meanwhile, it was learned that expansion and modernization at the Rouge river plant, to cost about $20,000,000, will be expanded to $30,000,000.

WEEK'S FREIGHT TOTAL NEARS 10 MONTH HIGH

Volume 3.1 Per Cent Above Year Ago.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Freight trafic last week rose to the third highest level since last October, amounting to 626,373 cars, an increase of 19,456 cars, or 3.1 per cent over a year ago, and 11,367 cars, or 1.7 per cent, above the preceding week according to figures released today by the Association of American Railroads.

In the preceding week of this year there was an increase of 13,218 cars, or 2.2 per cent, over a year ago, which was the first time in ten weeks that a gain had been shown. However, last week's rise was slightly less than seasonal.

Total Below Two Years Ago.

The week's total failed to equal the level of two years ago, falling 11,137 cars below the 637,510 cars for that week. The gain over the preceding week of this year was largely due to a heavier coal movement, while the pickup in miscellaneous freight contributed most to the rise over a year ago.

Loadings since the beginning of the year to Aug. 24 totaled 19,826,999 cars, compared with 20,212,971 in the corresponding period of last year and 18,373,831 two years ago.

Miscellaneous freight amounted to 240,047 cars, an increase of 1,330 above the preceding week, 18,370 above 1934, and 21,554 above 1933. Less than carlot merchanlise was 159,794, an increase of 480, but a reduction of 940 below 1934 and 9,028 below 1933. Coal numbered 99,933 cars, an increase of 9,940, but a reduction of 2,062 below 1934 and 30,403 below 1933.

Grain Total Declines.

Grain and grain products totaled 40,452, a decrease of 2,362, but an increase of 3,749 above 1934 and 11,725 above 1933. Western district loadings were 27,246, an increase of 2,352 above 1934. Live stock required 15,042, an increase of 763, but a reduction of 17,267 below 1934 and 3,762 below 1933. Western district loadings were 11,431, a decrease of 16,238 below 1934.

Forest products totaled 30,756, an increase of 216 cars, 9,196 above 1934 and 3,574 above 1933. Ore took 35,204, an increase of 648 and 7,459 above 1934, but 3,514 below 1933. Coke used 5,185, an increase of 352 cars, 951 above 1934, and 1,283 below 1933.

BRITISH RAILROAD TO OBSERVE 100TH ANNIVERSARY

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 30. — The Great Western railway, founded ten years after the opening of the first public steam railway in the world, and now linking London and the industrial mainland with Bristol, Gloucester, South Wales and Devon, will celebrate its 100th anniversary tomorrow.

Isambard Kingdom Brunel, the company's first chief engineer, was the English born son of a Frenchman, Marc Isambard Brunel, who lived many years in New York, where he went with a forged passport during the French revolution in 1792.

Brunel lost a hard fight for a broad gauge line which would have made speeds of more than a hundred miles an hour safe and comfortable. Nevertheless, the company's Cheltenham Flier recently covered the 77¼ miles between Swindon and London at an average of 81.6 miles an hour.

HOLC Opens West Wacker Drive Collection Office

The Home Owners' Loan corporation announced yesterday it has opened a new collection office at 215 West Wacker drive where home owners may make monthly cash payments on loans made by the corporation in refinancing their properties. Until now such payments have been made at the regional offices at 20 North Wacker drive. Henry G. Zander Jr., state manager of the Illinois agency of the HOLC, said payments by home owners have been coming in satisfactorily.

E. I. DU PONT DE NEMOURS & CO.
Wilmington, Delaware, August 19, 1935

The Board of Directors has this day declared a dividend for the quarter, of ninety cents [90c] a share and an extra dividend of thirty-five cents [35c] a share on the outstanding $20 par value common stock of this Company, payable September 14, 1935, to stockholders of record at the close of business on August 28, 1935; also dividend of $1.50 a share on the outstanding debenture stock of this Company, payable on October 25, 1935, to stockholders of record at the close of business on October 10, 1935.

W. F. RASKOB, Secretary.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED BY THE Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., until o'clock a. m., September 10, 1935, for furnishing dedusted coal screenings, to the Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill. Apply for proposals to the Supply Officer, Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., or to the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts. CHARLES CONARD, Paymaster General of the Navy.

FINDS RAILWAYS HIT HARDEST BY NEW DEAL LAWS

Magazine Estimates Costs Up Quarter Billion.

New Deal policies have hit railroads and railway equipment and supply industries harder than any other lines of business, the Railway Age declares in its current issue. If these policies are held constitutional they will, together with increased wages completed April 1, boost operating expenses at least a quarter billion dollars yearly, the magazine says.

"Railway operating expenses have been increased by almost every important policy directly or indirectly attributable to the federal government in the last two years and have been further increased by legislation passed during the recent session of congress," the statement continues.

Railway Deficits Larger.

The journal says while profits of 260 large corporations increased 18 per cent in the first half of 1935 over last year, railway operating deficits for the first five months gained 93 per cent, attributed entirely to higher operating expenses.

"NRA increased the average price of coal paid by railroads from $1.54 a ton in the first six months of 1933 to $1.89 in the first half of 1935. Based on actual consumption these price advances increased coal costs $12,500,000 in the first half of 1935. The Guffey coal bill recently enacted into law will add another 7 to 10 millions annually.

"Restoration of railway wage cuts is costing $13,000,000 monthly. The retirement act just passed will cost in the year about $60,000,000."

Fewer Employed than Last Year.

Railway Age says the average number of railroad employés from April to July, inclusive, was 40,000 less than in the same period of 1934. In addition buying from manufacturers was curtailed sharply, resulting in corresponding losses in employment in industries affected by railway purchases.

"Railways obviously must have an increase in gross earnings or a reduction in operating expenses," the magazine adds. "The only way they can get a sufficiently substantial increase in gross is through a large expansion in industrial production which will increase freight handled. Possibly this will occur, as it did in the latter half of 1932, when car loadings in October were 31 per cent larger than in July and net operating income increased from $11,600,000 to almost $64,000,000 in October.

"If large increases in trafic do not occur soon it appears that railway managements will have no reasonable alternative to seeking a reduction in wages. There is no other means by which the downward trend of railway employment, net operating income, and buying can be arrested."

REPORTS SWIFT INTERNATIONAL EARNS DIVIDEND

Compañia Swift Internacional is currently earning its dividend, Charles H. Swift, president, said yesterday in a special message to stockholders. The statement was made, it was said, to still disquieting rumors concerning the company which have appeared in the last two months.

"A tax suit against one of Swift International's subsidiaries in the province of Santa Fe, Argentina, is of minor importance and will have no appreciable effect on earnings.

"Political conditions in Argentina affecting the meat industry, while disturbed, are a manifestation of the unsettlement evident in most agricultural countries. It is not expected there will be any serious interruption to the successful operation of our business. As stated in my report to the shareholders of March 29 last, the Argentine government has always accorded equitable treatment to meat companies operating in that country."

"Fred Six," he wrote, "who has represented the company in important capacities in South America for the last seventeen years, has been appointed general manager to succeed Burt Kennedy, who was killed in an automobile accident July 16."

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Utility Holding company issues developed a strong recovery tendency in today's bond market, gains during the peak of the movement ranging from 1 to 4 points. The move was particularly noticeable in an otherwise quiet and narrow trading session.

Second grade rail bonds were fractionally better, with gains showing for Frisco, Rock Island, and Chicago and Eastern Illinois issues in response to proposed merger plans for those roads.

In the industrial section packing company issues developed resistance to the down trend of the last week or two and recovered major fractions. High grade bonds displayed a stronger tone and were in fair demand.

U. S. Bonds Lose Early Gains.

Government bonds had a moderate rally early in the day but prices fell off in later trading, resulting in mixed changes for the list. Heaviest transactions were in the treasury 2⅞s, which finished 6-32 down. Other losses ranged from 2-32 to 10-32, while the final gains amounted to 2-32 to 6-32.

The turnover in the government department was not quite as large as in Thursday's proceedings, some $2,940,000 of the federal changing hands, against $4,600,000.

Several Corporate Issues Rise.

There were several substantial gainers in the corporate groups. Among these were Interborough Rapid Transit 6s, up 1⅜; International Hydro-Electric 6s, up 1¼; Nickel Plate 4½s, up 1, and Paramount-Publix 5½s, up 1. Improvement of fractions to about a point was shown by some bonds of Great Northern, New York Central, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Illinois Steel, Peoples Gas, Union Pacific, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, Western Union, Chile Copper, Remington-Rand, and United States Rubber.

Utah Radio Products.

Investors' Guide: Please forward report on Utah Radio.—W. N. E.

Answer: Utah Radio Products company, Chicago, manufactures radio cabinets and parts and cedar chests. It is one of the few small companies in the radio business that survived the deflation that was felt to such an extreme degree in this industry. It did not, however, escape its share of losses, having failed to show a profit since 1930.

Operations in 1935 have been affected by a unique situation in the industry. The season is running about 60 days behind normal, due to the fact that manufacturers have held up production in order to be able to obtain metal radio tubes. This is an innovation on the market and tube manufacturers had not been able to fill the demand.

In 1934 the company lost $101,000, against losses of $34,000 in 1933, $316,000 in 1932 and $392,000 in 1931. On Dec. 31, 1933, profit and loss deficit was $468,000. In 1934 the company reduced its capitalization, which transferred almost $1,800,000 from capital stock account to surplus. As a result the profit and loss deficit was eliminated and surplus on Dec. 31, 1934, was $1,013,000.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1934, including $154,000 cash, were $802,000 and current liabilities were $120,000. Nothing has been paid on the stock since 1929. It is purely speculative.

A Fund for Flowers.

Investors' Guide: Your opinion and advice on the following proposition will be appreciated. Am considering establishing a fund for cut flowers to be placed twice a week in a mausoleum of a local cemetery. There are two plans I have in mind. One is to make the cemetery company beneficiary of a paid-up New England Mutual Life Insurance company policy and after my death they will mail check every month for 30 years, when the option ends. Plan two is to put the funds with a trust company, they to pay the cemetery company every month the income, which would be perpetual as the principal is never to be used.—M. L.

Answer: We have contacted several leading trust companies. They have informed us that they do not take trust funds of this type. This plan therefore would probably not be available.

New England Mutual Life Insurance company is a large, substantial organization with a good reputation. Plan number one appears to us to be a sound method of accomplishing the purpose you have in mind.

HEAVY HOGS SELL HIGHER AS LARD STOCKS DWINDLE

Others Steady to Lower; Sheep Strong.

Big lard type butcher hogs sold 5 to 10 cents higher yesterday in an active trade, but other weights were rather slow and steady to 10 cents lower.

In view of the low stocks of lard and the heavy out of storage movement the last few weeks, it was not surprising that buying interest turned to the classes of hogs that will yield lard. Such kinds fell to a relatively low price position at the end of last week, but have scored substantial advances since and now are selling 50 to 70 cents above the recent low spot.

Top Price Is $14.05.

Prime 282 pound butchers topped the list at $14.05, processing tax included, only 5 cents under the peak paid for selected new crop 190 to 230 pound averages. Well finished 293 pound averages were sold up to $13.95 and 330 pound butchers brought $13.55. The average for all droves at $13 rose 5 points.

Receipts were extremely light at all packing centers again. Only 5,000 arrived at Chicago, as compared with 7,014 the previous Friday and 14,284 a year ago. The eleven leading markets handled a combined total of 152,000 during the first five days of this week, 30,000 less than a week ago and 90,000 less than a year ago. Two years ago these markets received 1,099,000 head, including 750,000 pigs and sows killed by order of the AAA.

Sheep Point Higher.

A larger run of sheep and lambs met broader outlet and prices were steady to 10 cents higher. Packers bought selected native ewe and wether lambs up to $8.85, while both fat and feeder westerns sold at $8.75. Yearlings went to country buyers for feeding at $6.25. Farmers are paying the highest prices in six years for thin western feeding lambs to utilize a lot of cheap roughage that will otherwise go to waste.

Only 1,500 cattle arrived, not enough to establish a fair list of quotations in all departments of the trade. A few scattered sales were made at about steady levels, with none in the receipts good enough to bring more than $11.10. Most sales were made from $10.40 to $11.00, commoner kinds ranging down to $6.50.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per cwt collected for the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are for 100 lbs of live animal.

BUTTER DROPS ⅛ TO ⅜ CENT; EGGS UNCHANGED TO LOWER

Liberal profit taking sales developed in butter futures yesterday, with the close on the Chicago Mercantile exchange ⅛ to ⅜ cents lower and the November delivery closing at 26 cents per pound. Eggs were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, with October at 25¼ cents per dozen.

While cooler weather is expected to improve the quality of cream and may result in somewhat heavier production of butter, there was a net outward movement of supplies from cold storage at the four leading markets. Withdrawals of eggs from storage were 400 cases in excess of a year ago. Cheese has been selling at about a 16 ratio as compared with the price of butter, compared with a normal difference of 2.2. Shortage in stocks of cheese and a large surplus of butter have contributed to the abnormal spread between the price of the two commodities. Sales of butter were 117 cars, eggs 45 cars, and cheese 1 car. Prices follow:

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP)—SILK—Raw, futures closed steady, 1½ to 3 cents lower; sales were 1,010 bales. October, $1.71½ per lb, bid; December, $1.67½; January, $1.67¼. Open market quotations [sixty day basis], Shanghai steam filature 78 per cent seriplane, 20-22s, $1.60. Canton double extra "A" 14-16s, $1.37½. Japanese special crack double extra 81 per cent seriplane, 13-15s, $1.87½.

COTTON CLOSES IRREGULAR AFTER NARROW MOVEMENTS

Cotton futures held within relatively narrow limits yesterday, with outside interest light. There was some evening up for the double holiday. Reports were current that the pool was selling the October delivery and replacing by purchases of the July futures. Closing trades were 2 points lower to 7 points higher in Chicago and 4 points lower to 11 points higher in other markets, with the distant futures showing the most strength.

The world's supply of all cotton for the 1935-'36 season will probably be about the same as in 1934-'35, according to the department of agriculture. The increase in production is expected to be offset by a decrease in the carryover. The world's supply last season was 39,300,000 bales. Foreign production is expected to reach a new high level.

Consumption of American cotton last season was reduced 2,350,000 bales as compared with 1933-34 while consumption of the foreign crop increased 2,350,000 bales and exceeded world's consumption of the American grown product by 2,800,000 bales. During the last ten years the world consumption of American cotton averaged 3,000,000 bales in excess of foreign. Spot cotton closed unchanged to 5 points lower with New Orleans, 10.65 cents; Houston and Galveston, 10.60 cents, and New York, 10.75 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

ESTIMATES UTILITIES WILL SPEND 2 BILLIONS ON EQUIPMENT IN YEAR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—An estimate that utility operating companies should spend about 2 billion dollars in the next year for increased power generating equipment, was made today by Basil Manly, acting chairman of the federal power commission. He expressed the same optimistic view as that given recently in other administration circles familiar with the current program to increase power consumption and extend the usage of electricity into heretofore neglected territory.

The estimate was made by Manly following a call on the President to discuss primarily a survey of power rates by the commission, which will be made public soon. In response to questions, he said he did not think the power commission would find difficulty in financing its share of the administration's utility holding company program until congress meets again in January.

Funds for the enforcement of the holding company act were included in the third deficiency bill that died with the adjournment of congress as a result of Senator Long's filibuster. The deficiency bill would have granted an additional $1,250,000 to the commission to carry its share of work under the holding company bill and $750,000 to the securities exchange commission.

NEARBY LARD FUTURES UP AS TRADE INTERESTS BUY

Buying of September and October lard, credited to trade interests and regarded as reflecting sales of the cash product, advanced the nearby deliveries 2½ to 5 cents yesterday while the December future was 7½ cents lower. Trade as a whole was of a pre-holiday character with no transactions reported in the January and May deliveries. Scattered liquidation caused a decline of 40 cents in September clear bellies [salt pork], and the close was at the bottom. Spot lard closed at $15.87; loose, $16.12; leaf, $16, and bellies, $18.87 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

ACT NOW

It is to your particular advantage to register now even if you cannot start your course until later. Call, phone, or write at once.

The easy-to-learn Burnham System quickly enables you to become a skilled beauty operator. Plenty of living models. You learn by doing—rather than by studying. Each teacher a specialist. Fewer pupils per teacher; 64 years' knowing how to teach gives you a flying start.

SEE FOR YOURSELF WHY MORE GIRLS ENROLL IN BURNHAM'S THAN IN ANY OTHER BEAUTY SCHOOL.

BURNHAM'S AWARDS TRIPS TO PARIS TO STUDENT. Geneve Huffman, winner of semi-annual Burnham scholarship for efficiency while in training, sailed June 19 on S. S. Manhattan with all expenses paid. Burnham's offers opportunities not found elsewhere.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES. Pay for MOST of your tuition after graduation. Open every day and on Monday, Wednesday, Friday evenings until 9 p. m.

Crash of East Tower of World's Fair Sky Ride Provides Thrilling Spectacle for More than 100,000

TRIBUNE CAMERAS RECORD VARIOUS STAGES OF THE CRASH OF THE EAST TOWER OF THE SKY RIDE ON WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS; MORE THAN 100,000 WITNESS EVENT—Series of pictures made yesterday afternoon as the east tower of the Sky Ride on the grounds of A Century of Progress was brought to earth. At the right the tower is shown as it appeared when electricity ignited the thermite which melted away sections of the legs. The other pictures show the 628 foot steel tower at various angles before it struck the ground. They were all taken from the mainland, looking east. The tower fell to the north, in the direction of the Adler planetarium. More than 100,000 spectators on the lake front and in buildings and points of vantage witnessed the thrilling sight. Hundreds of policemen kept all persons off the island for hours before the crash. The west tower of the Sky Ride was brought down some time ago but by a different method.

HOW CRASH OF EAST TOWER OF SKY RIDE ON WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS APPEARED FROM AN AIRPLANE—Picture taken yesterday by Chicago Tribune photographer flying over the grounds of A Century of Progress just as the east tower of the Sky Ride was crashing to earth. The steel framework fell to the north. The picture also affords a view of the northern part of the Fair grounds after the buildings which were frequented by 40 million visitors have been wrecked. It was estimated that 100,000 persons were in the immediate vicinity to see the Sky Ride crash, and many thousands more witnessed the spectacle from other points of vantage. Smoke from the thermite which melted away the legs of the tower can be seen rising into the air.

ETHIOPIA SELLS OIL RIGHTS TO U. S. AND BRITISH INTERESTS—The imperial seal of Ethiopia and the signature of Emperor Haile Selassie, both shown here, have been affixed to convention granting 75 year oil concession to American and British capital. The charter covers more than half of African empire. (Story on page 1.)

"HARLEM EAGLE" TRAINS ETHIOPIAN SOLDIERS TO FIGHT ITALIANS—Col. Hubert Julian (right), the "Black Eagle of Harlem," shown in action in Addis Ababa as he aids in training of Ethiopian forces to oppose Italy. Recent dispatches have reported that Col. Julian has been stripped of his rank and succeeded by John C. Robinson of Chicago.
